EXTRA SESSION THREATENED IF FOOD BILL FAILS

New Measure Seeks 25 Millions.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 14.—[Special.]—The Democratic-insurgent Republican senate coalition knocked the lid off the political pot today and with warning finger pointed out to the administration the filibuster on appropriation bills which has been stewing inside ever since the beginning of the session.

In solemn and in angry speeches by Senator Joseph T. Robinson [Dem., Ark.], minority leader, and a dozen others, the coalition gave notice that unless the administration approves a substantial government appropriation for food for the hungry the supply bills will be waylaid and an extra session brought about.

Forced to recede from the amendment it added to the drought relief bill to provide an additional $15,000,000 for food loans, or else see the entire $45,000,000 measure indefinitely held up, the coalition introduced a second and even broader amendment which it will seek to attach to the appropriation bill for the department of agriculture which was reported to the senate this morning.

Provides for Donations.

The new amendment calls for an appropriation of $25,000,000 to be given to the Red Cross "to supply food for persons otherwise unable to obtain the same." Not only does it go beyond the amendment to the drought relief bill in amount, but it removes all geographic limits and provides that the money shall be distributed throughout the country, and instead of loans it calls for outright donations.

Should the coalition find itself unable to rally the two-thirds necessary to suspend the rules and saddle the agriculture bill with this rider, the drought relief amendment will still remain a second string to their bow. Having been twice approved by the senate, it could be added to an appropriation bill, it is claimed, by a majority vote.

On the face of the present situation an extra session is considered inevitable unless the President gives in and admits of a food distribution of a sort which will satisfy his opponents.

Solid Front Presented.

Earlier talk of an extra session dealt with the insurgents' demands and was discounted because of the comparatively small number of senators willing to sit into the summer for the sake of an issue like that of power. But the present movement sees the Democrats and their dozen or more radical allies presenting a solid front, and their ranks contain several more than half the senate.

Since congress reconvened Jan. 5, the appropriation bills pending in the senate have stood stockstill. Each day has seen Senator Reed Smoot [Rep., Utah] patiently arrange the pages of the interior department appropriation bill on his desk and then sit, and sit, and sit some more, while other debate filled the chamber. Only forty-two working days. Saturdays counted, remain until March 4.

By its strategic retreat on the drought relief bill today the coalition won the advantage of initiative and position. Senator Wesley L. Jones [Rep., Wash], chairman of the senate conferees on the drought bill, returned to report a deadlock and to recommend that the senate recede.

Robinson Criticizes Tactics.

As Senator Robinson phrased it:

"Twice the senate has marched up the hill in solid phalanx. Once we retreated down the hill and now we are about to do the same thing again. The administration leaders in the house can delay or defeat the feed, seed, and fertilizer loans indefinitely, and they propose to do it.

"They hold the whip hand, and defiantly declare, 'Take it as you find it or leave it.'"

The coalition took it—and the tactical advantage with it. There could be no waiting on the drought relief bill, but on the appropriation bills the coalition can balk in the shafts and no harm would be done until the present appropriations run out June 30.

Delay Is Threatened.

"The agricultural appropriation bill is coming on," Senator Robinson said, "the deficiency appropriation bill is coming on and if it is possible to write a fair and adequate relief provision into either one or both of those bills we shall do it, and if the administration remains obstinate they will be in the tomb of just legislation at the other end of the capitol for a long period.

President Informed of Findings.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 14.—[Special.]—With several members absent the Wickersham commission will meet again tomorrow to consider sending its report on prohibition to the White House. It is reported the long awaited document will be placed in the hands of the President tomorrow, but confirmation was lacking tonight.

President Hoover, however, has been apprised of the contents of the report and is already at work on the White House message which will accompany the commission's findings when they go to congress. Whether he will seize this opportunity to throw any further light on his view on dry legislation has not been made known. At the White House today it was said the report would go to congress almost as soon as received. The plan is to make it public when it reaches the senate and house.

Guard Report's Contents.

Although much speculative matter has been printed thus far, the eleven members of the commission have closely guarded the exact contents of their report. Some high officials who intimate they know what the commission has done say the report probably will be disappointing to those who are looking for recommendations for radical changes in the dry laws.

But four members, including Chairman George W. Wickersham, were present at today's scheduled meeting. They immediately adjourned until tomorrow.

WETS WIN REPEAL TEST

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 14.—[Special.]—Anti-prohibition won its first test of strength in the house today amid a storm of exhortations that Republican drys take the lesson of the November Democratic landslide to heart and set the G. O. P. right by following the mandate of the wet and dry referendum.

By a vote of 79 to 59, Thomas J. O'Grady's bill to repeal the Illinois search and seizure act was advanced to second reading without reference to a committee. The action required 77 votes. Fifteen members were absent, of whom thirteen are listed as wet by Mr. O'Grady, who says today's showing indicates that the repealer, when placed on passage in the house, will command more than 90 votes.

Liberal Sentiment Growing.

The vote today, considering the absentees, was accounted as the greatest display of liberal sentiment in the house in many years. Two years ago the repealer passed the house by the scant constitutional majority—77. Today was the sixth time O'Grady has put in his measure, which has thrice passed the house and thrice been stopped by the senate.

Forty-seven Democrats and 32 Republicans supported the test vote on the repealer. It was almost an even break between Cook county and downstate on the Democratic side, for 23 Cook county Democrats and 24 downstate Democrats voted yes. No Cook county Democrat voted against it, and seven were absent.

Twenty Cook county Republicans voted aye, and three were absent. Five Cook county Republicans voted with the drys: David I. Swanson, Mrs. Anna Wilmarth Ickes, Josephine Perry, Robert M. Woodward, and Ralph E. Church. Of the 79 affirmative votes, 43 were from Cook county and 36 from downstate.

Drys from Downstate.

The dry vote, against advancing the repealer, came from downstate almost entirely. Of the 59 negative votes, 54 came from downstate, 41 of them being Republicans and 13 Democrats. The other five were Cook county Republicans.

Among the prominent downstate Democrats supporting the O'Grady repealers was Truman A. Snell of Carlinville, who in other sessions voted on the dry side.

An onslaught on the Anti-Saloon league and the "invisible government" came from Frank A. McCarthy, Republican of Elgin. He urged downstate Republicans to stick to the state platform which declared for the referendum.

"This isn't a party question," he said, "but a vital question on which you will be voted up or down next election. In voting on this, you are either answering the mandate of the people or saying you are above the mandate.

"The November election taught Republicans that if their party is to

Home Life of an "It" Girl Told in Court

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 14.—[Special.] — Rather than pay $125,000 to Daisy De Boe, her discharged confidential secretary, for things that, Daisy said, "Clara and I know all about," Clara Bow chose to prosecute her erstwhile companion. So many of the "things" Clara and Daisy "knew about" came out in Superior Judge William Doran's court this afternoon.

These things were laid before the jury in a 30 page statement which Miss De Boe made to Blayney Matthews of the district attorney's office last Nov. 4. The statement painted a vivid picture of the hectic home life of the famous "It" girl of the films and through it flitted in rapid succession a numerous parade of "boy friends," including Gary Cooper, film star; Harry Richman, Broadway night club favorite; Dr. Earl Pearson of Dallas, Tex., and Rex Bell, picturesque movie cowboy, Miss Bow's current fiancé.

Liquor and Petting.

It portrayed Clara as a beauty purchaser and consumer of whisky, an inveterate "petter" who never parted with a love letter, and a scatterbrain who refused to trouble about business so long as she had enough money in the bank to keep her going. She was accused of having tried to kill Daisy once. Incidentally Miss De Boe admitted to Matthews that she had embezzled about $35,000 from Clara in a little over a year.

Both Clara and Rex Bell were in court today. Clara wore black goggles to ward off the gaze of the curious, but Rex appeared in full movie splendor.

A Knight Without Spurs.

Mr. Bell's picturesqueness suffered yesterday when court attachés, while allowing him to wear the ten gallon sombrero and woolly chaps of his profession, forced him to park his big gold plated spurs outside, on the theory they were deadly weapons in a makeup otherwise harmless, and pleasing to the eye.

He had some embarrassing moments today when he took the stand to tell of receiving a lot of canceled checks from Miss De Boe, which he turned over to the authorities. Nathan Freedman, Daisy's lawyer, made the film broncho buster's ears turn red when he quoted one of Rex's telegrams to Clara. It read:

"Dear sweetheart darling baby. I do miss you and this is only the beginning."

Clara herself took the stand late in the afternoon and charged that "Daisy came to see me and asked her job back after she visited Mr. Gilbert." The visit to Gilbert included Daisy's demand for $125,000.

She Weeps on Stand.

Attorney Freedman sent the actress into a spasm of tears by questioning her about one of Miss De Boe's charges—that Clara had reported a $750 watch as lost, collected money from an insurance company, and then, after finding the watch again, of failing to notify or repay the insurance company.

In a choked voice, Clara replied she had recently sent the insurance company her check for $750.

Freedman made the girl fighting mad by asking her if Bell was her private secretary and whether he lived on Bedford drive.

"Bedford drive! That's my home. Of course he doesn't. How dare you?" cried Clara.

JAILED BY LYLE FOR YEAR; WRIT WINS FREEDOM

Terry Druggan, a minor valley gang hoodlum who rose to affluence through his violations of the Volstead act, spent a few hours yesterday in the county jail as a result of a contempt of court sentence imposed by Judge John H. Lyle in the Felony court. Judge Lyle put Druggan in jail yesterday morning and Judge Joseph Burke of the Criminal court let him out on bond yesterday evening.

Terry, who was meek when he stood before Judge Lyle, showed some of his old time spirit in a whispered but lively tilt with Assistant State's Attorney James Brown at the later hearing on the habeas corpus writ before Judge Burke. The prosecutor was protesting the solicitude of Druggan's lawyers and friends for his welfare and during the course of his argument he suggested that Druggan "be given a lily."

Promises Prosecutor "a Lily."

"I'll give you a lily before we get through," Druggan growled at him, the prosecutor said, although Judge Burke was not apprised of his statement.

"What is that you said?" said the prosecutor to Druggan.

"Never mind; you shut up," Druggan's lawyers ordered, before he could make additional remarks.

In Judge Lyle's court the judge got off the bench to see that Druggan was put into a cell like any other prisoner in the court. In Judge Burke's court Druggan seated himself in a chair in an anteroom and smoked cigarets and made wise cracks to his friends and the court attachés while other friends and his lawyers scurried around to get a $5,000 cash bond.

Before Judge Lyle First.

Druggan, with his lawyer, Charles Soelke, appeared in Judge Lyle's court on two charges, one of contempt of court and the other for vagrancy. The contempt charge grew out of Druggan's dodging a previous hearing on the vagrancy charge in Judge Lyle's court by sending word that he was ill in his suite at the Morrison hotel. Later the suite was raided and it was found that Druggan was enjoying a stroll.

Attorney Soelke asked for a change of venue on the vagrancy charge and a continuance on the contempt case. The change of venue was granted, but the continuance denied.

"Druggan has been kidding the court," said Assistant State's Attorneys James Brown and Harry Ditchburne, in urging contempt sentence. "He has been laughing up his sleeve and insulting the honor of the court."

Attorney Soelke argued that Druggan fled the hotel because he feared arrest and that incarceration would be injurious to his health.

Urges Leniency by Court.

"Surely the court is not going to take advantage of my client because of a technicality of the law," argued Attorney Soelke. "We will bring physicians to court to prove that he was really ill.

"I have read criticisms of your honor in the newspapers. I hope you will not be hard on my client because of them."

"I am too busy with these public enemies without answering the criticisms of their friends," replied the judge. "This man is guilty of flagrant contempt of this court and is sentenced to one year in the county jail."

Motions for bond pending appeal, stay of execution, and other technical motions were promptly denied by the judge. Druggan, wearing a sickly smile, his face having gone pale, was hustled by a bailiff into the rear room. A short time later an attaché of the court whispered into the judge's ear and he went to the back to find Druggan seated comfortably in a chair drinking a bottle of milk.

Ordered Taken to Cell.

"What's going on here?" demanded the judge. "Take that man and lock him up like the rest of the prisoners."

Druggan was locked up and at 3 o'clock was sent over to the jail.

At 4 o'clock Attorney Soelke appeared with his writ of habeas corpus, which was assigned to Judge Burke. In a few minutes Assistant State's Attorney Euclid Taylor, colored, appeared for the state. He objected to the issuance of the writ, but after a

HOODLUM SLAIN IN AUTO; POLICE BLAME ALKY WAR

Enrico Bertocchi, 30 years old, 2500 South Avers avenue, known to the police as a minor hoodlum and who, his wife says, has recently been allied with Al Capone's lesser lights, was killed last night in what police believe was another flareup of the west side alky war that has claimed half a dozen victims within the last month.

With Dr. William Hejna, a dentist, of 1930 South Clarence avenue, Berwyn, Bertocchi was riding west in 25th street about 6:30. A sedan with three men drew alongside Dr. Hejna's car between Rockwell street and Washtenaw avenue, and a sawed off shotgun was fired at Bertocchi at point blank range. The top of his head was blown off.

Dr. Hejna's story was that he had met Bertocchi in a pharmacy at Blue Island and Western avenues and that he was taking him to his office to fix his teeth. He had known Bertocchi for five years, he said, but did not know what business he was engaged in. Bertocchi had been arrested several times for disorderly conduct. Mrs. Bertocchi told police her husband had been employed for the last month at a soup kitchen for homeless and hungry at 925 South State street, ostensibly sponsored by Capone.

LAKE COUNTY TO CALL WOMEN JURORS FEB. 10

Women will be called to serve on Lake county juries beginning Feb. 10, according to an announcement last night by Sheriff Lester Tiffany.

The regular panel prepared by the county commissioners before the November election, at which women won the right to serve, contained the names of 30 women but Tiffany recently obtained permission from County Judge Perry L. Persons to prepare additional panels of women only.

Tiffany's action ends the long fight of Lake county club women, led by Mrs. Jeannette Aiken of Winthrop Harbor, for the right to jury service. Mrs. Aiken, who this week announced her candidacy for the county board of supervisors, is the first woman ever to aspire to membership in that group. She also is the daughter of the first white woman born in Lake county.

Store Owner, 63, Routs Three Armed Bandits

Walter Kowalski, 63 years old, opened fire last night when three armed men entered his delicatessen at 614 North Ashland avenue and commanded him to "Stick 'em up." The bandits fled, firing as they ran. One bullet struck Kowalski in the chest,

Icy Wave Hits Southland; It's Warmer Here

While the south was shivering with cold and snow last night, Chicago continued to bask in fair weather, with a prospect of more of it and not so cold today. Tomorrow, Forecaster Day said, will be partly cloudy and still warmer. The highest temperature here yesterday was 23, but one of our "coldest" January days thus far.

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 14.—(AP)—A mantle of snow tonight covered portions of the border states in Dixie and freezing weather was forecast for as far south as the gulf coast.

Tennessee, Virginia, and North Carolina bore the brunt of the snow. Five and eight-tenths inches of snow were reported in Knoxville, with the temperature down to 21 degrees during the day. Nashville reported an early morning reading of 20 degrees while at Memphis the mercury skidded to 15 degrees.

Snow in the Carolinas.

Many sections of the Carolinas were visited by snow and snow fell in western Virginia.

The mercury dropped to 22 degrees in Atlanta this morning, with snow flurries over sections of northern Georgia.

Forecasts for tonight indicated freezing weather throughout the south with the low predicted at 14 or 15 in Georgia, 16 to 22 in Mississippi and 18 to 20 in Arkansas.

Government forecasters in Tampa predicted frost and possible freezing weather for that section tomorrow morning and growers and truckers were prepared for the coldest night of the winter. The Florida citrus exchange advised growers to keep all groves "under fire" tonight.

Subzero in Minnesota.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 14.—(AP)—The coldest weather of the season since last November brought subzero temperatures to Minnesota and North and South Dakota today with Bemidji, Minn., reporting an unofficial mark of 27 below.

Record Snow at Cairo, Ill.

Cairo, Ill., Jan. 14.—(AP)—Snow 6½ inches deep, the heaviest since Feb. 19, 1921, according to weather bureau records, fell here last night. Traffic was difficult on highways, where drifting increased the depth of the snow to two feet or more in places.

PROHIBITION 11 YEARS OLD TOMORROW; FEW TO CELEBRATE DAY

The eleventh anniversary of prohibition will pass tomorrow with little festivity aside from a luncheon to be given by the Cook county division of the Woman's Christian Temperance union, inquiry disclosed yesterday.

The W. C. T. U. members will gather in the Auditorium hotel for luncheon and listen to addresses by G. S. Latley, attorney for the prohibition forces, and Fred D. L. Squires, secretary of the American Business Men's Prohibition Foundation.

At the headquarters of the Crusaders, Col. Ira Reeves, leader of the organization, plans only to place black crepe on the door and spend the day in meditation.

Other anti-prohibition organizations in Chicago will let the anniversary pass unnoticed.

DRINKING PARTY BRIDE IS DENIED AN ANNULMENT

Superior Judge Harry A. Lewis announced yesterday from the bench that he will not grant any more annulments to persons who are married in Crown Point, Ind., as the climax to drinking parties. Subsequently he dismissed the bill for annulment brought by Mrs. Lillian Johnson Weisenborn, 5349 Crystal street, against William M. Weisenborn Jr., partner in an electric fixtures shop at 1753 North Rockwell street.

Mrs. Weisenborn testified that she married her husband last Aug. 23 at Crown Point following a drinking party in his shop. She said that she was stupefied and did not know what she was doing.

"The bill is dismissed for want of equity," Judge Lewis interposed. "We've got to stop this business of drinking and eloping to Crown Point. Let her wait two years and get a divorce on a charge of desertion and be respectable about it.

"I would feel sorry for a girl of 16 but this woman is 25 years old."

Baby Wants to See Fire; Dad Speeds, Is Arrested

Evans J. Perkins, 6137 North Mozart street, Chicago, was arrested last night in West Railroad avenue, Evanston, for speeding, as he was traveling 45 miles an hour behind a chemical truck. He explained: "My 2 year old son here kept begging me to take him to the fire, so I thought I would."

short argument, agreed with Judge Burke "that your Lonor has the right to fix bail." This was the situation when Druggan was sent for in the jail. In the meantime Prosecutors Ditchburne and Brown, who have been prosecuting the hoodlums, gunmen, and racketeers arrested in Judge Lyle's campaign, appeared on the scene.

All Finally Agree.

They openly told Taylor he had no right to take the attitude he did. They told the same thing to several other assistant prosecutors who were in the court and seemed not to have agreed with the sentence as imposed by Judge Lyle. When Judge Burke came back on the bench, Prosecutor Taylor changed his attitude and opposed the issuance of the writ or the granting of bail. Prosecutors Ditchburne and Brown supported him with vigorous arguments.

"You seem to have changed your attitude," Judge Burke remarked to Prosecutor Taylor.

"The statute contemplates, in my opinion, that any defendant has the right to release on bail, except in capital cases, pending appeal," continued the judge.

Judge Must Obey Law.

"This government is a government of law," he continued. "No matter who is involved the law should be carried out. If a judge violates the law he is encouraging anarchy."

The prosecutors asked for a continuance of the matter if until only 7 o'clock at night so that they could get decisions to support them, saying, "We can't get a library up here in five minutes."

The arguments were without avail, although the judge waited until almost that hour in his chambers until Harold C. Hayes, 717 North Clark street, furnished a $5,000 cash bond for Druggan.

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson yesterday continued until next Monday the case of Frankie Lake, former beer dispensing partner of Druggan, who is under indictment for income tax evasion. Attorney Peter Sissman informed the court that Lake probably would plead guilty on the same terms stipulated last Monday by Druggan, all pleas to felony charges contingent upon the appeals of Ralph Capone and State Representative Lawrence C. O'Brien. Lake will be arrested by the police on a vagrancy warrant and his attorney said that bond would be made.

Lawrence [Dago] Mangano is to be the next public enemy tried for vagrancy, it was announced yesterday by Prosecutor Ditchburne. He will be put in front of a jury on Jan. 18.

JOE GLASER SUED BY WIFE; SEQUEL TO ASSAULT CASE

Joe Glaser, former owner of the notorious Sunset café, was sued for divorce yesterday in the Superior court by Mrs. Dolores Wheeler Glaser, 17 years old. Glaser and the girl were married in March, 1928, at Louisville, Ky., a year after Glaser had been sentenced to ten years in the penitentiary for raping the girl, who was then 14 years old.

Mrs. Glaser's bill charges that her husband deserted her by sending her to California and promising to join her there later. When he failed to come to California, she says, she returned to Chicago and was told by her husband that he wouldn't live with her.

Glaser never served the penitentiary sentence. Every effort was made by Glaser to dodge trial for the crime and it took an assistant state's attorney more than a year before he finally brought the café owner before a Criminal court jury.

In June, 1929, the Illinois Supreme court reversed the conviction on grounds that the evidence was of an unsatisfactory character and that the girl's story was not corroborated.

Shot to Death in St. Paul Street; May Be Chicagoan

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 14.—(AP)—An unidentified man, about 30 years old, believed by police to have been the victim of a gang, was found shot to death on a street here tonight. There were four bullets in his body. A woman reported to police that the body had been thrown from an automobile. Several business cards of a Chicago hotel were found in his clothing. Another clew to his identity was a belt buckle with the initial "M." Police took the man's finger prints and Bertillon measurements to send to Chicago for possible identification.

Missing Girl Phones She Intends to Jump in River

Police were searching the vicinity of Chicago avenue and the river early this morning for Helen Videk, 15 years old, who disappeared from her home at 4440 Augusta boulevard on Dec. 9 following an argument with her mother, Mrs. Anna Videk. Mrs. Videk reported to the police that a neighbor had received a telephone call from the girl late last night, who said, "I'm disgusted. I'm near the river and I'm going to jump in."

WOMAN SHOT; IN HOSPITAL.

Mrs. Antonia Esposito, 31 years old, of 5617 Vernon Park place, was taken to the County hospital last night with a bullet in her left thigh. She told Maxwell street police her husband, James, had been drinking and shot her because dinner was late.

CROWD STORMS STATE BOARD IN 103D ST. FIGHT

Boos Nickel Plate Lawyer at Hectic Hearing.

A battalion of 400 far south side residents, supported by a howitzer platoon of housewives, marched in on a session of the Illinois commerce commission yesterday. The citizens attended the commission's chambers in the Insurance Exchange building to protest against the blockading of 103d street by the Nickel Plate railroad, which has established switch yards at the head of Lake Calumet and has flung many tracks across the route of the thoroughfare.

The banners of the battalion of protest were white badges with the legends: "No Gooseneck" and "Open 103d street straight through." The march was led by Aldermen William Rowan [10th] and Sheldon W. Govier [9th]. The citizens packed the hearing room and overflowed in the corridors.

Hadley Refuses Large Room.

The case was called before the full commission. Chairman Charles W. Hadley assigned the hearing to Assistant Chief Engineer Warren Henry. The room assigned for the hearing could accommodate thirty persons comfortably. More than twice that number crowded in. Protest was made to Chairman Hadley, who replied that those who could not get in might leave. He refused to place the larger hearing room at the disposal of the crowd.

When this word was taken back to the delegation there were shouts of "Down with the commerce commission. Let's throw him out." For several minutes the chambers rang with catcalls. Ald. Govier made a speech of protest which was cheered wildly.

Wire Appeal to Governor.

"Let's wire the governor," Ald. Rowan suggested. "Every one contribute 10 cents to a telegram."

A half dozen women canvassed the crowd for dimes. They emptied handsful of coins into a hat. A telegram was hastily composed, which recited the circumstances, and closed with: "We appeal to you, as governor, to aid us in having courteous treatment accorded us and order our release from the black hole of Calcutta."

Meanwhile, the hearing opened in the small room. Assistant Corporation Counsel John G. Drennan charged that tracks were laid across 103d street by the Nickel Plate railroad without authority of Commissioner of Public Works Richard W. Wolfe. He was interrupted by citizens who shouted that Wolfe had neglected his duty of preventing the laying of the tracks.

Boo Railroad's Attorney.

Attorney Guy A. Gladson, representing the railroad, said that the closing of 103d street is necessary if the railroad is to remove its Stony Island avenue yards so that 87th, 93d, and 95th streets may be opened. His statement was drowned in boos and hisses. The throngs unable to get into the small room echoed the cries of those within.

Witnesses were cheered as they told of the necessity of having the street open to conduct their business and reach their places of employment. The thoroughfare, when opened, would be a traffic link between the communities of Pullman and South Chicago. Residents of the districts affected point out that 103d street is the only thoroughfare possible from that point to 130th street because of Lake Calumet.

After eight witnesses were heard Attorney Gladson left the room and made an appeal to Chairman Hadley to force an orderly hearing. He asked that the hearing be transferred to the larger rooms, occupied by the commission. The aldermen offered to provide the city council chambers. As a compromise the aldermen arranged a meeting of the delegation, excluding the witnesses, in the council room.

"See Wolfe," Crowd Demands.

The citizens left the commerce commission chambers shouting, "Let's march on Commissioner Wolfe. He's responsible for our trouble."

When they convened in the council room fifteen minutes later Ald. Govier announced that he had seen Commissioner Wolfe in a city hall elevator.

"He's our friend," the alderman began.

"It's about time," a voice shouted. "He has served notice on the railroad to move the tracks within 30 days or he will let us move them ourselves and charge the cost to the road," Govier continued. "He told me he is willing to go to jail to help us."

"Do you believe him?" another voice shouted.

Call for Chicago Home Rule.

A resolution was adopted urging the state representatives and senators on the south side to vote for home rule and abolish the commission in Chicago. A second resolution thanked the two aldermen present and Ald. O. E. Northrup [19th] who also has been active against the railroad.

Telegrams were sent to the senators and representatives with the surplus of collected dimes. Sandwiches were supplied by Peter Foote and Charles Richards.

The citizens then adjourned their own meeting in the city hall and marched back to the state commissioner's headquarters on Jackson boulevard where the 103d street hearing had been resumed in the board's large audience chamber. Singing "Hail, hail, the gang's all here," the citizens marched into the larger room. Many, however, still had to remain in the corridors.

Cheers Greet Witnesses.

A dozen witnesses, among them Chief Matthew Sweeney of the 17th fire battalion, testified to the necessity of opening 103d street. Each witness was greeted with a round of applause as he took and left the witness chair. Testimony was frequently interruptd with cheers.

The hearing will be resumed today. The commission announced that an informal conference will be held this afternoon for the purpose of seeking a compromise. City officials, engineers, representatives of civic organizations and attorneys have been invited to attend.

Schmidt Quits City Hall for His Mayoralty Fight

BY PARKE BROWN.

Mystification as to the character of the candidacy of George K. Schmidt for the Republican nomination for mayor was ended yesterday with developments showing that he is another anti-Thompson entrant.

First, there was his own statement to that effect relayed from his sick room by his physician, Dr. Frank R. Morton, in reply to a reportorial inquiry.

Second, there was the statement of Mrs. Schmidt during this indirect interview that the candidate "always has been against Thompson."

Third, there were substantiated reports that Thompson had denounced Schmidt as an ingrate for entering the race.

Fourth, there was information that for several months Schmidt has been gathering anti-Thompson information during his service as city controller.

And fifth, the delegation which on Tuesday night persuaded Schmidt to run was an anti-Thompson group of "church, business, and labor leaders."

This accumulation of facts was said to be completely convincing to leaders of other camps, who said they had been puzzled by Schmidt's unexpected announcement. Some of them were inclined to suspect that Thompson himself might have brought his city controller out for some purpose of his own, such as making him his heir before the last day for withdrawals.

Sends In His Resignation.

The first event of the day throwing light on this subject was the delivery to the mayor's office about 10 o'clock in the morning of Schmidt's resignation as city controller. This was accepted by some as evidence that war had been declared by Thompson's principal cabinet officer, but skeptics insisted that this move was just what could be expected if the two were playing a game of their own.

Then inquiry disclosed that the delegation which caused Schmidt's sudden decision consisted of about fifty backers, who for months have been urging him to run. It did not include any big political leader or even a ward committeeman. It was a group of about fifty of his own supporters, possibly the most prominent of them being Samuel P. Luzzo, president of the Hod Carriers and Building Laborers' District council, a former member of the state boxing commission.

Questioned by Proxy.

Efforts to reach Mr. Schmidt at his residence by telephone having been fruitless because he is kept to a bed by a severe cold and his telephone is not in his bedroom, a reporter called at the home.

Dr. Morton and Mrs. Schmidt talked with him and the former carried to Mr. Schmidt some of the questions, bringing back informal oral replies. In this manner Mr. Schmidt said that he was not a Thompson candidate and that his opposition to Thompson was established by his prompt resignation from the Thompson cabinet.

"Why," protested Mrs. Schmidt, "he has always been against Thompson and was only persuaded to become controller when it was argued that there must be an honest man there for the sake of the city."

Then Mrs. Schmidt added that, in addition to a large number of congratulatory messages, there had been several telephone calls from the city hall saying that Thompson was so angered by Schmidt's appearance in the race that he had refused to talk about it except to brand Schmidt as an ingrate.

Thompson Makes Statement.

"I have nothing to say further than it reminds me of a quotation of Abraham Lincoln's which, although a little different, seems to apply.

"One of President Lincoln's friends said that a certain individual was abusing him frightfully and Lincoln replied: 'I can see no reason for that. I never did that man a favor in my life.'

"I regret that I can not use the words that Lincoln did because I have done George K. Schmidt many favors and I have elevated his position in the community by placing my trust in him and appointing him controller of the city.

"Further than that I sayeth not."

During the day a legal flaw in the form of the Schmidt petition was discovered and new blanks were rushed out for the collection of 2,500 or more signatures before the entry lists are closed today, the last day for filing. City Clerk Smith, it is said, has not determined whether he will keep his office open during the evening for late comers. In some years the regular office hours have been observed on the last filing day.

Statement from Albert.

Headquarters of Ald. Arthur F. Albert, one of the Republican candidates, issued a statement charging that "the Thompsonites believe they can fool the Germans into voting for George K. Schmidt so as to take votes away from Albert and thereby bring about the nomination of Thompson."

The same headquarters issued another statement by Andrew W. Gatenby, chief clerk of the board of review, repeating his former charges against Judge Lyle's official conduct in the Felony court and adding two other cases in which defendants were discharged.

Lyle headquarters was elated by the discovery that without notice of any sort Frank Harmon, known as "Young Paddy," had placed a fourteen foot mercury vapor "Lyle for Mayor" sign over Dreamland, his public amusement palace.

Only two filings for city executive offices were received at the city clerk's office during the day. One was that of George F. Haas, Republican, for city clerk. The other was that of John B. DeVoney, Democrat, for mayor. Politicians say DeVoney, who has been a candidate before without receiving any substantial vote, is negligible as an entry now.

Three Men Indicted as Slayers of Policeman

The grand jury yesterday returned indictments against the alleged slayers of Policeman William Rumbler, who was shot on Oct. 12 while in a restaurant at 2174 Milwaukee avenue. Those accused are Walter Evanow, now in the Bridewell hospital recovering from a fractured leg; Frank Mallen and John Senew. The shooting occurred during a robbery.

SPECIAL POLICE JURY CONTINUES HUNT FOR CASH

Makes Appeal to County Board Today.

Financing of the special grand jury in its investigation of the police department was still a problem yesterday despite earlier assurances that the money would be provided. A committee of the jury will meet State's Attorney Swanson this morning and go before the county board's finance committee with a request for an appropriation of $50,000. If the committee fails there they will ask the Association of Commerce to raise a fund.

President Anton J. Cermak of the county board said that, while he would vote for an appropriation if the money could be diverted, opposition had developed among other county commissioners.

Recalls Costs of Others.

"I reminded the grand jury that the last special investigation cost $250,000 and produced no good results, and that the special investigation preceding that one cost $400,000 and resulted in a lot of not guilty verdicts," Mr. Cermak said. "But I told them if they thought the investigation necessary and there was some hope of success they would have my vote.

"They discussed prohibition enforcement with me and I told them that the people of Cook county had shown by their votes on numerous occasions they do not want the prohibition law enforced and they don't want to spend their money trying it."

Word had been received from Col. Robert Isham Randolph, who was in Biloxi, Miss., and who was reelected yesterday as president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, that if the county board does not appropriate for the investigation the association will provide $100,000. But yesterday James P. Haynes, vice president of the association, said this financial help was not certain.

Consider Problem Monday.

"There will be a meeting on Monday of the committee on the enforcement of the law and prevention of crime, of which Col. A. A. Sprague is chairman, where action will be taken," Mr. Haynes said. "If the committee so decides the persons who furnished $115,000 for the Loesch investigation will be asked to waive their right to a refund at this time and allow that money to be used for the police investigation.

"The $115,000 as well as $40,000 raised by the bar association on the appeal of Frank J. Loesch for money to push the election fraud and Grandy murder investigation is now ready to be returned to the donors, we were advised today by the county treasurer. Of course, we would have to have the consent of each individual to use the money now for the present purpose."

Assistant State's Attorney Charles J. Mueller, who is in charge of the investigation, said the money is needed to hire private investigators. He said he prefers civilians rather than policemen, although he has had four policemen assigned to him so far. They are Arthur Waccholz, Robert Bennett, and Henry Farmer, who were recently transferred from the Des Plaines street district because—they told a previous grand jury—of their refusal to take bribes and permit gambling, and John Clancy of the Stanton avenue station.

Hunt Gamblers; Place Is Empty.

Prosecutor Mueller and Assistant State's Attorney Charles Lounsbury who is working with him, sent a squad of detectives to raid a supposed gambling house at 1511 West Lake street yesterday. The policemen reported the place to be vacant and Mueller suspected a possible leak. His information was that Julius Benvenuti, who was blamed for the transfer of the Des Plaines street policeman, and James Adduci were operating a policy game there with other gambling games in progress every night.

In preparation for the work of the special jury a corridor in the Criminal Court building was fenced off yesterday. The jurors will conduct their hearings in the courtroom formerly occupied by Judge Daniel P. Trude and the fence bars entrance to that courtroom from any of the numerous side doors.

Find Dynamite in Lot Near Nonunion Cleaners

Twelve sticks of dynamite were found yesterday in a vacant lot adjoining the building occupied by the independent cleaning and dyeing establishment of Isaac Kaufman, 619 Independence boulevard. Passers by discovered the explosive and called Kaufman's attention to it. He told Lieut. Make Mills of the bomb squad that of late he had been asked many times to join the tailors' union but had refused. Lieut. Mills said that as no caps or fuses were found near the dynamite not much importance could be attached to it.

SPIKE O'DONNELL'S BROTHER STEVE IS OUT FOR ALDERMAN

Petitions for Steve O'Donnell, formerly known as a beer runner, for alderman of the 15th ward were placed in circulation yesterday. Steve is a brother of Edward [Spike] O'Donnell, south side beer gangster listed as a public enemy by the crime commission. He operates a trucking and teaming business in the stockyards district and in 1928 was shown to be drawing $5,000 a month from the city hall pay rolls for the use of his trucks and teams. There are a dozen candidates in the 15th ward race for the council seat left vacant by the election of Thomas F. Byrne as sanitary district trustee.

PICKS ALLMAN TO WARN COPS OF FUTILE ARRESTS

Acting Police Commissioner Alcock last night appointed Capt. James Allman as his personal representative to visit all police stations and instruct patrolmen on his recent orders against unnecessary arrests.

"When you arrest a man have something on him," Capt. Allman will tell the patrolmen. He also will instruct desk sergeants to question prisoners and to advise patrolmen to release those who appear to have been arrested on insufficient grounds.

In addition he will instruct the district commanders that professional bondsmen are not to be permitted to loiter about the station and that any policeman who summons a professional bondsman is to be discharged.

Capt. Allman is a veteran of the police department and is now in command of the Stockyards station. One meeting a day at 1 p. m. is to be held beginning at the Des Plaines street station today.

ANALYST FOR PACKING HOUSE MISSING WEEK

The disappearance of William [illegible] Williams, 41 years old, 6505 Ravenswood avenue, cattle analyst for Armour & Co, and treasurer of the Trinity Congregational church, was reported to the police yesterday by his wife, Mrs.

He left home a week ago after writing Mrs. Williams a letter, in which he said: "I have broken down. I don't know what to do, unless I try to reach my sister. Pray for me." The sister lives in Randolph, Wis. She has not heard from him.

At the time of his disappearance Mr. Williams was carrying $90. He wore a gray business suit, an imported overcoat marked "Made in England," and a tan fedora. He is 5 feet 9 inches in height, weighs 160 pounds, and has brown eyes and gray hair.

TOWN FINANCE WIZARD KEEPS BUSINESS SECRET

Scores Invest; Big Interest Draws Savings.

BY WALTER FITZMAURICE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Belvidere, Ill., Jan. 14.—[Special.]—This quiet town of 7,800 has reached a feverish state over the operations of an amateur financier whose payments of from 20 to 50 per cent interest on short term notes have induced hundreds of his neighbors to intrust their life savings in his secret operations.

The financier" is A. W. Benham, a tall, robust man with a florid face and hearty manner, whom many of the people regard as their fondest friend in this time of slack employment. He conducts business in a cubicle of an office in a little garage, half hidden between two houses on the main street. While clients foregather there weekly to receive the profits he peels off a payroll reported to exceed $200,000.

Benham Active for Two Years.

Benham, whose business secrets are known even from his partners, has been speculating for two years. Until a few months ago, however, he limited his clientele to his friends among the employes of the National Sewing Machine company, the town's largest industry, where he has been employed for twenty years, most recently as a shipping clerk. Benham is now 45 years old and has lived here since childhood.

Little notice was accorded his activities until three weeks ago when it was discovered that Benham was reaching out, soliciting investments not only from his fellow townsmen but also in Rockford, Elgin, Joliet, Moline, and Kankakee. Local bankers, becoming concerned over heavy withdrawals from savings accounts, started an investigation which disclosed that Benham had, up to last Friday, caused the withdrawal of approximately $310,000 in Belvidere.

Ask an Inquiry.

Thereupon the bankers, headed by Omar H. Wright, president of the Second National of Belvidere, former president of the Illinois Bankers association and former director of state finances in the cabinet of Govenor Emerson, requested the state department of registration and education to investigate Benham's affairs.

However, B. E. Edwards, director of the Chicago office of the department, discovered after sending an investigator here that his department lacked jurisdiction.

Benham's operations began in a small way. Starting as an office boy in the sewing machine plant at a wage of 75 cents a week and working up to the post of chief shipping clerk, he was regarded by his superiors and fellow workers alike as a competent man. He owned his home, modest cottage near the factory, and his wife was, and still is, a leading member of a local church.

Starts by Asking Loan.

When in the fall of 1928 Benham negotiated with one of the banks for a loan of $4,000 on the security of his own and a neighbor's property, the latter gave the transaction little thought. Benham's purpose in borrowing, he explained, was to assist his neighbor in settling a small estate in the east, to which the neighbor had fallen heir.

It was about this time that the shipping clerk began his pay day custom of approaching fellow workers with a suggestion that they might find it profitable to entrust their wages to him. A number were agreeable and to these Benham gave security in the form of a judgment note signed by himself.

Pays Notes Promptly, Big Interest.

In every instance, so far as the authorities can learn, Benham paid the notes promptly, providing in addition a sum of interest money that doubled or tripled the usual rate, and induced most of the speculators to reinvest on the same terms. While he guarded the secret of the profits closely word of his exploits spread through the plant and Benham's business grew.

He acquired an eight cylinder car, hired the town taxi driver, Harold Orff, to be his chauffeur at $50 a week, and had the chauffeur call for him noon and night at the plant. Meanwhile executives of the plant observed others than employés visiting Benham in his office to receive his payment notes or collect interest.

One day in mid-December Raymond A. List, president of the company, hearing of the clerk's transactions, called at the shipping room, found Benham in consultation with a group of five, including three women not of the plant, and informed the clerk he wished to see him immediately in the president's office.

"I see what you want," said Benham. "Well, spare yourself the trouble. I'm quitting right now."

Incorporates a Company.

Within a few days the secretary of state's office at Springfield granted a charter to a company calling itself the Blackhawk Finance company, capitalized at $100,000 under the laws of Delaware and organized, using the language of its own prospectus, "to buy and sell anything, any time, anywhere." Benham was named president and chairman of the board.

Associated with him was G. C. Wilson, vice president, Belvidere's man of mystery, who spent some years in Chicago, and when asked his business connections there, declared he was "retired and anyway, it's nobody's business but my own."

Named as secretary treasurer of the company was David Beatson, a youth reared in Belvidere, graduated from the Rockford High school, and since engaged in various businesses in Chicago, according to his own statement. While Wilson and Beatson were opening offices for the finance company in the Blackhawk building, Rockford, Benham busied himself expanding in Belvidere. The interest rate was boosted, the garage office was opened, and the ex-shipping clerk announced that hereafter he would accept investments only in lots of $50, $100 and $1,000.

Neighbors Form Pools.

Old clients were informed, it is said, that any new investments they might put to Benham would yield them a commission of 10 per cent. Soon Belvidere witnessed the spectacle of housewives and old men, traveling among their neighbors, organizing $1,000 pools to collect the $100 commissions, which Benham paid on the spot.

Monday was declared pay day. The money chests were delivered in Benham's car. Ex-Sheriff Albert Johnson and ex-Patrolman Charlie Smith were hired as guards and armed with a pair of six shooters each, to stand at the garage door.

State's Attorney Strom, to satisfy himself of the town's interest in Benham's enterprise, questioned twenty-five persons on the street. Fourteen told him they had invested with Benham.

Mr. Wright sent out three investigators of his own. Instead of returning a report, they announced that they, too, had succumbed to Benham's proposition.

H. K. Funderberg, president of the Keene-Belvidere Canning company and vice president of the Farmers' State bank, instructed the superintendent of the canning plant to caution the employés against investing.

"Benham's all right," the superintendent said. "I've got $1,000 invested with him."

State's Attorney Strom said he had warned Benham to cease his operations.

Wilson's Business Separate.

Even Wilson, vice president of the finance company, betrayed a shade of skepticism concerning Benham's financial talents. Insisting that the finance company was a separate and distinct concern from Benham's own enterprise, he invited reporters to inspect the books and exhibited the records of eighteen small loans negotiated since the company began business.

"I want it understood that this company is in no way involved with Benham," Wilson declared. "We're trying to run a straight, clean business here. If anything goes wrong, I'll either close up here or step out."

Unperturbed by the forces arrayed against him, Benham goes blithely on his way, distributing $5 tips in barber shops, disbursing gifts of $20 to acquaintances he believes are in want and assuring every one there's a great deal more where the present profits come from.

ESCOBAR PATCHES UP HIS LOVE AFFAIR, BUT LANDS IN CANADA JAIL

MONTREAL, Que., Jan. 14.—(AP)—The happy reconciliation of Gen. José Gonzales Escobar and his wife, from whom he had been estranged, was rudely disturbed tonight when the exiled Mexican general was arrested and placed in a police station cell.

He was arrested on a warrant obtained by C. L. Vowell, an El Paso, Tex., attorney, who came here as legal adviser to Senora Escobar, the former Concepcion Goeldner of El Paso, who had filed an annulment suit against her husband.

Vowell charges Gen. Escobar with false pretense, alleging that prior to the unsuccessful revolution he led in Mexico in 1929 he obtained goods valued at $15,000 from the El Paso firm of V. Andreas, which he never had paid for.

Counsel for the general and a local attorney for Senora Escobar announced today that an amicable settlement of her annulment suit had been reached.

PEOPLE PRAY IN STREET AS QUAKE SHAKES MEXICO

Woman Killed, 4 Hurt in Capital.

BY JOHN CORNYN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 14.—At least one person was killed and four others, including a small child, were injured tonight when the heaviest earthquake felt in the Mexican capital since 1911 shook the city to its foundations. The quake occurred at 6:50 p. m., and continued for three minutes, starting easily and increasing to unusual intensity and then slowing up toward the close.

Numerous houses cracked and some in the outskirts collapsed. A woman was killed by a falling wall and the four known injured were hurt by falling objects in their homes.

The epicenter of the quake is reported to have been at Matamoros de Izucar, in the state of Puebla, southeast of Mexico City. It was felt over a wide area and was reported to have been more intense toward the Pacific coast, where the earth has been trembling for three weks.

Tampico and Vera Cruz Shaken.

Other cities which were shaken by the tremor included Tampico, where the shock caused a railroad collision, and Vera Cruz, where the terrified inhabitants fled to the streets. At Toluca, capital of the state of Mexico, church bells rang violently and the people ran to the streets.

When the shocks were felt here people became panicky, rushing into the streets, where some fell to their knees and prayed. So severe and successive were the shocks that people staggered about like drunkards, and many shouted with fear. Adding to the terror of the population was a weird yellow light in the sky, which faded out shortly after the tremors ceased. The yellow light shown in a sky streaked with lightning and a heavy downpour of rain drenched the people. Electric lights went out, power lines were cut off, and telephone and street car service was interrupted.

At the Mexico Fronton sports arena water in the swimming pool was heaved up and flowed into the street. Many of the terrified swimmers ran into the cold outdoors in their bathing suits.

Quoke Follows Cold Wave.

The quake followed a three day period of unusual weather.

Not for 29 years has the valley of Mexico been visited by such a prolonged cold spell. All the mountains about the valley for more than 300 miles are covered with snow. In normal times the snow line is 14,000 feet above sea level, but it has now climbed down to the foothills, fully 5,000 feet lower.

Reports from a score of Indian mountain villages state that many peasants have died during the last two days in the storms sweeping about the Sierra Madre mountains. In a hut on the road between Mexico City and Toluca a family of five was found frozen to death, and other deaths in the same region are reported.

The last disastrous quake in Mexico was in June, 1911, when 2,000 persons are estimated to have been killed.

$5,000,000 JOB ON LINCOLN PARK DRIVES STARTED

Roadway to Be Extended, Yacht Base Built.

Two important steps were taken yesterday by the Lincoln park commissioners in furtherance of the park system's plan of extension northward and the proposed conversion of the harbor off Lake Shore drive between Ork and Ohio streets into a yacht base.

Speed was the keynote of the meeting. The board established a separate unit of the engineering staff to devote its time exclusively to hastening the completion of the improvements, placed Engineer Hugh E. Young of the Chicago plan commission in charge of this unit, and instructed him to start work early in the spring.

Order Advertising of Bids.

To start this program the commissioners ordered the immediate advertising of bids for the construction of a new section of the outer drive from Montrose avenue approximately three-quarters of a mile northward to Ainslie street, the construction of three grade separations, two bathhouses, a bathing beach, a new harbor at the foot of Montrose avenue, and the filling in of new land made necessary by these projects.

The order of the commissioners involves the expenditure of approximately $5,000,000 obtained through bond issues approved at the polls last November and in the previous November. Litigation has held up the improvements for which these funds are to be expended, but the action of the commissioners clears the way for immediate construction.

New Yacht Harbor Plans.

The proposed yacht harbor off Lake Shore drive is a recent development which came to light yesterday. The park board acted after conferences between Sheldon Clark, chairman of the park extension committee, and Maj. Herbert J. Wild, district engineer for the war department.

This development also follows recent indications that the government is amenable to a plan to relinquish the war department's rights to the harbor off Grant park between the Chicago river and Roosevelt road and to transfer this area to the jurisdiction of the south park board for the purpose of making new land.

With the Lincoln park board's action yesterday it became known that a composite bill, or two companion bills, will be dispatched immediately to Senator Glenn and Congressman Britten for introduction at the present session of congress. These bills will provide for the transferring of the two harbors to the park boards. It is understood that their passage will have the sanction of the war department.

What Park Board Asks.

The Lincoln park bill will ask that the westerly section of the north breakwater of the harbor off Lake Shore drive be transferred to the jurisdiction of the Lincoln park board; that the board also be given jurisdiction over a strip 350 feet wide running from Oak street to Ohio street and extending eastward beyond the present shore limit of the park, and that the harbor be reclassified and set aside as a base for the use of boats under 200 tons. But the plans for the ultimate development of this area, as outlined by Mr. Clark, are much more extensive.

The park board now has jurisdiction over a strip of land along the shore and riparian rights which extend 150 feet east of Lake Shore drive. Should congress approve the new proposal, this strip will be extended to 500 feet in width. A beautiful causeway and promenade is to be built on this strip, said Mr. Clark, with ultimate extension out into the lake over the breakwater.

Promenade Out Into Lake.

This latter will necessitate closing the gap between the breakwater and the shore and the widening of the breakwater 350 feet. The promenade then would extend from Ohio street along the lake shore to Oak street and out over the water a half mile into the lake. Construction of small boat stalls along the inner side of the breakwater is also planned.

Mr. Clark pointed out that the outer and bigger harbor is still to be retained by the government for larger commercial vessels. The cost of improving the inner harbor would amount to more than $250,000, but cannot be attempted for "many years," he added.

The Extension Program.

Items in the program for extension of the park and outer drive northward from Montrose avenue were listed as follows:

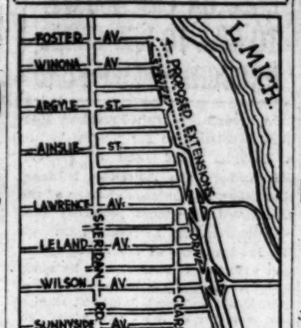
1. Dredging, filling, and construction of retaining wall and roadway following entire dock line for the new 31 acre boat harbor at the foot of Montrose avenue—$645,000.
2. Filling for extension of outer drive northward from Montrose avenue to Ainslie street—$2,000,000.
3. Filling for the new Wilson avenue bathing beach, 2,600 feet long, approached by both Montrose and Wilson avenues—$800,000.
4. Completion of Montrose avenue grade separation and north approach—$50,000.
5. Construction of grade separations at Lawrence avenue and Wilson avenue—$350,000.
6. Construction of bathhouses along the new Wilson avenue beach—$180,000.
7. Construction and paving work from Montrose avenue to Foster avenue, including two 60 foot roadways and a service drive 40 feet wide—$914,000.

Expect to Get More Funds.

Mr. Young pointed out that the plan calls for extension of the roadway to Foster avenue, while the plans for the filling in of the base extend only to Ainslie street. He explained that the commissioners are confident the funds needed for the construction of the additional made land will be forthcoming on the next bond issue to be submitted.

The action of the Lincoln park commissioners followed the announcement on Tuesday by the south park commissioners that bond issue proposals totaling $5,000,000 will be submitted to the voters at the mayoralty primary on Feb. 24. These include the extension of the outer drive from Jackson park to Calumet park, the widening of Marquette road, and the improvement of Yates avenue and Southeastern boulevard.

Drive Extension



The Lincoln park board yesterday ordered the immediate advertising for bids for a new segment of the outer drive from Montrose avenue to Ainslie street. Funds were also set aside for extending the boulevard later to Foster avenue.

Barge Line Agent Opposes Rail Rate Cut on Sugar

A reduction in rail freight rates on sugar between Chicago and California would mean a material reduction in revenue of the Inland Waterways corporation, operating the federal barge lines, L. D. Chaffee, general freight agent of the company, told the interstate commerce commission yesterday. He asserted that 55.21 per cent of all cargo carried by the barge line is sugar. While the water route rate on sugar shipments is lower than the rail rate, the longer transit time tends to equalize both shipping methods, he asserted.

JAMES DOUGLAS ESTATE VALUED AT 3 MILLIONS

Brennan and R. H. Hunter Wills Are Filed.

A petition to probate the will of James H. Douglas, executive of the Quaker Oats company, who died on Dec. 27 in his home in Lake Forest, was filed yesterday in the Lake county Probate court at Waukegan. The petition places the value of the estate at $3,000,000 and lists thirty legatees.

A hearing on the will, which has not yet been filed, was set for Feb. 10 by Probate Judge Martin Decker. Attorneys Frank C. Cleveland and William D. McKenzie declined to disclose the contents of the will.

According to the petition the heirs-at-law are Mrs. Inez Boynton Douglas, the widow, of 910 North Green Bay road, Lake Forest, and two sons, Donald B. Douglas, 980 North Green Bay road, Lake Forest, and James H. Douglas Jr. of 1500 Lake Shore drive.

See Two Charity Bequests.

The other legatees are said to be relatives. The petition indicates that two charitable bequests are made in the will. The public services that will benefit are the Chicago Sunday Evening club and the Chicago Community trust.

Mr. Douglas was chairman of the executive committee of the Quaker Oats company. He started in the oats milling business in Cedar Rapids, Ia., more than 50 years ago and was prominently identified with the development of several small companies which eventually were absorbed by the Quaker Oats company.

File B. G. Brennan Bill.

Attorneys representing the estate of Bernard Gordon Brennan, meat packer, who died on Dec. 29, filed his will yesterday with Mitchell C. Robin, clerk of the Probate court. The value of the estate was estimated at between $1,000,000 and $3,000,000. The will makes charitable bequests of $100,000.

Bequests of $100 each to 250 employés of the Brennan Packing company, of which Mr. Brennan was the founder, are made in the will. The St. Vincent Infant asylum, 721 North La Salle street; St. Coletta institute of Jefferson, Wis.; Passionist Academic institute of Norwod Park, and the St. Mary's Training school, Watertown, Wis., are left $25,000 each.

A brother, Edward I. Brennan, is bequeather $10,000, and three nieces are left $5,000 each. The remainder of the estate is left in trust for the widow, Mrs. Elizabeth Grace Brennan of 4737 Ellis avenue, and three children, Bernard T., 17 years old; Rosemary, 15, and James, 12.

Robert Hunter Will Filed.

Another will filed yesterday was that of Robert Henry Hunter, official of an insurance concern and vice president of the Chicago crime commission. His estate is valued at $1,000,000, and is left in trust for the benefit of his widow, Mrs. Margaret Wilson Hunter, and daughter, Ruth, 20 years old, of 1500 Lake Shore drive.

The will provides that upon the death of Mrs. Hunter one-half of the estate will go to the Principia school of St. Louis, Mo. In the event the daughter dies leaving no heirs her half of the estate will go to the Robert and Margaret Hunter scholarship fund of the University of Chicago.

GIVE US SCALPS, HILL MEN WARN TENNESSEE QUIZ

Silver Tongued Orator Has His Say.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Nashville, Tenn., Jan. 14.—[Special.]—With the special committee selected to investigate state affairs still in the process of organization, and with legislation to give them court powers put over until Friday, the chief development in this situation today was the wail of the Republican minority left out in the cold and the warnings that came from the region of the Great Smoky mountains that a state-wide storm is brewing there unless the "rascals" are put in jail.

There are five Republican senators and sixteen Republicans in the lower house, and Senator Hal H. Clements of Knoxville voiced their indignation at their lack of representation on the big committee in an address today which was considered big thunder by the Republicans. He warned of reprisals next November at the polls unless the Democrats do a good job of house cleaning.

"If you don't," he shouted, "I serve notice we will be on you next November. We will meet you at Armageddon and battle for the Lord and Tennessee."

Committee Gets Ready.

The committee, headed by Senator Walter Faulkner of Lebanon, met in executive session in a hotel room today, but reported only that they had discussed procedure. Outside of Republican and east Tennessee territory, the appointments have been well received, and the committee is regarded as one prepared to give the state administration a hard ride. Gov. Henry H. Horton has appointed three attorneys to represent him at the sessions. They are J. J. Lynch, Floyd Estill, and M. N. Whitaker, all old friends of his from the Cumberland plains.

The two committee attorneys appointed were on hand. They are Joe V. Williams, former county judge of Hamilton county, and Robert McReynolds of Clarksville. They declared the investigation would be fair, fearless, and thorough. The inauguration of the governor will be postponed until the trend of things before the committee is seen.

A Mountain Spellbinder.

Senator Clements held the attention of senators and galleries for some time when he spoke this morning.

"I rise to a point of personal privilege," said the long, lean senator from the Smokies. "I speak after conference with my Republican colleagues, who indorse what I say.

"I was born of Republican parents, married a Republican woman, and we are raisin' three Republican young 'uns. Coming as a Simon-pure Republican from the mountains, I would not do justice to that great minority party if I failed to observe that in the appointment of the investigation committee the name of no Republican is among those that love the Lord.

"The Republican party pays approximately one-half of the taxes of Tennessee. On occasion they elect a governor. At the last presidential election the voters saw fit to give their suffrage to the Republican nominee. We had to offer to that committee men of experience in legislation, lawyers of ability. We lost money through those political bankers, Rogers Caldwell & Co., the same as you Democrats.

He Slings Some English.

"We do not impugn the motives of the chair, but call attention to his oversight of that great, grand domain of East Tennessee, in vales of the great blue Smoky mountains. I don't know whether he was deterred by the mystery of the mountains. You could have found great Democrats there. Knox county deposited $750,000 of county funds in the Bank of Tennessee, and I wouldn't give a thin dime for it today.

"When that 12 story Holston-Union bank closed its doors—if you could have seen the white faced men, the women and children, clawing at that sphynxlike building, to get their life savings back, you would know how serious the people of East Tennessee are in this investigation.

"Who could have known more of Basil Ramsey's luxurious suite on the twelfth floor, his private telephone lines with Col. Luke Lea and Rogers Caldwell, than would Andrew Jackson Graves, a Democratic senator, or even J. R. Todd of our section?

Calls for Son.3 Scalps.

"Bring in these political tricksters and send them to the bar of justice. That's what the people want. The eyes of East Tennessee are on this committee and on this senate, and they are not going to be trifled with. The minority party is not going to be trifled with. Like our old mountain friends, the Cherokees, you are our scalping party, and we expect you to bring scalps to the wigwam."

The bill, backed by Senator Faulkner and other leaders, giving powers to the committee to compel testimony and providing that immunity from other prosecutions be given those who appear and tell all the truth before the committee, was called up for third reading, but met immediate objection.

Senator Todd suggested that it might be a bill to "prevent an honest investigation" to give immunity to wrongdoers. Senator Broadbent said he believed the investigation would be honest and thorough, but moved that the bill go back to the judiciary committee and be made a special order for next Friday morning. This was carried. The immunity clause is bound to produce debate as to how it might effect other possible proceedings against such witnesses as Caldwell and Lea.

LOSES TOUGH MATE

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Louis Pine, who calls himself "the toughest taxi driver in Chicago," according to the divorce bill, was divorced by Mrs. Lillian Pine, 1605 South Homan avenue, before Superior Judge Desort yesterday. Mrs. Pine testified that her husband knocked her unconscious on Sept. 20, 1925. She was in a hospital for ten days. More recently, she said, he struck her again and she remained in a hospital for eight weeks. Mrs. Pine was awarded $15 a week alimony and the custody of three children. She was represented by Attorney Harry X. Cole.

KILLED BY GAS IN GARAGE.

Emil Schwartz, 45 years old, 4937 North Kilpatrick avenue, was found dead of carbon monoxide gas poisoning last night in the garage at the rear of 5012 Kennison avenue. He is believed to have closed the garage door to keep warm while working on his car.

For the critics of the administration it was a field day. Speech after speech was aimed at the President, at the administration leaders in the house, at the Republican party, and at John Barton Payne, chairman of the Red Cross, who was charged with having purposely omitted mention of that organization's invested fund of some thirty millions when he told a senate committee that only four and one-half millions were available for relief in the drought area.

Power Issue Brought In.

The power issue and the controversy over the power commission nominations were dragged into the debate by Senator Burton K. Wheeler [Dem., Mont.]. He assailed the President's statement issued following the senate's recall of the nominations, and in which Mr. Hoover charged that the action was a political maneuver to try to make it appear that he was in league with the "power trust."

"It does seem," said Senator Wheeler, "that the President is imbued with the idea expressed in an editorial in the Washington Post of which Ned McLean is editor. The President is likened to Washington, Lincoln, and Cleveland. I am afraid the President has read this editorial with interest and also what some of his satellites, like Robert H. Lucas, are saying."

"I am afraid," Senator Wheeler went on, "that the President has been recalling some of that campaign oratory which termed him a superman. I'm afraid he has come to believe it."

He held up the Washington Post editorial.

"This calls the senate immoral for what it did," he said. "Now, can any one imagine the publisher of the Washington Post calling any one immoral—this man who was willing to swear to a lie to help Albert B. Fall?"

"Bonner, the man who everybody agrees was too friendly to the power interests, is placed back on the government pay roll by Secretary Wilbur." Senator Wheeler declared. "Either the President doesn't know the facts or else he is in sympathy with Bonner's views. What other conclusion can you draw?"

Gillett Defends Hoover.

The only defender of the President was Senator Frederick H. Gillett [Rep., Mass.], who declared: "It is too late to make the people of this country believe that the President is not a man of generosity. Before federal relief is granted every local remedy should be tried. As long as people can take care of themselves it is a sin for the government to interfere, for such action undermines the spirit of liberty."

Senator T. H. Caraway [Dem., Ark.] drew upon articles in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE for what he said were true pictures of conditions in Arkansas. He made an impassioned plea for food for the children.

"Why, God bless you," he cried, "the children that are forming a ragged bread line in the public schools are just as much human beings, just as good American citizens as are the grandchildren of the President who had eight Christmas trees on Christmas day. These children did not have one. They are not complaining about that. They are not asking for a luxury like that. If they can just eat, have enough clothes to keep from freezing, they are not complaining."

CALL ON CHICAGOANS TO GIVE TO RED CROSS DROUGHT RELIEF FUND

In accordance with President Hoover's proclamation for the raising of a drought relief fund of $10,000,000 through the American National Red Cross, the Chicago chapter of the Red Cross announced yesterday that contributions will be received through the headquarters at 616 North Michigan avenue. Checks should be made payable to the American Red Cross Drought Relief fund, James T. Nicholson, manager of the Chicago chapter, said.

"The American Red Cross has been giving relief," Mr. Nicholson explained, "to the drought areas of the country since August, 1930. Our local chapters have expended their resources for relief. Funds supplied by the national headquarters of the American Red Cross have been used when local resources were exhausted. It was originally hoped that the $5,000,000 disaster reserve fund of the national Red Cross would be sufficient to cope with the needs.

"However, 405,000 persons are already being aided by the Red Cross. Obviously, five millions will be insufficient. Suffering in the stricken areas has been increased in recent days by the cold and snow. Many people have delayed in requesting aid until they have exhausted every other resource."

GOV. HARVEY OF ARKANSAS ASKS NEW STATE CODE

Little Rock, Ark., Jan. 14.—(AP)—A sweeping reorganization of the state government and reforms in banking and insurance laws to prevent a recurrence of the recent failure of many banks and two large insurance companies were recommended by Gov. Harvey Parnell today in his message to the general assembly.

The message warned against "legislative panaceas" for economic ills and urged that careful consideration be given to banking measures to avoid passage of any that might embarrass sound banks or delay the return of business normalcy.

Gov. Parnell recommended the legislature pass an administrative code and submit to the people two constitutional amendments, which form the basis for his government reorganization plan. The plan would consolidate all present departments of the state government into twelve.

All elective offices would be abolished except that of governor, lieutenant governor, and the attorney general, all of whom would be elected for four year terms. The governor could not be eligible to succeed himself.

PLAN MAY LOOSE $77,000,000 IN SHUT N. Y. BANK

New York, Jan. 14.—[Special.]—A plan now being worked out by a group of prominent financiers for the segregation of $77,000,000 of the assets of the closed Bank of United States to make possible the immediate payment of more than 50 per cent to depositors pending final liquidation was announced tonight by Max D. Steuer at a meeting of the Bank of United States depositors and stockholders' protective association.

In making public this plan Mr. Steuer appealed to Joseph A. Broderick, state superintendent of banks, to stop the liquidation now under way to enable the financiers in question to go through with their program.

Otherwise, Mr. Steuer warned, the losses incurred through lawyers' fees and other expenditures will be so large as to make realization of the financiers' program impossible.

SIKHS OF INDIA UPSET PLAN TO END RACIAL ROW

Last Minute Peace Effort Ends in Failure.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 14.—A last minute effort by the round table conference on India to settle the minorities problem in that country failed tonight over the demand of the Sikhs, who compose 11 per cent of the population of the Punjab, for 24 per cent of the seats in that provincial legislature. A provisional agreement was reached, however, between the Hindu and Moslem leaders which may force a full agreement later.

The final effort to save the conference from being wrecked by the age old conflict between the Hindus and Moslems was made after leaders of the two factions were deluged with more than 200 telegrams from leaders of opinion in India, urging conciliation and sacrifice on both sides rather than wreck the conference and lose India's chance for self-government.

Moslems Make Offer.

When the minorities committee met this afternoon the quarrel had narrowed itself down to the question of representation in the Punjab and Bengal legislatures. Sir Mohammed Shafti, Moslem leader, announced that he had been authorized, on behalf of the Moslem community in India, to make an oral offer.

He proposed that the Moslems should have, through the communal electorate, 49 per cent of the seats in the Punjab legislature and the right to contest special constituencies which it was proposed to establish. He also proposed that in the Bengal legislature the Moslems should have 46 per cent of the seats, with also the right to contest special constituencies.

In effect this would place the Moslems in a permanent minority in the Bengal legislature, although they have a majority of the population, and give them a majority of one in the Punjab legislature. In other provinces the Moslems would retain the advantages in representation they enjoy at present, and similar advantages would be granted to the Hindus in the Sind division of Bombay and to the Hindus and Sikhs in the northwest frontier province.

Hindu Leaders Accept.

V. S. Shastri, Hindu leader, said the offer seemed fair to him and that he was prepared to accept it provided it was acceptable to the Hindus in the Bengal and Punjab provinces. He urged them to accept.

Dr. B. S. Moonje, another Hindu leader, also declared he believed the offer contained a way out of the difficulty, and he urged that a small, unofficial meeting of the interested delegates be held, with Prime Minister MacDonald as conciliator, at which they could discuss all the implications arising out of the new offer.

It was at this meeting that the difficulty arose. Sir Dah Surdul Singh, Sikh leader, protested that no provision had been made for his co-religionists in the Punjab. He demanded 24 per cent of the seats in the legislature. The Hindus refused, pointing out that this left only 27 per cent of the seats for them.

Plan New Conference.

It was learned tonight that when the round table conference adjourns on Monday arrangements will be made for a new and more representative conference to meet either in London or in India late this year.

Meantime, a British parliamentary delegation, composed of representatives of all British parties, will go to India to discuss with Indian leaders of all parties, including Mahatma Gandhi's all-India congress party, details of a new government for India and to start framing a constitution, which will be submitted to the new conference for approval before being introduced to the British parliament.

Indian Legislature Opens.

NEW DELHI, India, Jan. 14.—(AP)—India's legislative council today opened what may be one of its last sessions under the present form of government.

Before the building as the members trooped in squatted groups of Nationalist men and women pickets who had gathered to prevent Shanmukan Chetty, temporary chairman of the assembly, from leaving his house.

But Shanmukan Chetty quickly overcame their opposition. When police efforts failed to budge the pickets he ordered his chauffeur to reverse gears and ran his automobile backward all the way to the assembly. The pickets withdrew hurriedly rather than be run down by the rear wheels of the car.

PUT COMMITTEE O.K. ON BRITTEN WARSHIP BILL

Six Ship Proposal to Be Told Today.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 14.—[Special.]—The Britten warship authorization bill, providing for construction of four submarines, one aircraft carrier, and one flying deck cruiser at a total cost of $74,030,000, was approved by the house naval affairs committee today and will be reported out favorably tomorrow.

In approving this bill, the first step in the American program to build up to the tonnage levels of the London naval agreement, the committee members declined to provide for further construction of the straight 6 inch gun cruiser type. The 6 inch gun cruiser recommended by the navy and originally included in the bill was stricken out by a vote of 9 to 7.

As voted, the bill provides that all ships authorized shall be constructed at the earliest possible date. This provision was inserted, Chairman Fred A. Britton [Rep., Ill.] said today, to make certain that building up to the treaty would not be delayed. A motion to set a time limit of three years was not approved.

The committee action in killing the straight 6 inch gun cruiser [the one that is not to be equipped with a flying deck] was a direct slap at the London treaty which provided that the United States, to build up to its maximum cruiser tonnage total, must mount 6 inch guns on 144,000 tons of its cruisers.

WISCONSIN STUDENT IS FOUND GUILTY OF HOLDUP, SHOOTING

Madison, Wis., Jan. 14.—[Special.]—Myron Stevenson, 26, University of Wisconsin sophomore from Marinette, Wis., was found guilty of assault with intent to rob while armed by a jury here tonight and faces a prison sentence of from 2 to 35 years.

Stevenson's mother, Mrs. B. J. Stevenson, and his sister, Elsie, also a student at the university, were in court.

A crowded courtroom watched the family scene as Stevenson shouted that he had been framed and his mother and sister clung to him, crying, "You can't take him away!"

Stevenson was convicted of attempting to hold up the Universal Cleaners' shop here last fall and was alleged to have shot and wounded Gerald Taborsky, the proprietor, when the latter chased him from the store.

SOPRANO VOICES LEAD IN COUNTY BUDGET CHORUS

Women Board Members Battle for Economy.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

County corporate budget estimates totaling $27,331,000 for 1931 were studied by the county commissioners yesterday. They must pare the expenditures to $21,000,000, the county's estimated tax and fee revenues for 1931. Salaries, supplies, and other running expenses must be reduced 20 per cent below 1930's expenditures, Assistant Controller Michael J. O'Connor told the board.

The commissioners, sitting as a finance committee under the chairmanship of Emmett Whealan, were informed just as they used to be before women became members. The room was blue with cigar smoke and buzzed with many voices.

Soprano Note Is Foremost.

The major note in the hum of conversation was, however, soprano. It was the four new women members who asked questions. Commissioners Walter L. La Buy and Frank J. Kasper were content to smoke in silence. William J. Graham, controller, maintained an impassive silence, and Commissioner Charles H. Weber did most of his talking in whispers to one or another of the women, as did Commissioner Daniel Ryan.

The women members of the board are Miss Amelia Sears, Miss Mary McEnerney, Mrs. Glenn E. Plumb, and Mrs. Edward J. Fleming.

A new fund item in the budget was $31,080 for the public defender and seven assistants, but it was declared that this office will lower the costs of jury service, since the expectation is that jury trials will be waived more frequently.

1930 and 1931 Compared.

	1931 requests.	1930 expenditures.
Board of review	262,978	252,910
Bureau of public welfare	2,626,573	1,550,080
Juvenile court	2,190,432	1,945,412
Sheriff — Criminal court and jail	946,022	693,099
Sheriff—general office	851,338	818,827
County hospital	3,087,281	2,732,903
County treasurer	1,234,377	1,068,521
Oak Forest	1,080,651	1,006,322
County recorder	878,846	897,023
State's attorney	680,423	646,373
County clerk	481,051	401,463
County board	221,819	253,254
Probate court clerk	190,657	179,421
Circuit court clerk	184,084	187,018
Coroner's office	175,835	164,643
Superior court clerk	152,224	141,056
Criminal court clerk	121,440	113,008

"On the basis of a well organized business house, how many persons would be necessary in the treasurer's office?" Miss Sears asked during the discussion.

"If employés were placed on a merit system their number could be cut 23 per cent," replied J. L. Jacobs, county efficiency engineer.

Mrs. Fleming's Idea—Save.

"I've heard that on at least one occasion the county board didn't appropriate salaries for all the jobs in the fee offices which were fixed by the Circuit judges," Mrs. Fleming remarked.

"Yes," said Chairman Whealan, "but the question was taken to the Supreme court and it upheld the Circuit court."

"But meanwhile the money was saved, wasn't it?" Mrs. Fleming persisted.

Jacobs said that it was, and that it was a year and a half before the Supreme court returned a decision.

"Then, Mr. Chairman," asked Commissioner Peter M. Kelly, "can we do away with some jobs in those offices and not got to to jail?"

"I doubt it," said the chairman.

What Is a Nominal Salary?

"The thing to do is to appropriate nominal salaries," Jacobs said.

"What is a nominal salary, $100?" Miss Sears asked.

Attorneys' fees and salaries could be dispensed with in the board of review and board of assessors' expenditures, Jacobs said. The county clerk employs a large number of persons, regular and extra employes, who could be eliminated without hurting the department, he said. The board of review has forty-nine regular employes, and from March to September needs only a few clerks, he said.

Scan Nursing School Expenses.

Following the budget session a committee on hospital nursing, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Plumb, convened with officials of the Cook County Training School for Nurses. The officials estimate this year's needs of the school at $1,370,930, or $197,657 over the expenditures in 1930.

"Your program calls for an increase of $16,744 in foodstuffs over that of 1930, and prices of commodities are reduced from 15 to 28 per cent," Commissioner George A. Miller told the school officials. "You have been charged with extravagance."

Frank S. Shaw, president of the school, said that the increase was due to increased personnel, and that the charge of extravagance was unwarranted.

"Our nurses are from good homes and must be well fed, not on a basis of Oak Forest food," he said.

SCHOOL BUDGET UP $171,433 IN SECRET SESSION

$96,970,433 Requests Now Up to Board.

The 1931 school board budget grew from $96,799,000 to $96,970,433 during a final secret session of the finance committee in the private office of President Lewis E. Myers yesterday preceding a regular board meeting which was held in the afternoon. "It was spread all around," said James A. Hemingway, chairman of the finance committee, when questioned concerning the added $171,433.

After the secret session Joseph P. Savage, one of the new appointees to the board, said that he "still had hopes" for an appropriation in the 1931 budget for his plan to hire secretary-investigators for the board members at an annual cost of more than $60,000.

Savage's Plea for Plan.

At the open meeting of the board on Monday, Savage said:

"To anticipate the routine objections, I will admit that my plan makes way for the exercise of more political patronage. I also admit that some of the investigators are bound to be no more trustworthy than some of the agencies we now use. But I, for one, do not know enough to pass intelligently on all matters that come before this board, and I need help."

Thomas V. Sullivan, attorney for the board, said the budget would be adopted at the board's meeting, which was recessed yesterday until tomorrow afternoon. He explained that the board desired to have the budget ready before Monday, when the city budget is presented to the council. It is the custom for both budgets to be provided for by the same enabling ordinance, Sullivan explained.

Reveals Budget Figures.

Harry H. Brackett, auditor, yesterday gave out revised figures on the recommended appropriations for the five funds from which the board's expenditures are made. In the following table they are compared with corresponding figures in the budget of 1930:

Fund—	1930 budget.	1931 draft.
Educational	$53,389,103	$63,797,537
Free textbook	2,525,530	1,457,267
Building	30,045,601	29,416,862
Playground	1,253,602	1,382,886
Teachers' pension and retirement	1,555,000	915,887
Totals	$88,768,236	$96,970,433

It will be noticed that all funds were reduced except the education fund, where it has been charged that a disproportionate amount is recommended for appropriation for other than strictly educational work. The increase of more than $8,000,000, it has been charged, was not for the benefit of instructional work. The trustees set aside $75,000 for hiring new teachers to relieve overcrowded classes.

MRS. EWALD ON STAND TO TELL OF THAT $10,000

Denies It Was Bribe to Make Husband Judge.

MRS. E. EWALD.

She denied point blank that the $10,000 she loaned to Martin J. Healy, Tammany leader of the Nineteenth assembly district, was a bribe. It was nothing but a loan, she said, made because of her friendship for Thomas T. Tommaney, Healy's political lieutenant.

Once, she said, she had a note signed by Tommaney which she had kept in a linen closet. The note had not been seen since October, 1928, she said.

Business Head of Family.

"According to Mrs. Ewald's testimony, she was apparently the business head of the family and took her husband into her confidence in few financial transactions. Though the $10,000 was loaned to Healy in 1927, she never mentioned it to her husband until last summer, when the Ewald investigation began.

Similarly, Ewald appeared to have been most secretive. She had not even known he wanted to be a magistrate until he went downtown in a hurry one morning to be sworn in.

It was Mrs. Ewald who always furnished most of the money, according to her testimony. She gave $500 to her husband for new clothes when he became a magistrate, and also gave him $744 "for back alimony for his first wife."

In the course of her testimony the witness also flatly contradicted the evidence given by the star witness for the prosecution, Frank J. O'Neill, a clerk of the Court of General Sessions and erstwhile close friend of the Ewalds.

Charged with Buying Judgeship.

The Ewalds are on trial before Supreme Court Justice Philip J. McCook, specifically accused of giving the $10,000 to Healy rather than lending it. The money passed through the hands of Tommaney, and it is the contention of the state that Healy "delivered" Ewald his appointment to the bench in consideration of cash.

Mrs. Ewald made an unequivocal denial that either she or her husband in her hearing had ever admitted paying $10,000 for the magistracy. Sydney A. Syme, chief counsel for the defense, reviewed the testimony of the state's witness, Emmerich P. Boczor, in which that witness swore that both Mrs. Ewald and her husband had made such an admission. He testified he had first heard it while at dinner with Dr. Francis M. Schirp of the Steuben society in Sunskind's restaurant, and that the next morning he had seen Mr. and Mrs. Ewald at their home and that they had bragged of paying "$10,000 to Healy and $2,000 to Schirp."

Youth Accused of Society Plot May Get Probation

He instructed Kuhn and his attorney to consult with Miss Wright's parents regarding the case and to return to court on Jan. 23.

Plans to Put Deer to Sleep with Gun

CAPT. BARNET HARRIS AND GUN.

USE HYPODERMIC BULLETS TO MOVE MICHIGAN DEER

Alpena, Mich., Jan. 14.—(AP)—The state conservation department has engaged the services of a big game hunters to shoot a lot of deer in this section this winter, but the hunter isn't quite certain he can do the job.

The shooting is to be done with a rifle or shotgun by Maj. Barnett Harris of Evanston, Ill. The catch is in the nature of the bullet that will come out of the gun—it's to be a "hypodermic bullet" of Maj. Harris' invention. It is a combination of the hypodermic syringe and an ordinary bullet. Properly handled, Maj. Harris says, it will put the animal to sleep for a short time, and the "victim" will recover with no ill effects.

Maj. Harris has established a camp near here and is making experiments which he believes will establish that the bullet can be used successfully on a creature as delicate as the Michigan deer. The purpose of his hunting will be to remove the animals to other states.

If he succeeds Maj. Harris will solve an important problem for the conservation department. For many years deer in winter have concentrated in sections where the food supply is not sufficient to maintain them. Rather than undertake the job of feeding them the conservation department intends to try to move some of the deer to places where there is plenty of forage.

Maj. Harris is a south African explorer and was with the Sumatra solar eclipse expedition in 1925-'26, taking motion pictures of the phenomenon.

"MAYOR OF DELANCEY STREET" FEEDS 3,000 ON BIRTHDAY

New York, Jan. 14.—(AP)—The "mayor of Delancey street," Kardonick Philips, had a birthday today—he was 55—and 3,000 jobless men and women had a square meal.

The banquet was "Mayor" Philips' present to himself.

The menu:

Puree de pois, or pea soup.

Viennese roast and baked beans.

Coffee, cake, cigars.

There also was all the bread the guests could eat.

The jobless sat down in groups of 300 from 11 o'clock in the morning until 6:30 tonight. A ten piece orchestra played while they ate. There were white cloths on the tables and a napkin at each plate.

Philips' "mayoralty" is an honorary one, bestowed by Ax-Ald. Louis Zeltner. eitner is the election board and nominating committee in the locality mayor game. His choices are citizens known locally for their good works.

Gophers Active in Canada; Proof of a Mild Winter

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

REGINA, Sask., Jan. 14.—Gophers are running about Saskatchewan prairies. There may be nothing startling in that statement, but the fact that this is January and the dead of winter may make the statement more interesting. It is unusual for these rodents to be at large in wintertime, but outside of a few cold days, very mild weather has predominated in the west, and the gophers know it.

CENSUS FORCES BEGIN SURVEY OF JOBLESS TODAY

Every Home in Chicago to Be Visited.

Eight hundred federal census takers will start their house to house canvass today in an effort to obtain accurate information on unemployment. Every home in Chicago will be visited by the enumerators, who want to learn how many Chicagoans are out of work and why.

The enumerators started preparation for their tasks last night. Many of them moved into flop houses in West Madison street, South State street, and other localities where the casuals live, to be on hand bright and early to catch the drifters before they leave in the morning. In these districts the census takers will start their work at 6 a. m., while in the residential sections door bells will not be rung until after 8 o'clock.

The census supervisors plan to make a survey of Chicago's floating population in one day, in order to avoid duplication. Last night enumerators started their work at the shelter maintained in the old Criminal courts building.

To Be Over in Two Weeks.

H. L. Rockhill, chairman of the informally organized census supervisory board, said last night that the unemployment survey would be completed within two weeks at least and that he hoped it might be finished in a much shorter time. Most of the census takers will be those who took part in the 1930 census last April.

The survey is being conducted in 19 other large cities in the United States and the data obtained will be submitted to President Hoover and to various relief agencies.

"Only questions pertaining to unemployment will be asked," said Mr. Rockhill. "Each enumerator will inquire whether there is any person in the family who usually works at some gainful occupation and if for any reason he is not working at present. If there is no such person in the family the enumerator will make no further inquiries. If there is he is required to obtain certain information regarding that person, including the industry and occupation at which he usually works, whether he has a job, and the length of time he has been laid off or out of work."

Police Ordered to Aid.

Acting Police Commissioner Alcock last night ordered all policemen to help the census takers. While the survey is to be conducted on a friendly basis, Mr. Rockhill said refusal to answer questions will make it necessary to ask the police to help.

Additional subscriptions of $66,150 yesterday brought the emergency relief fund being raised by the governor's unemployment commission to $3,648,655, leaving $1,351,345 still to be collected before the minimum quota of $5,000,000 is reached. The day's collection included a corporation contribution of $20,000 from Montgomery Ward & Co. A subscription of $1,132 was received from the Children's Memorial hospital.

400 Convicts Riot Over Food; Quelled by Icy Water

KORONOVO, Poland, Jan. 14.—(AP)—Streams of icy water from firehose were used by authorities here today to quell a riot of 400 criminal convicts over alleged bad food which was being served them. The prisoners started yelling, demolishing the furniture of the prison and smashing windows. A fire brigade was rushed to the prison.

MORE MEN HIRED IN PLANTS FROM COAST TO COAST

New Optimism Ruling in Business World.

From Hollywood came news that the Paramount studios had increased production, having just announced that they would produce twenty-eight new pictures at a cost of several million dollars within the next four months.

"In returning from New York I received theater reports from various metropolitan centers showing a material increase in business," said Jesse L. Lasky, vice president and production head of the Paramount organization. "Every line of business is registering definite signs of a return to normalcy. Throughout the United States conditions are becoming stabilized and new sanity, courage and optimism have entered business."

New Building Will Rise.

At Toledo, O., the International Harvester company has announced plans for a new building to be added to its plant at a cost of $300,000. Six hundred men will go to work in the plant of the Sharon, Pa., pressed steel plant, which was purchased yesterday by Philadelphia interests who will install pipe manufacturing equipment.

The Thatcher Furnace company, with two plants in Newark and two in Garwood in Union county, will go back to 90 per cent of full time production in a few days, it was announced at the company's office in Newark. Seven hundred additional workers will be put back to work.

Auto Plant Will Open.

The De Vaux-Hall Motor company, Grand Rapids, Mich., which will produce the new De Vaux six, will employ 400 men on March 1, when its factory opens, it is announced.

The United States Glass company at Tiffin, O., reopened, putting more than 800 workmen back on part time schedules. The Rawleigh industries, essence and drug manufacturers, at Freeport, Ill., put their factories on an eight hour basis today with nine hours' pay.

Wife Files New Charge Against $1,000,000 Heir

Mrs. Myrtice McLaughlin Chapin, 7859 South Shore drive, filed an amended bill for divorce yesterday against Huntley Chapin, who recently inherited $1,000,000 from his grandfather, the late Charles R. Huntley of Buffalo, N. Y. The case has been set for trial on Jan. 20 by Superior Judge Desort. In her original divorce bill Mrs. Chapin charged cruelty. Recently her husband filed a cross bill for divorce alleging cruelty and asking that he be given the custody of their fifteen month old child. Mrs. Chapin's new bill charges adultery.

Ernest Osborn and Robert Woods, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life each in the penitentiary; Edward Weatherby, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary; John Young, assault to rob, sentenced to 1 to 14 years in the penitentiary by Judge Joseph Sabath.

Plans for the arraignment of Leo V. Brothers on the charge that he murdered Alfred Lingle are expected to be made today by Chief Justice McGoorty of the Criminal court.

Judge McGoorty, who has been ill for several days, will return to his court this morning, it was announced.

Mrs. Betty Cook, sweetheart of Brothers, gave an interview to newspaper men and posed for the photographers yesterday in the offices of the defense attorneys, Cantwell, Krum, Piquett, and Ward.

Tells About Brothers.

Mrs. Cook, who has been twice married and who was divorced from her first husband, said she had seen Brothers on an average of twice a week since she first met him 16 months ago. She said she had no recollection of Brothers' movements during any part of the month of June. Lingle was murdered on June 9.

Brothers had no visible employment, the woman said, and received money regularly by mail from some out of town sources. She declared Brothers was almost always without funds, and that he frequently borrowed small sums from her. She has been a manicurist, Mrs. Cook said.

Live in Same Hotels.

She was living at the Charlevoix hotel when she met Brothers, she declared, and later lived in the Riviera and Lake Crest Drive apartment hotels at the same time that Brothers lived in them.

Mrs. Cook started to make some mention of visiting Brothers in a hospital, but she was restrained by Attorney Tyrrell Krum.

CATARRH

Opex Opens up Catarrh Stuffed Nostrils in Three Minutes Lessens Buzzing, Ringing and Singing in Ears When Caused By Nasal Catarrh, Says Authority

30 Days' Free Trial, Say All Walgreen-Economical Stores

The thousands of intelligent readers who have tried in vain to find something that actually will cleanse the nostrils and throats of mucus will be glad to know that Opex can now be procured at any Walgreen-Economical Drug Store, who will be pleased to show you how simple it is with Opex to successfully treat Catarrh and its stubborn symptoms.

Now all you have to do is to spray gently and over the entire irritated and mucus infected membrane, this soothing, cleansing vapor of Opex reaching every nook, crevice and fold in the membrane and opening up in 3 minutes the stuffed up passages.

It seems like a miracle, but after you use Opex a few times each day for a few days, you will find that the irritated, tender membrane is relieved, sniffling and hawking have ceased and the discharge of Catarrhal mucus has stopped.

It is worth a whole lot of money not to have Catarrh and buzzing noises in the ears, but Opex, which costs so little, will send its helpful smoke like vapor into where it will do the most good—when you spray Opex you can send the healing, purifying vapor from one nostril through the other (see picture) or from either nostril to the bottom of the lung and out through the mouth—you can actually see this steamlike smoke coming from nostrils and mouth.

Opex is sold for $1.00 with the distinct understanding that if you are not satisfied at the end of 30 days your money will be gladly refunded. Opex is delightful to use because of its wholesome fragrance and one bottle will last 2 months.

RITCHIE BIDS FOR PRESIDENCY IN INAUGURAL TALK

Demands End of "Too Much Government."

Entry in 1932 Race

Washington, D. C., Jan. 14.—[Special.]—Gov. Albert C. Ritchie's inaugural address today at Annapolis is regarded as placing him definitely in the field as a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1932.

Gov. Ritchie's attack upon prohibition, his declaration for state rights, his opposition to governmental interference with business and his criticism of the part played by the Hoover administration in the economic situation are accepted as an outline of his platform in seeking higher honors. It is regarded as significant that he should have dealt with national rather than state issues.

A considerable number of Democratic members of the senate and house went to Annapolis for the ceremonies. They viewed the occasion as a launching of his presidential boom.

Gov. Ritchie's friends believe he will stand an excellent chance in 1932 in case the wets are in control. Sentiment here is adverse to the nomination of another New Yorker, such as Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Annapolis, Md., Jan. 14.—[Special.]—Gov. Albert C. Ritchie, inaugurated for the fourth time as governor of Maryland, today pleaded with the nation to accept the traditions and ideals which "constitute the Maryland system of government."

"These traditions," he said, "are toleration in all things and to all people; ordered liberty for the individual and the right to follow his own pursuits in his own way, so long as he does not interfere with the like rights of others or the recognized sanctions of society; and a self-governing state, free to settle its local problems in conformity with the needs of its people, who should be unhampered by an excess of government from within and by undue federal supervision or interference from without."

Encroaching for Years.

For years, Mr. Ritchie said, the federal government has been encroaching on the state rights and private business."

"We see it," he said, "in the entry of the federal government into business—the shipbuilding business, the aeroplane business, the warehouse business, the manufacturing business and what not—competing in all these fields with private enterprise which must both pay taxes and show a profit, while government, under the obligation of doing neither, can swallow up its losses in general accounts."

Speeding up of American industry, he added, "has brought a surplus of goods which can only be absorbed by increased exports; yet the federal government, instead of building up export trade, created a tariff law which drove American industry abroad and won reprisals from other nations which closed their markets to American goods."

Same Policy Hurts Farmer.

The farmer, Mr. Ritchie added, suffers from high prices on what he buys and his foreign market is closed by tariff reprisals.

Mr. Ritchie charged that the federal government, knowing the recent depression was coming, took no sort of corrective measures.

"On the contrary," he said, "there began a series of inflationary statements and actions which incited, or at least intensified, the crash of 1929, and before the debris from that could be cleared away the federal government followed it up with unsupported and misleading statements promising an early, if not immediate, return to prosperity, which has not yet materialized."

Law Gives New Meaning.

"There has also been developed," the governor continued, "the conception that law is no longer a barrier protecting the rights of the individual against any who would invade them, but that it . . . a scheme of social control to regulate human conduct and relations and to secure the moral well being of the individual by forcing upon all the people the social precepts and ideas of some of them.

"Armed with this strange and un-American doctrine, organized political blocs, leagues, associations, groups and societies descend on Washington for increased power to the federal arm, increased access to the federal treasury and increased restrictions and prohibitions on the rights of mankind.

"The high water mark of all this was national prohibition as imposed by the eighteenth amendment, and no matter what the findings of the Wickersham commission may be, they cannot end, nor can they minimize, the injury to the cause of reasoned temperance, the unhappy temptations to the youth of the land, and the lawlessness and disregard for law which have resulted from putting prohibition in the constitution, where it ought not to be, instead of leaving the question to the states, where it ought to be.

Re-States Liberal Doctrine.

"There was a time when it was regarded as a sort of quasi-treason to talk about personal freedom in this connection, or to speak of the ideals of state sovereignty and of the integrity of constitutional rights in dealing with the subject. That time has gone.

"People in high places are bold in advocating these doctrines now. There is nothing new about Maryland's advocacy of them. For ten years the Maryland view has been that the whole problem should be turned back to the states so that each state might have the opportunity of settling it in accordance with the needs of its own people, and be protected by the federal government against interstate shipments which would contravene its laws. We have been steadfast in this position when others who now embrace it and acclaim it lacked either the courage or the conviction to declare it."

The public, Mr. Ritchie said, are beginning to learn that "Washington is not a cure all for our ills" and that "an excess of power breeds an excess of weakness."

"Too Many Commissions."

"By undertaking too much and stepping in too often where it had better stayed out," he continued, "government itself has helped to create the present crisis. There have been too many experts and advisory commissions. There have been too many noble experiments. There has been too much interference, regulation and supervision in realms where the proper forces, if left free to work, could have worked to a better end.

"We have had too much government and too much leaning on it. Government has grown too cumbersome to be effective, as well as too costly and arbitrary, and too much shot through with the spirit of autocracy and the inner circle."

What Maryland Believes.

The people of Maryland, the governor said, "believe the federal government should mind its own business."

"We believe," he added, "that the people who are least governed are best governed. We think you cannot make people temperate by passing a prohibition law and we do not believe that any make-shift economic measures which attempt to lift up any part of the population by its boot straps constitute proper governmental action. Such things will always fail."

LABOR LEADERS MAP BATTLE FOR DRY LAW CHANGE

Final Plans to Be Made Next Month.

Miama, Fla., Jan. 14.—[Special.]—Organized labor's desire for modification of the Volstead act will be expressed in a vigorous campaign, according to plans presented to the executive council of the American Federation of Labor and indorsed by it today.

The campaign was outlined by Ira M Ornburn, president of the cigar makers; John Sullivan, president of the New York Federation of Labor; Al Kugler of Cincinnati and Joseph Obergfell of Cincinnati, who represent labor's legislative committee for modification of the Volstead act.

Headquarters Planned.

This committee is to open headquarters in the Carpenters' building at Washington with Mr. Ornburn in charge, and is to call a conference of the heads of all international unions for Feb. 23 and 24 in Washington to complete arrangements for the campaign.

Fourteen thousand paid organizers, now employed by various labor bodies in the United States, will be in the service of the committee, making five minute speeches during the campaign. The international unions, state federations and local bodies all are to join in the movement, using radio as well as the publications now at their disposal for the appeal.

All of the large unions except the printers and the miners are supporting the committee, these two not yet having taken a stand.

Purposes Are Outlined.

In stating the purpose of the campaign, the representatives of the legislative committee said in part:

"We are determined to stamp out bootlegging, distilling and manufacturing of liquor in the home by modification of the Volstead act.

"The passage of this act has done more to create unrest than any other law on our statute books. Class hatred has been engendered. The present generation is becoming a generation of whisky drinkers.

"Modification would materially reduce unrest now existing among workers and would place approximately 1,500,000 men at work almost immediately."

SMALL VESSELS "GROW" TO SHIP LIQUOR, CHARGE

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 14.—(AP)—A scheme for obtainng bonded liquor by raising the tonnage of small vessels has been revealed here by the arrest of two shipping brokers.

Boats not much bigger than rowboats were said to have been registered as oceangoing craft and vessels that never left the Delaware and Schuylkill rivers were listed as making trips of thousands of miles.

Under the law the size of a ship, the number of its crew, and its nationality regulate the quantity of liquor that may be obtained for medicinal use on board.

The brokers, Francis Ansell and Charles Francis, were charged with changing the registry of the motor yacht Tonkaway from American to British and of boosting its tonnage from eleven to 2,351 tons, and its crew from two to 37 men.

Samuel O. Wynne, in charge of the bureau of industrial alcohol in this district, said between 30 and 40 such cases had been uncovered. He said the scheme had been in operation since the early days of prohibition.

DRYS STAGE FOUR RAIDS.

The raiding of a 65 gallon still at 3363 Calumet avenue, a beer flat at 853 West Randolph street, a saloon at 1148 West 79th street, and a speakeasy at 2924 North Central Park avenue was the day's achievement of Chicago's fifty federal dry agents yesterday. Two Negroes and three white men were arrested.

MIAMI BEACH TELLS GUNMEN TO STAY AWAY

"Can't Make It Their Winter Resort."

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Miami Beach, Fla., Jan. 14.—[Special.]—Miami Beach's leading millionaires met here this afternoon and served notice on the mayor, city council and the police department that they do not intend to be chased off their tropical estates by Chicago's public enemies and like ilk, who include hoodlum brethren from New York and Detroit.

In years past some of the most respectable of the wealthy property owners in this winter playground were inclined toward a policy of leniency, especially toward white collar gambling and the purveying of the better grades of wines and liquors. But this year the early influx of Chicago gunmen, thieves and miscellaneous criminals has been so great that the big boys decided to call a halt.

Capone Neighbor Talks.

Today at the city hall 118 wealthy property owners met and there was more oratory crowded into two hours than Florida has heard since the real estate boomers stopped orating.

Among the more eloquent of the speakers was John Orr of Miami Beach, next door neighbor of Al Capone. Mr. Capone, incidentally, did not attend the meeting.

Mr. Orr has been ill for three years, a fact which he bemoaned at the start of his address, saying that he could have licked any gangster living if he would fight under his rules. Then he said:

"Chicago's public enemies must not be allowed to make a winter resort of Miami Beach. The best thing now is to announce to the world that the lid is on. The situation has become so rotten it cannot go on."

Addressing city officials, including Val C. Cleary, former actor and newly elected mayor, Mr. Orr continued:

"None of you is free from this stigma. From mayor down, you have been tarred by the same stick.

"We expect action and we expect it now. If it's the police department that needs cleaning up, let it be cleaned up. I'm not making threats, but if you don't take action other steps will be taken immediately."

Threatens to Quit City.

There were many other speakers even more peppery than Mr. Orr. Dr. Joseph Adams, multi-millionaire physician, for instance. Dr. Adams has a $3,000,000 hospital development under way and threatened to withdraw from the city.

Until the big indignation pow-wow today there was a plan afoot to permit genteel gambling at the northern and southern edges of Miami Beach. Deauville, the $2,000,000 casino which Tex Richard was fixing to operate when his death interrupted the plan, was to operate on the north beach and Commodore Carter's pier was to take care of the gambling trade on the south beach.

This made the hoodlums from Chicago, Detroit, and New York very angry and they sent word to the boys in high places that they trusted no one would be foolhardy and curtail pleasure once the northern saps started to arrive in droves in quest of gambling relaxation.

Dog Tracks Advertised.

Last Thursday and Friday Miami papers carried large advertisements announcing the opening on Saturday of the Miami Beach dog track, generally supposed to be owned by Capone.

The dogs did not run Saturday night and they aren't running now. The sports pages explained in news stories that the management of the track had found that the turf was soft.

While booze is incidental to the rackets here, it is noticeable that there are not more than ten speakeasies, as compared with sixty last year.

It is barely possible that the gambling would have been as merry as in past years but for memories of last year's thievery. Last season virtually every big hotel here was prowled and there were several stickups, jewels being ripped from the persons of women on the way home from the green tables.

BLAME CITY HALL FOR AUTO TOLL ON UNLIGHTED DRIVE

Two Killed, 24 Injured in Dark La Salle Street.

Michael J. Faherty, president of the board of local improvements, and the Thompson city hall administration were criticized yesterday for opening widened La Salle street to traffic before street lights had been installed. Two persons have been killed and 24 injured, according to police records, while trying to cross the unlighted street.

Completion of the widening and paving of the street between the river and Lincoln park was celebrated on Dec. 20 by Faherty and Thompson. The latter cut a ribbon to open it to traffic, although lights had not been installed between the river and Division street, and both Thompson and Faherty used the occasion to make political speeches.

"Outrage," Says Ald. Hoellen.

"It is an outrage to open these widened streets before the lights are put in," said Ald. John J. Hoellen [47th], "and equally dangerous to open them without first providing safety islands for pedestrians.

No provision is made for lights and safety islands in street widening. It would cost only $13,000 to construct safety islands in La Salle street and only $300,000 to put them in all of the widened streets in the city."

A resolution by Ald. Hoellen which provides that the assessments for widenings include the cost of lights and safety islands is pending before the council judiciary committee. Recently he succeeded in having an appropriation set aside in the vehicle tax fund to pay for safety island installations.

Girl's Death Arouses Comment.

Attention and comment on the unlighted condition of the street was aroused by the death Tuesday night of Pinio Kontos, 13 years old, of 731 North Wells street. She was killed while trying to cross the dark street just south of Chicago avenue.

Work on the installation of lights has been progressing during the last three weeks, according to Michael J. Kennedy, commissioner of gas and electricity, and the lights will be turned on tomorrow night. He said that an insufficient sum had been appropriated for lights for La Salle street and Western and Ashland avenues which delayed the installation 60 days.

TWO MORE AUTO DEATHS INCREASE 1931 TOLL TO 61

Two deaths yesterday raised the Cook county motor toll for the year to 61. The victims:

Joseph Myles, 65 years old, colored, 2953 South La Salle street. Died at the county hospital of injuries received on Jan. 4 when struck by a hit and run motorist at 38th and State streets.

Unidentified man about 65 years old. Killed when struck by an automobile while crossing Warren boulevard at Ashland avenue. The driver, Frank Osborn, 2059 Lincoln avenue, was held.

5 Bandits Loot Missouri Bank of $6,000; Escape

Kirksville, Mo., Jan. 14.—(AP)—Five masked men held up the Citizens National bank this afternoon, took $6,000, and escaped in an automobile bearing a New York state license.

LUCAS REPLIES TO AL; ASKS IF HE'S DRY NOW

Washington, D. C., Jan. 15.—(AP)—Alfred E. Smith had a reply today from Robert H. Lucas, but it contained only a conditional offer of the apology which the former Democratic presidential nominee demanded of the executive director of the Republican national committee.

Smith, in a letter to Senator Robert F. Wagner, Democrat, New York, had asked apology from the Republican committee for "permitting" Lucas to distribute a barroom cartoon which, he said, contained a quotation attributed to him which he had not made.

Lucas issued a statement saying he would apologize for sending out a cartoon representing Smith and Chairman John J. Raskob of the Democratic national committee as wets if Smith would announce he now favored prohibition.

He asked also whether Smith and Raskob were considering "apologizing to the American people for the action of Gov. Smith's hand-picked chairman, Mr. Raskob, in subsidizing with large sums of money an organized campaign, extending over more than a year, to misrepresent and smear the President of the United States."

The literature was circulated in Nebraska in the Lucas effort to defeat Senator G. W. Norris, Republican independent.

T. B. DEATH RATE HERE DECLINES 23% IN 2 YEARS

Ratio Is Lowest of Ten Large Cities.

Chicago's death rate from tuberculosis has dropped in the last two years approximataly 23 per cent. This was revealed yesterday in the tuberculosis mortality statistics of 1930, made public by Dr. Benjamin Goldberg, director of the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium, who said that Chicago now has a lower tuberculosis death rate than any other large city.

Dr. Goldberg's statistics show that the death rate from tuberculosis in 1930 in Chicago was 66.1 per 100,000 population. In 1929 the death rate, Dr. Goldberg said, was 79.4 per 100,000 and in 1928, 84.9 per 100,000.

From health commissioners of nine large cities of the United States, Dr. Goldberg learned that Chicago has the best record. He also said that during a trip abroad last summer he made a survey of the large cities, discovering their mortality rates to be much higher than in Chicago.

Chicago	66.1
New York	73.0
Philadelphia	81.2
Detroit	82.5
Los Angeles	104.0
Cleveland	88.7
Baltimore	100.6
Boston	77.6
Pittsburgh	75.4

"The statistics for Chicago mean that if the death rate which had existed in 1928 had been allowed to continue during 1929 and 1930 there would have been 646 more deaths from tuberculosis in this city," Dr. Goldberg explained.

"It should be noted that a marked decrease in the mortality rate has occured not only in the white race but also among the Negroes. The comparative figures for the last two years per 100,000 population are:

White	58.0	45.8
Negro	399.5	346.0

"The decrease in the death rate among the Negro population has been brought about through intensive effort to get them to recognize the need for early diagnosis and a widespread educational campaign aimed to improve the standards of nutrition and the prevention of the dissemination of infection.

Train Medical Seniors.

"Our new system of education for medical students is doing much to combat tuberculosis. In the last three and a half years we have taught 1,050 medical seniors methods of diagnosis and treatment of the disease.

"In the eight clinics over the city, 15,000 were served in 1927. In 1930, the number was 52,000, indicating the interest of the public in discovering the presence of the disease."

BERMUDA, EDEN OF HORSES, FINES TRACTOR DRIVER

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Jan. 14.—(AP)—Advocates of automobiles in this paradise of the horse and buggy received a body blow today. Willoughby Wright, a railway employé, was convicted of driving a caterpillar tractor in Southampton parish and was sentenced to pay a fine of $50 or spend two weeks in jail.

The magistrate also ordered the tractor confiscated. This was the second case of infraction tried since the adoption of the motor car act of 1908 prohibiting the general use of automobiles on the island. In the first case the decision was likewise unfavorable to motors.

A bill was recently introduced in the house of assembly seeking to permit physicians to use cars.

ARREST MOTHER, SISTER OF SLAIN LIMERICK GIRL

Washington, D. C., Jan. 14.—(AP)—The mother and a sister of Beulah Limerick were taken into custody today in the police investigation of the girl's mysterious death.

They were detained after Beulah's chum, Mrs. Martha Bargfrede, had told a coroner's jury she overheard them mention a "gun in the stove" and that Mrs. Limerick had told her to say nothing about it.

Mrs. Limerick denied making such a statement. The sister is Mrs. Julia Bywater.

Beulah, a pretty 19 year old brunette, was found dead in bed on the morning of Dec. 31 in the house she occupied with her brother in southeast Washington.

Several persons are being held in connection with the death.

Mrs. Bargfrede's testimony concerning a gun led to a hasty search of a stove in the room in which Beulah was found dead. A melted lump of metal was found.

Further scrutiny led to the belief it was an old door hinge, which may have been attached to a piece of wood thrown into the stove. It is being examined at the bureau of standards.

Nun Reports Two Priests Attacked in Manchuria

QUEBEC, Jan. 14.—(AP)—Two Roman Catholic priests, former residents of Québec, were attacked by Chinese bandits in Manchuria, a letter received from a nun today stated. Lapierre and Leon Lacroix were riding was derailed between Lao Yuan and Szepinchai on Dec. 9, the letter added. The priests, however, were said to have escaped injury.

PROTESTANTS TO FIGHT TO GUARD CHINA MISSIONS

Chicagoan Heads Laymen Investigation Body.

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Jan. 14. — Several months ago THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE published a dispatch telling of the crisis which had developed in respect to Protestant missionary enterprises in China. The dispatch told of the large number of missionaries killed or taken prisoners by Chinese bandits and communists as well as anti-religious legislation passed by the Nanking government.

The publication of that dispatch, together with the publication of similar information in various church and missionary organs on both sides of the Pacific, apparently has been responsible for the launching of the most searching and far-reaching investigation into the status of missionary work ever undertaken since the establishment of the Christian missions in oriental countries.

Investigators Pour Into China.

There are now two distinct groups of investigators in Shanghai and, according to a report which appears in the Chinese Recorder, organ of the mission boards in Shanghai, still more investigators are scheduled to arrive from both America and England.

Of the two groups, one is directly connected with the head organization of the mission boards in New York, while the other is a so-called "layman's committee," acting independently. Both groups have acquired offices in Shanghai, employed secretaries, stenographers and investigators with the object of doing a thorough job.

Dr. A. L. Warnshuis, secretary of the International Missionary council of New York, is head of the first group, which includes in its personnel Prof. R. H. Tawney of the University of London, Dr. Kenyon L. Butterfield of the University of Michigan, Dr. Jesse L. Corley, representative of the World Sunday School association, and the Rev. R. D. Reese, secretary of the National Christian council.

The so called laymen's committee is headed by Dr. Paul H. Douglas, 1320 East 56th street, Chicago, and formerly a member of the faculty of the University of Chicago. On the executive board of this group are representatives of seven of the leading Protestant religious groups of the United States, including Albert L. Scott of New York, representing the Northern Baptists; James Spears, New York, Presbyterians; Franklin B. Warner, White Plains, N. Y., Congregational; Frank A. Horne, New York, Methodists; W. Edgar Foster, Dutch Reformed church.

In addition the Protestant Episcopal and United Church of Canada are also expected to send representatives. This group is financing its own investigation.

Plan More Social Work.

It is claimed that the primary purpose of these investigating groups is to learn what is wrong with missionary work in China and other oriental countries. They are expected to assist in a complete reorganization of Protestant evangelism, or, according to the Chinese Recorder, "to develop a new or scientific type of evangelism that is expected to make western missionary work more acceptable to orientals."

A prominent American missionary has announced that they intend to give the Chinese communists and their Russian backers a run for their money in the attempt to make China a communistic appendage of Moscow. Instead of admitting that they are beaten, the leaders of the Christian missionary boards have announced, simultaneously with the arrival of the investigating groups, that this inquiry marks the beginning of a "five year movement for expansion of the work in China."

The composition of the two groups of investigators indicates the intention to place more emphasis upon social work. The practice in the past has been characterized by straight religious propaganda.

Dr. Frank Rawlinson, editor of the Chinese Recorder, in a discussion of the crisis which has developed in Protestant missionary work in China, declared that missionary work is being attacked on two sides. In the west it is being seriously affected by a lack of interest, particularly on the part of the younger generations resulting in decreased contributions on the part of church congregations toward the support of missions. In the actual missionary fields the missionaries are meeting the increased opposition of the Russian communist party and its oriental converts who charge the missionaries with being the agents of "imperialism."

Acidity

Gives You Those Dread Nights of Sleeplessness!

When every night is a sleepless night for you—when every morning finds you drawn, haggard and hollow-eyed, it's almost surely a case of Acidity!

When the stomach secretes too much acid it causes acid-indigestion, with gas, sourness, and burning. It also sets up fermentation and putrefaction in the intestines, creating poisons which pull us down physically and mentally. A marvelous German development, called Magnesia Oxoids, corrects Acidity in the right way. Upon contact with the gastric juice, Magnesia Oxoids generate nascent, or active, oxygen. The oxygen stimulates the alkaline gastric mucus which keeps the acid in check; corrects intestinal fermentation and stimulates peristalsis or the natural movement of the bowels. All these effects are necessary, and only Magnesia Oxoids supply them because it is the only magnesia product known to science which, when taken internally, releases oxygen to the system.

To see just how "acid" you are, make this test. Get a package of Magnesia Oxoids from Walgreen Drug Stores, Economical Drug Stores, or any other good druggist. Take two after each meal and see how much better you feel—how much more soundly you sleep and how much more energy you have. If after taking the contents of one bottle, the results don't more than amaze you, return the bottle to the druggist and he will refund your money promptly and in full.

KEEP Your Child in School This Winter!

Let This New Antiseptic Discovery Keep Him Safe from Colds, Throat Infections and Complications!

Winter sees much sickness—the spread of much infection. Every child attending school is exposed to infection from others. The mouth and nose are the parts of the body most liable. The guarding of these parts is the guarding of health as a whole. Put your child on the safe side. Adopt the ounce of prevention rather than the pound of cure. There is nothing better you can do than have your child rinse his mouth and throat every morning and night with a solution of McKesson's Extol and water.

Higher in Germicidal Value Higher in Penetration

Extol is the amazing new antiseptic mouth wash and throat gargle that is revolutionizing all standards of germicidal efficiency. It was recently perfected by one of the world's largest pharmaceutical houses. It kills germs faster than any other mouth wash ever known—so fast it is called the "10-second germicide." One minute of gargling with Extol beats hours with any other preparation. It is so highly germicidal that diluted even 1 to 3 it is more efficient than any ordinary mouth wash used straight. Also, it is highly penetrating! This is important, for an antiseptic, to be effective, must penetrate the folds and crevices in the mouth and throat; also the mucous membrane, so it can reach the hidden germs and underneath the outer layer of mucosa. In other words, Extol reaches the hidden germs that other antiseptics miss.

Delightful to Use

Used as a preventive measure, Extol will guard against colds, sore throat and other infections. If a head cold or a soreness of the throat has already set in, it will relieve it promptly. It is also an excellent means of keeping the gums and teeth in good condition and the breath sweet and pure. Swift and efficient as it is in action, Extol is utterly harmless. As for flavor and refreshing effect, it makes ordinary mouth washes seem insipid by comparison. And, finally, it is more economical to use. Not only costs less than the average antiseptic, but permitting more liberal dilution, goes much further. All McKesson Service Druggists and other independent drug stores sell Extol. Get a bottle today for the protection of your family—adults as well as children. Note the name, EXTOL—a McKesson & Robbins product.

EXPLAINS CANAL LAWYER'S WORK AS 'LECTURING'

Disbarment Witness Tells of Educational Work.

Many of the 55 attorneys employed by the sanitary district at the time that Timothy J. Crowe was president of the board earned their money by "making educational lectures," Judge Thomas Taylor Jr., acting as commissioner for the Supreme court, was told yesterday in the disbarment proceedings started by the Chicago Bar association.

Attorney Lawrence J. Fenlon, senior assistant attorney for the district, was the chief witness yesterday. He explained that the educational work was in the form of lectures to explain four sets of moving picture films used in connection with the campaign for clear water. He said that most of this work was in municipalities bordering the waterways of the district where there was litigation.

Is This a Lawyer's Job?

"Does the sanitary district corporate power include a provision for the employment of attorneys in this capacity," Judge Taylor asked of the witness.

"It does not specifically," he replied.

A letter from Tim Crowe was all that was necessary for a lawyer to attach himself to the district pay roll, another witness told the judge. Col. A. L. Brodie, former chief clerk of the district, explained the system used in keeping the legal department pay rolls.

Graft Case Still On.

Before Judge Joseph David in the Criminal court attorneys representing Crowe and seven other former officials and employés of the district continued their arguments to the effect that the indictment harging the men with conspiracy to graft through padded pay rolls and padded contracts is not in legal form and should be quashed The argument yesterday was devoted mostly to the second count of the indictment.

It was indicated that Attorney Edwin J. Raber, indictment expert who drew up the document, might be called into court to defend his work.

During the hearing yesterday Judge David let it be known that he had received an anonymous letter about the case. He refused to make public its contents.

"I wish I knew the writer of the letter," he told the attorneys. "If I did he sure would get a stiff jail sentence."

WOMEN FOES OF DRY LAW PLAN FOR MASSMEETING

Thousands of hand bills were distributed yesterday by the Illinois division of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, announcing a massmeeting to be held on Wednesday night, Jan. 21, at the Drake hotel. In addition to the general public, delegates from thirty states having similar organizations have been invited.

The speakers will be Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, founder and national chairman of the organization; Mrs. Courtland Nicoll, national secretary, and Mrs. Carroll Miller, member of the advisory council and Democratic national committeewoman for Pennsylvania.

FIGHT PETITIONS OF THREE FELONS FOR CLEMENCY

Crime Commission Sends Protest.

The Chicago crime commission yesterday sent protests to the state board of pardons and paroles relative to petitions for executive clemency for Ira D. Perry Jr., Martin J. Durkin and Frank Egan, convicts sent from Chicago. The board has fixed today for a hearing on the three applications.

Perry is serving a life sentence for murder. Durkin is under sentence of 35 years for murder, and Egan was sentenced to 10 years for rape. Col. Henry Barrett Chamberlin, operating director of the crime commission, issued a statement saying that there is no reason why any of these prisoners should be liberated or get a reduction of sentence.

Fight Clemency for Trio.

"We are protesting against any commutation of sentence or parole for Durkin, Perry or Egan," Col. Chamberlin said. "The Chicago Jewelers' association is interested in keeping Perry in prison and we are cooperating. The jewelers have sent their protest to the state board. We are also acting in behalf of Miss Betty Pierson, the victim of Egan.

"Perry was sentenced to life imprisonment on a plea of guilty to the murder of a jeweler during a holdup. Gov. Small gave him a commutation and a parole, but there was such universal indignation that the governor's agents had to reimprison Perry and later the supreme court held that Small's action in freeing Perry was illegal.

"Durkin was one of Chicago's most desperate gunmen. He was an automobile thief and he shot several policemen before he killed Edward Shanahan, an agent of the department of justice. It cost a considerable sum of money to hunt him all over the country and he was ready to kill again when he was captured. There just isn't any reason why any consideration should be shown for Durkin.

Attacks Rapist's Plea.

"The Egan rape case revealed one of the most brutal attacks ever committed. Miss Pierson was beaten and kicked, her head and body was covered with bruises and one of her ribs was torn from her spine and partial paralysis resulted. One jury sentenced Egan to life imprisonment, but he was given a new trial and the girl h to go through the second ordeal of testifying in court against him.

"Egan threatened to kill her when he got out of jail. He tried to escape when the second verdict of guilty, with a 10 year sentence, was read, and he created a riot in the courtroom. He was captured only after a bailiff had been severely injured.

"The petition for clemency for Egan is in the name of his wife. At the time of his trials there was no mention that he was married, a fact which, if known, would tend to aggravate the guilt of the man."

MRS. J. V. CLINNIN IS FINED $3 ON TRAFFIC CHARGE

Mrs. John V. Clinnin, wife of the chairman of the Illinois boxing commission, was fined $3 by Magistrate Harry H. Porter in Evanston yesterday for driving past a red traffic light. She asserted that she did not see the light. The Clinnins live at 259 Hill road, Glencoe.

The case of Miss Mirjane Strong, daughter of Attorney William G. Strong of 835 Sheridan road, Highland Park, was continued to Jan. 17 when she failed to appear in Magistrate Porter's court, and a capias for the arrest of Mrs. Eugene R. Farny, 693 Walden road, Winnetka, was issued when she forfeited a $10 bond. Both were charged with driving their automobiles past stop lights.

FARMERS TOLD IT'S PULL UPHILL TO BETTER TIMES

Cheery Forecast Made at U. of I. Farm Week.

BY PAUL POTTER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Urbana, Ill., Jan. 14.—[Special.]—Illinois farmers are getting ready for the long pull "up the hill to better times." This was the promise here today to the largest enrollment at any farm and home week the University of Illinois has staged in twenty years.

Visitors came to fortify themselves with the latest knowledge of farm management.

And the picture of the farmers' condition another thirty years hence was painted to them in more roseate hues than that of the recent past. For, with trends in the utilization of the nation's natural resources in the supplying of its peoples' wants fairly well established, the population of 1960 "will need the entire output of those tilling the soil."

This, briefly, was the opinion of Dr. O. E. Baker, the economist named by Secretary Hyde to analyze for the federal department of agriculture the utilization of land in the United States.

Sees Declining Birth Rate.

Dr. Baker had already described the depletion of farm resources that tend to increase the cost of producing food and clothing.

The factor which Dr. Baker said had changed conditions in North America and western Europe, and may still alter them in the orient, is science—and its application to agriculture, to industry, and to man himself.

"The influence of science," he declared, "has permitted a great increase in population, but now the evidence is conclusive that the popularization of scientific knowledge is causing a rapid decline in the birth rate."

The yearly decline in number of children born in the United States, and present immigration standards, point to a stationary population of about 160,000,000 about the year 1960, Dr. Baker forecasts.

Farmer's Fate in Own Hands.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Lafayette, Ind., Jan. 14.—[Special.]—Farm board or no farm board, the future of the American farmer can be solved by limiting production to the willingness of people to buy at fair prices, Carl Williams, Oklahoma cotton member of the federal farm board, told the annual agricultural conference at Purdue university.

He gave evidence that the farm board, which now holds millions of bushels of wheat from the active trade through its recent purchases on the open market, is confident that it can for this reason uphold the present price of wheat.

"But if we find it cannot be done because farmers will not or cannot cut production the only thing is to sell, take the loss, and break the American farmer. One hundred pound hog can eat as much wheat as an average family of five per day. In this present condition of a short crop caused by drought we members of the farm board consider that these sleek coated curly tailed shotes on midwest farms are to be the salvation of the wheat situation this year.

Should Emulate City Labor.

"People in the city have recognized that organized labor can get what it wants if it stays organized. The farmer must learn that present domestic production of wheat is 20 per cent more than United States consumption."

A state corn king was given title and crown this noon when Churchill Barr of Tipton, Ind., received grand sweepstakes on 10 ear samples of a yellow Dent variety. A potato potentate was named in a 75 year old veteran producer, he is W. W. Stauffer of Akron, Ind.

Agricultural engineering, botany, farm management, horticulture, live stock, and poultry problems are being discussed by speakers and members of their farmer audiences in a program that began Monday morning and which will be concluded Friday evening.

Four new master farm home makers were announced today when a luncheon was given in honor of Mrs. Warner M. Davidson, Crawfordsville; Mrs. Clarence J. Martin, Fountain City; Mrs. C. J. Barton, Brook, and Mrs. Paul T. Caldwell, Connersville.

HERE'S A $3,000,000 FISH STORY, AND EVERY WORD OF IT IS TRUE!

Lansing, Mich., Jan. 14.—(AP)—The commercial fish catch in Michigan waters last year amounted to 27,687,851 pounds for a total value of $3,179,135, according to a compilation today by William H. Loutit, chairman of the state conservation commission.

The total fish catch was distributed as follows: Lake Michigan, 9,100,672 pounds; Lake Superior, 4,003,031 pounds; Lake Huron, 5,523,319 pounds; Lake Erie, 922,234 pounds, and Saginaw bay, 8,138,595 pounds.

LLOYD GEORGE BLAMES DEBT TO U. S. FOR SLUMP

Declares America Must Consider Revision.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 14.—That the American government will be confronted with the unpleasant task of asking its taxpayers to sacrifice an income which runs into millions of dollars before the question of the American war debts is finally cleared up, is the suggestion put forward by David Lloyd George, Liberal pa leader, in a slashing attack today on Stanley Baldwin. Mr. Baldwin, Conservative party leader, when chancellor of the exchequer in 1923, went to America and made the funding arrangement under which Great Britain is paying America $165,000,000 a year.

Mr. Lloyd George blames Mr. Baldwin's settlement for most of Great Britain's present financial troubles and said that the settlement made it impossible for the United States to give Great Britain the better treament obtained by other nations.

Cites France and Italy.

He pointed out, moreover, that France and Italy, by waiting and skillful negotiations, secured fairly easy terms, but that Great Britain was rushed precipitately by Mr. Baldwin into a settlement at least three or four times as bad as those subsequently achieved by the finance ministers of France and Italy.

"The headlong action of Mr. Baldwin in 1923," Mr. Lloyd George said, "in spite of the desperate protests of his own chief, the late Prime Minister Bonar Law, is largely responsible for the financial difficulties with which the nation is confronted at the present moment. We are only at the beginning of the troubles which he launched upon the world.

"Americans Were Amazed."

"Americans were amazed with the readiness with which he put the noose round his own country's throat. But once Great Britain had signed the contract it was almost impossible for America to let off the other debtor nations, and now, before the thing can be put right, some American government will be faced with the unpleasant task of asking its taxpayers to sacrifice an income that runs into millions of dollars.

"In 1923 it would have been easy to settle up this great question, but it will be one hundred times more difficult now."

EXPLAINS HOW 9,600 WORDS PER MINUTE ARE SENT ON WIRES

New York, Jan. 14.—[Special.]—A new application of high speed transmission to commercial telegraphy, whereby 9,600 words per minute can be sent over a pair of wires, was described last night by one of its discoverers to members of the Radio Club of America. The speaker was R. B. Steele, assistant chief engineer of the Canadian National Telegraph of Toronto.

The system, he explained, is based upon the carrier current method which, operating over two line wires and making use of certain principles that may be described as wave lengths, provides ten channels, each of which is able to handle the capacity of one multiplex printer, thus speeding up the transmitting capacity from 400 to 4,000 words per minute.

WETS WIN EASY VICTORY IN TEST FOR DRY REPEAL

Measure Is Advanced to Second Reading.

remain the party of the people it must abide by the will of the people. It was the wet and dry question that settled the senatorship election, and Republicans sent J. Hamilton Lewis to the senate, for there are not Democrats enough to do that.

"The Republicans were lulled into security by the invisible government of the Anti-Saloon league. This last election brought them out of it—my district voted against the invisible rule of the league and voted for Mr. Lewis."

A reminder of the party platforms on the referendum was shot in by Michael L. Igoe, minority leader.

"The repeal of the state prohibition law," he said, "is a mandate from the voters, expressed in the November election. The Democrats had a wet platform. The Republican state convention held the party to abide by the verdict on the referendum. There is no use in rehashing in committee. We can have a hearing before the whole house."

"Yes," argued Representative O'Grady, "a million people voted for repeal of the search and seizure act. The Republican state convention committed itself to the referendum. The overwhelming vote given James Hamilton Lewis showed the popular wishes on this issue. This is the first mandate binding on this legislature."

The liberal leaders are now planning a field day of argument and debate when the bill is called up on second reading. A date is to be set after consultation with both wet and dry forces. It is to be held before the open house, and it is planned to bring in the senate for a joint meeting and the discussion of prohibition may occupy more than one day.

Minority Shows Strength.

The liberals tonight say the success of the O'Grady motion indicates the Democratic minority organization is starting off as a well articulated fighting force. When bills were called for this morning Representative Adamowski yielded to O'Grady, who got the repealer in as bill No. 1. Then came the battle to advance it without reference to committee, Minority Leader Igoe and O'Grady taking the lead. Representative James T. Burns of Kankakee, a Democrat, who was detained by illness last week, asked to be sworn immediately to enable him to vote for repeal. But the Supreme court justices were all working, and Mr. Burns had to defer his oath-taking until tomorrow.

On the Republican side arose Leroy M. Green of Rockford with an appeal to "follow the voice of the people."

"If you want to place the Republican party back again as a party of the people," he told his Republican colleagues, "cut out pussyfooting. It's time to cut loose from letting fanatical drys run the party on a rule or ruin policy. I'm a Republican. I vote to get back to the party of Abraham Lincoln and to recognize the voice of the people is the voice of our masters."

Voices Dry Argument.

Roger F. Little of Urbana took another view and suggested that a majority of all the voters had perhaps not voted for repeal on the referendum, the old Anti-Saloon league argument.

"The radical, fanatical wets are just as much a rule or ruin element in the Republican party," he said, "as is the radical, fanatical dry."

Up jumped Tom O'Grady. "You say the vote against prohibition was not sufficient?" he asked. "Well, tell me, now much did J. Ham Lewis carry Champaign county by? It was the first time a Democratic candidate for senator carried that district. The landslide and the referendum, would you not regard them as a voice from the people? Does it have to be unanimous to be a mandate?"

Another members shouted something about it not being constitutional to advance bills without committee action.

"Ha!" cried O'Grady. "You talk about the constitution. Yet you don't follow it on redistricting. You have disobeyed it twenty years. You follow the constitution only when you want."

The big battle is expected to come in the senate, which for years has been traditionally dry. Both sides are already concentrating on the senators, but action is expected to wait upon the fight in the house.

URGE CONGRESS TO SPEED FLOOD CONTROL WORK

Waterway Meeting Pens Its Resolution.

Resolutions asking congress to speed up flood control expenditures and to modify the Jadwin engineering plan in the interests of Louisiana property owners were approved last night at the waterways and flood control meeting at the Congress hotel.

The meeting will end today with labor questions involved in waterway and flood control construction the topic. Michael Kelly, president of the Wage Earners' league, will preside.

James M. Thomson of New Orleans headed the committee which drew up the resolutions placed before the conference last night.

Urge Flood Control Action.

One resolution demanded that the goverment immediately expend the balance of its 340 million dollar flood control authorization, of which 20 millions have been appropriated. Another proposed that it clarify the 1928 flood control act, said by Louisiana delegates to have been misinterpreted by the army engineers. They want the government to shoulder all the expense of buying lands taken for spillways.

Former Gov. Arthur J. Weaver of Nebraska was the principal speaker yesterday. He declared that waterway development would save Mississippi valley farmers from 5 to 12 cents a bushel on grain transportation.

Representative Numa F. Montet [Dem., La.] advocated adoption of bills pending in congress to aid financially distressed drainage districts and to pay for land taken in levee setbacks. Other speakers were S. W. Thompson, member of the South Dakota water conservation commission; M. L. Bath, Shreveport, La., and City Attorney William Saltiel. Mayor Semmes Wamsley of New Orleans presided.

At the close of the meeting last night the delegates were entertained at a show staged by downtown theater performers. The police quartet and band furnished music troughout the day.

FLOODED RIVERS HALT RELIEF FOR VOLCANO VICTIMS

SAN ANTONIO DE LOS COBRES, Argentina, Jan. 14.—(AP)—Flood today added to the distress in the La Poma district of western Argentina, where newly opened volcanoes have caused some loss of life and heavy property damage.

A relief expedition from this city, headed for El Potrerillo, where the most serious damage was reported, was forced to turn back by raging streams, flooded by torrential rains. Communication with the district was disrupted, but fragmentary messages indicated the fear there that a number of lives had been lost.

Three volcanoes, two near Cobres and El Potrerillo and the third at Abra de Chorilos, spouted hot water, mud, and rocks, burying houses and destroying crops and live stock. Violent earth shocks accompanied the volcanic manifestation. At El Potrerillo a 15 year old girl was struck by a rock and killed and her younger brother was reported missing.

Cardinal Hayes Confined to Bed by a Severe Cold

New York, Jan. 14.—(AP)—Cardinal Hayes was confined to his bed today with a cold which developed Saturday, and which has caused him to cancel several engagements. His physician said he probably would have to remain at home for two or three days.

Little Lips must be protected

Little bodies, little heads and hands and feet are carefully protected from wind and cold, but little lips—the most thinly skinned of all—are forgotten. Nature left off the granular layer from the skin of the lips—only the most gossamer-like membrane covers the tissues. Exposure to cold, wind, heat or light quickly dries it to the breaking point—painful, chapped or cracked lips result and open spots are danger spots of infection.

GOVERNOR PICKS NEW TAX BOARD; CUSTER IS CHIEF

Kinley, Former University Head, on List.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 14.—[Special.]—Gov. Emmerson appointed an entire new tax commission today and named Ben H. Miller of Libertyville supervisor of the Illinois waterway to supplant William F. Mulvihill, appointed by Len Small. The appointments were presented to the senate late in the afternoon with a request for confirmation, which was referred to the executive committee.

The Emmerson tax commission, the naming of which follows the resignation of William H. Malone as chairman of the old board, is headed by Omer N. Custer, who turned over the state treasurer's office Monday to Edward J. Barrett.

Two Cook Assessors Included.

The new members are David Kinley, president-emeritus, the University of Illinois; Charles Krutckoff, former chairman of the Cook county board of assessors and defeated for reelection in November; Charles Ringer, former Cook county assessor who did not seek reelection, and A. D. Rodenberg of Centralia, former assistant attorney general.

Custer has served two terms as treasurer and prior to that was a member of the Illinois industrial commission, postmaster at Galesburg, his home, and treasurer of Knox county.

"President Kinley's appointment," said the administration announcement, "will be eminently satisfactory to the agricultural groups of the state, because of his international fame as a deep student of economics in all its branches, including taxation."

Commission Kinley's Recommendation.

In 1910 Prof. Kinley was appointed on a commission to study the advisability of abolishing the old state board of equalization, and which created the tax commission in its place. He was made head of the university in 1920, remaining in the position until his retirement last July.

Krutckoff was associated with the Cook county assessors for thirty-one years, starting in 1899 as clerk. He was successively supervisor of personal property, chief clerk and was first elected a member in 1918.

Ringer was elected to the board in 1918 and was reelected in 1918 and 1924.

Mr. Rodenberg, the third downstate member, was city judge of Centralia and later an assistant attorney general. At present he is practicing law in his home. During his term in the attorney general's office he defended the constitutionality of the $60,000,000 road bond act before the Illinois supreme court, and fought the Fergus reapportionment suits.

Comes from Lake County.

The new superintendent of the waterways is vice chairman of the Republican organization in Lake county and was a judge of the court of claims under former Gov. Lowden.

The retiring tax commission is composed of Charles R. Francis, Chicago; A. T. Spivey, East St. Louis; J. D. Telford, Salem, and Mr. Malone. Their terms and that of Mr. Mulvihill expired two years ago, but all have continued to function under the Emmerson administration.

MAN WHO TOOK THE PINCH OUT OF SHOES HONORED

New York, Jan. 14.—(AP)—The almost unknown scientist who made walking easier will receive the distinguished William H. Nichols medal for his services.

The award was announced tonight by the New York section of the American Chemical society, and the recipient is Dr. John Arthur Wilson of Milwaukee.

In 1924 Wilson, a chemist, started the first comprehensive measurements of the properties of leather, and his discoveries were translated rapidly into shoes of greater comfort.

He showed it is the shoe leather instead of the feet which gives some persons the ability to foretell weather changes by the advance pains in their bunions. The pain came from an extra pinch in shoe leather, due to its sensitivity to humidity changes.

Dr. Wilson found a way to reduce the pinch about one-third by proper selection of tanning material. He measured the effect of color of a shoe on its temperature rise in sunlight; learned for the first time the ventilating properties of leather and how shoes could be given a ventilation 80 per cent as good as that of bare feet, and made improvements in temper, resilience, porosity, and density of leather.

He organized a national committee to study the properties of leather from the standpoint of greater ease and comfort, utility, and economy.

Big, jovial, and 40, Dr. Wilson is an alumnus of New York university and the University of Leeds, England. He was born in Chicago.

BILLS TO ABOLISH COOK ASSESSORS BOARD ARE FILED

Measures Are Among 45 New Ones in House.

BY PERCY WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 14.—[Special.]—Measures to abolish the Cook county board of assessors, Democratic planks last summer when the board was predominantly Republican, were introduced in the house today by Representative Elmer J. Schnackenberg of Chicago, a Republican. The board changed its political complexion in November and now contains three Democrats and two Republicans.

These bills were paramount in a list of forty-five that were received on Speaker Shanahan's desk as soon as he announced the hour for introduction. When the senate convened forty-eight bills were brought forward in the half hour session.

Committee Work Starts.

Committee work got under way in the upper house with the approval of three chairmanships presented by Senator Harold C. Kessinger of Aurora, chairman of the committee on committees. Senator Martin R. Carlson of Moline heads the contingent expense committee, Senator Richard Barr of Joliet the elections committee, and Senator Carlson the executive committee.

The Schnackenberg measures provide for the immediate abolition of all township assessors in Cook county, as well as the county board of assessors, and provides for the appointment of one county assessor by the president of the Cook county board.

Elective Board Retained.

"Recognizing the principle that the people should retain some direct control over the assessing machinery," said the Schnackenberg statement, "these bills do not abolish the present elective board of review, but do raise definite restrictions on its powers. Under the measures, no changes in assessments can be made by the board of review unless the assessor has had written notice of the hearing and a full opportunity to be heard in defense of his assessment."

A number of the bills introduced in the house were duplicated in the senate. This was true of several of the armory bills. Four headquarters for National Guard troops are asked of this assembly in the house. Their location, appropriation request, and sponsor follows: Rockford, $4,000,000, Representative Leroy Greene; Urbana, $250,000, Representative William E. Gilmore; Waukegan, $250,000, Representative Richard J. Lyons; Elgin, $250,000, Representative Frank A. McCarthy.

Against Death Penalty.

Bills affecting the death penalty in murder and kidnaping cases came into the house. Representative Roland V. Libonati of Chicago would have capital punishment a noninflictable penalty in murder and kidnaping cases where pleas of guilty are entered. Representative George W. Blackwell of Chicago did not so qualify his bills, the death penalty being thrown out as punishment for either crime.

In the house Representative Elmer C. Wulson of Kankakee had a bill for the regulation of aeronautics in Illinois and Senator Richard R. Meents of Ashkum presented a similar measure in the upper chamber.

Representative Albert Mancin of Chicago presented a measure to become effective Jan. 1, 1933, which would force all railroads operating in the city limits of more than 200,000 to make grade separations at crossings, building elevated highways over the tracks.

Bill on Electrification.

Another railroad bill was that of Representative Harris B. Gaines of Chicago asking that railroads in cities of a million population be forced to electrify their lines within the city limits by Jan. 1, 1935. Gaines also asked for the appointment of a legislative and gubernatorial commission of nine members to study state unemployment. Representative Henry Sonnenschein of Chicago had a bill which would incorporate "Chicago World's Fair, 1933" on all Illinois auto license plates issued for 1932.

Representative David H. McCluggage, Peoria, introduced a bill, which was advanced to second reading, to allow cities from 100,000 to 200,000 population to establish their public tuberculosis sanitariums and to impose a tax not to exceed one and one-half mills for the support.

Senate bills included a second search and seizure law repealer presented by Senator Patrick J. Carroll of Chicago, Democratic. Another Democrat, Senator Frank McDermott, entered a similar bill last week.

Convict Pardoned When Others Confess to Crime

Charleston, W. Va., Jan. 14.—(AP)—A man serving a 15 year prison sentence for robbery was pardoned unconditionally today by Gov. William G. Conley after Mrs. Irene Schroeder and W. Glenn Dague, under sentence to die in Pennsylvania, had confessed they committed the robbery. The prisoner, Frank Howell, of New Martinsville, had served more than a year of the sentence. Mrs. Schroeder and Dague have been sentenced to die for the killing of a Pennsylvania state highway patrolman.

DATE IN $437,000 WILL IS A FAKE, WITNESS SAYS

Testifies on Bequest of Mrs. Kittie Gunn Jones.

Testimony offered in an effort to invalidate the will of Mrs. Kittie Gunn Jones, which left an estate of $437,000 to her second husband, Charles W. Jones, was given by a witness at a hearing yesterday before Acting Probate Judge Harry C. Daniels. Mrs. Jones, who was 74 years old, died suddenly on Sept 6 in her home at 4119 Drexel boulevard, after she has been given a hypodermic injection, according to 12 relatives who are contesting the will.

The witness was Robert Ward, a publicity man, who testified that he signed his name as a witness to the will in August, 1928, although the will was dated Aug. 27, 1927. Attorneys representing the contestants to the will intimated that they will place the record of Ward's testimony before State's Attorney Swanson with a view of bringing criminal action against Jones.

Tells of Signing Document.

"I was with Jones on a business trip to Montreal in August of 1928," Ward said in answer to questions put by Attorney Clarence Parker, representing the contestants. "We were staying at the Windsor hotel. Jones handed me a will and asked me to sign my name to it. We were alone.

"I remarked to Jones that the will was dated Aug. 27, 1927. He told me that if I was ever questioned about it to say that I had signed the will on Aug. 27, 1927. Jones said that that was his birthday and that I should say I was attending a birthday party at his home on that day."

Judge Daniels announced that under the circumstances he could not rule on probating the will and continued the hearing until today. While Ward was testifying a woman who gave her name as Miss A. M. Simpson telephoned to Mitchell C. Robin, clerk of the Probate court, and said that she has in her possession a will of Mrs. Jones dated in September, 1929. She was told to appear at today's hearing.

Made Sole Beneficiary.

Jones was made sole beneficiary in his wife's will. The estate consists of $422,000 in personal property and $15,000 in real estate. The twelve contestants to the will are headed by Mrs. Louis Estelle Thompson, 1636 North Shore avenue, a sister of Mrs. Jones.

Last December Mrs. Thompson filed a petition in the Criminal court asking that the body of Mrs. Jones be exhumed from the Rosehill cemetery for an inquest. Her attorney, Edward M. Burke, announced at that time that the action was the first step to break the will of Mrs. Jones.

The petition was recently dismissed by Judge Joseph B. David in the Criminal court, who held that the court is without jurisdiction and suggested that the state's attorney be asked to start a criminal action before court sanction is sought.

THE HOME LIFE OF AN "IT" GIRL TOLD IN COURT

Confession of Clara's Secretary Read.

said that a few days prior to Miss De Boe's arrest last November she visited his bank and withdrew $22,000 from her employer's savings account.

"She said," O'Dell testified, "that Rex Bell wanted Miss Bow to invest in some scheme she didn't approve of, and she would place the money in a deposit box where Clara wouldn't find it. She said she was fearful Clara would invest in some wild scheme of some German to make $1,000 bills out of dollars."

Daisy Hates to Tell.

At the morning session Daisy tried hard to keep those 30 revealing pages from the jury. She got on the stand and swore that the statement was obtained by threats, which so frightened her that she didn't know what she was saying.

But when Blayney Matthews was sworn, immediately after Daisy, he denied that any threats were made to the pert, blonde, defendant, so Judge Doran reconsidered an earlier ruling, and admitted the statement into evidence.

The $125,000 demand by Miss De Boe on her late employer was revealed in this series of questions by Matthews and the defendant's answers.

Q.—Did you threaten Clara with exposure of any kind? A.—No, I didn't threaten her.

Q.—Isn't it a fact that you went to Paramount studio? A.—I went to the studio and told Mr. Herschman what a dirty deal Rex Bell (who sat beside Clara in court) was giving me.

She Threatens Trouble.

Q.—Didn't you say that unless Clara Bow paid you $125,000 ——? A.—I said to Mr. Herschman that unless Miss Bow came around to my way of thinking there might be trouble.

Q.—Did you say that unless Miss Bow paid you $125,000 you would expose her to public ridicule by exhibiting and selling or publishing letters that you now state were all burned? A.—I just told him the state of affairs and that Clara wasn't treating me fair. He referred me to W. I. Gilbert (attorney for Miss Bow) and I went to see Mr. Gilbert and he said "How much do you want?"

Q.—What did you tell him you wanted? A.—One hundred and twenty-five thousand dollars.

Q.—For what? A.—I think Clara knows for what.

Q.—We want to know what. A.—For things I know.

Q.—What do you know? A.—I know it would be to her advantage that I keep my mouth shut.

Q.—Weren't you advised at that time as you are now, that when you went there and demanded that money, you committed the crime of attempted extortion? A.—Yes, and I haven't done anything since then.

Under further questions by Matthews it developed that Daisy, instead of burning all of Clara's love letters, had in her possession a multitude of them, addressed to Clara from Dr. Pearson, Richman, and Bell.

But Daisy Explains.

Daisy explained this to Matthews by saying: "The letters turned up later. I thought Alfred (Alfred Mathes, Miss De Boe's boy friend) had burned them in the incinerator and that's why I said they were all burned. Alfred got sick and was home in bed and I did not find out about it."

In her statement to Matthews the secretary painted an intimate picture of the domestic interior in the Bow household. Excerpts follow:

"Clara was drunk when I left her, and that is why I did not go into things when I departed. I was afraid she would stab me; she has tried to kill me before. I thought we could get together later and settle everything quietly. In fact, I acted as I did to save Clara's career in motion pictures, for she was in such a position that one more slam would mean the end of Clara Bow in pictures.

Such a Difficult Girl.

"It's so hard to be with a girl like Clara, with everything and respect for nothing. This situation was her own fault. If she had paid attention to business I would never have taken a dime from her, but she wouldn't even write her own checks. I would go in and tell her how her accounts stood. She would ask me how much money she then had in the bank, but I couldn't get her interested to sit down and talk over her business affairs.

"Clara had me buy all her whisky. I dressed and undressed her, did her hair, bought all her clothes, because she said that she relied on my good taste. She promised to pay me the salary that she had paid Bogart Rogers, my predecessor, but she did not make good on her promise, even after I asked her many, many times.

"Clara kept heaps of love letters. One time I burned all that had accumulated from various men for two years. I burned all of Gary Cooper's. Clara got very sore and quarreled with me for three days because I burned them, but I knew the letters might get her into trouble some time.

A Daughter's Worries.

"Clara told me that she had had trouble with her father. [The father, Robert Bow, was married twice in recent years to actresses and both marriages were dissolved following Robert Bow's charges that his young wives were after money.] Clara told me her father ran through $25,000 of her money and she was keeping his canceled checks in case he tried to make trouble for her."

One paragraph showed that Miss De Boe suddenly came in possession of funds to purchase a $450 sapphire ring, which she gave to Alfred Mathes. Other details of her confession follow:

Q.—On Oct. 1 there is an item, diamond brooch, $100. Did you purchase that jewelry for Miss Bow? A.—I did.

Q.—Did you deliver it to her? A.—No, I did not. I am going to give it to her tomorrow.

A Watch for Mother.

Q.—There is another watch. Where is that? A.—My mother has that. I have those letters, too, and will give them back to her.

Q.—Have you still any cashier's checks or anything? A.—A $22,000 certified check which I have not yet mailed back to Clara.

Q.—How much money have you drawn out of that account of Miss Bow's, over your salary? A.—Approximately $35,000.

Q.—What I mean is how much you have appropriated to your own use? A.—About that much—I couldn't tell you exactly.

Q.—How long did that embezzling continue? A.—I was going to tell Clara about it later on. I couldn't see my mother lose her home and car. I started taking money about September, 1929.

Mrs. Julia Jamrocik, 44 years old, 838 North Hermitage avenue, was found dead in the kitchen of her home yesterday with the gas burners of her kitchen range open. Her husband said she had not been ill.

'TWAS DAISY DE BOE; IT BECAME DE VOE; NOW THE "B" IS BACK

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 14.—(AP)—Most names are just spelled, but to spell that of Daisy De Boe, co-starring with Clara Bow in a sensational court trial here, requires a bit of historical knowledge about Hollywood.

Many actors and actresses play under screen names, but although Daisy De Boe never was in a picture she is commonly known in film circles as Daisy De Voe.

When she became secretary to Miss Bow in 1929, she changed her name to De Voe because of the similarity between her real name and that of her employer. But she became Miss De Boe again when she and the actress reached the parting of the ways last October.

Miss De Boe is 26 years old and came to Hollywood seven years ago from St. Louis.

SON IS SUING TO BREAK WILL OF RICH PUBLISHER

Says Milton McRae Was Influenced.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 14.—(AP)—Trial of Lindsay McRae's suit to break the will of his father, Milton A. McRae, late millionaire publisher, was started today before Judge Ormond F. Hunt in Wayne County Circuit court.

Under the terms of the will, disposing of an estate valued originally at $4,000,000, the son was given an income of $500 a month, of which $150 was to go to the support of Mary Anne McRae, daughter by his first wife, Anne Kelsey McRae, formerly of Grand Rapids.

Accuses Secretary.

The son charges in his suit that his father was influenced by a secretary to alter an earlier will which provided more liberally for him. He charges his father's judgment was questionable in his declining years. The will now under attack was dated June 13, 1930.

Defense counsel contended in court today that the comparatively small bequest included in the will for the son reflected the elder McRae's disappointment in his son's conduct.

Attorneys for the estate said today the estate has diminished in value since McRae's death in San Diego, last Oct. 11. They assign market fluctuations as the reason.

Daughters Chief Beneficiaries.

Under the will the bulk of the estate is left to two daughters, Mrs. Marie McRae Temple of London, England, and Mrs. Helen M. Handerson, Montclair, N. J. A trust fund was set up for the support of a grandson, John Paul Scripps of San Diego, Cal.

Arthur J. Abbott, attorney for Lindsay McCrae, said in his opening statement to the jury that he would attempt to show that his client had quarreled early last year with Leslie J. Travener, secretary to the elder McCrae, and that because of that dispute Travener influenced the publisher against his son.

He said also there would be evidence to show that the two daughters visited their father in San Diego and made statements that turned McRae against their brother.

WORLD WAR WON BY YANKEE PLUCK, GERMAN INSISTS

Says A. E. F. Revived Allies in Nick of Time.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 14.—The "incredible and unrivaled pluck" of the A. E. F. won the world war for the allies and the American troops succeeded in reviving the spirits of the French and English forces just in the nick of time when they threatened to break down before the final onslaught of the kaiser's armies in May and end of June, 1918. This opinion is voiced by a prominent German military expert, Col. Ernst Otto, in his book, "The Star Spangled Banner Against Black-White-Red" [the former German imperial colors], the latest contribution to war literature.

One of the most decisive battles of 1918, according to Col. Otto, was the battle for possession of Belleau wood. Details he reveals in his book are of greatest interest. The battle was waged between the second American division and parts of Germany's crack units, such as the 10th and 28th infantry divisions, from June 6 to June 15.

Bulwarked Tottering Allies.

"Never, till then," he writes, "had the German forces met the American troops in a pitched battle. Till then the allied unified command had sent the American forces, even the regular 1st, 2d, and 3d divisions, to quiet sectors of the front. For the first time, in these critical days, a large unit of the A. E. F. engaged in a pitched battle against our forces. Would they hold good? If they failed, the pillar on which the allies relied to support their tottering lines would break down."

The second American division did not fail. The book reads:

"On July 3, 1918, the German troops were still advancing, following the spectacular storming of Chemin des Dames, which the French had believed impregnable. Driving the battered and unnerved French divisions before them, the 197th German infantry division suddenly came up against a deadly machine gun fire coming out of the Bois de Veuilly. In vain the German division tried to take the wood by storm the following night.

"The victoriously advancing German troops were amazed at this sudden and quite unexpected stubborn resistance. They did not know that they had come up against the 23d American division, and the 1st and 2d battalion of the 5th marines."

Lack of Experience Costly.

One of the explanations for the high losses of the Americans is the lack of war experience of the troops. Here is what Lieut. Happich, A. D. C., of the Second battalion of the 47th Infantry regiment wrote in his diary:

"Enemy lacks war experience. In massed groups, rifles slung over neck, pipe in mouth, and hands in pockets, one cannot attack a regiment of our war experience, even if it be decimated and at the end of its strength."

In these early June days the Second division proved that the American troops could stand up against Germany's most war experienced, though battered and decimated divisions.

"The attacks of the American Second division on Belleau wood," says Col. Otto, "were carried out with unparalleled pluck."

BY TOM PETTEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 14.—[Special.]—The old game of the rented room and the hired co-respondent is on the ropes in this state. Soon it may no longer be necessary to listen to the clickety-click of Reno-bound Pullman wheels. The Paris ferry boats are in a fair way to lose a lot of divorcée trade and the stay at home matrimonial mismates may go to court without having to sit in a perjurer's seat.

Today the lawmakers of Albany have before them Assemblyman Maurice Z. Bungard's bill for a change in this state's antiquated divorce laws. For fifteen years a fight has been under way to reform New York's archiac divorce and alimony code. Progress has been made for the first time at this session of the legislature, and if the bill is successful it will permit honest and inexpensive divorces.

Seek to Prevent Perjury.

The Bungard bill seeks to remove from the citizens of New York the necessity of hiring private detectives, co-respondents, and hotel rooms in order to indulge in fantastic and often imaginary misconduct, usually followed by perjury on the witness stand, before the constitutional privilege of dissolution of marriage contracts is permitted.

As the law now stands it is a divorce-for-adultery-only code. Nothing else matters. The Bungard bill would add cruelty and two years' desertion as causes for divorce and further liberalize the present inflexible statutes. Divorce by collusion would be ended and there would be no need for otherwise honest men and women to become perjurers when the only solution of their marriage problem was complete dissolution.

Justices Support Measure.

Among civic and legal leaders who have been supporting the campaign to liberalize New York's divorce law are Supreme Court Justices Richard P. Lydon, Selah B. Strong, former Justice Alfred R. Page, Arthur Garfield Hays, the attorney; Arthur C. Mandel, attorney, and former Assemblyman Frank Aranow, now practicing law in New York City.

Mr. Aranow attempted to get legislative action on the divorce problem in 1916 and 1917, but said he found the legislators against any change because of public opinion.

"But nowadays," said Mr. Aranow, "most persons are frankly in favor of divorce when that is the only solution and the legislature can no longer pass the buck. Every Tom, Dick, and Harry who is willing to lie about it—either by establishing a phoney residence in another state or persuading his wife to frame up evidence, can get a decree. Just because some reputable people will not resort to such tactics they must continue to live unhappily."

Present Law "Farcical."

Lawyers term the present divorce law "farcical." They point out that a young woman married to a brute or drunkard and who has no children must endure the brutality or else be contented with a separation. Even if the husband is unfaithful in such cases the woman seldom has sufficient funds to hire detectives to catch him.

Mr. Hays believes the alimony evil should receive the same attention as the divorce law. Alimony, the attorney said, should be limited in most cases to a woman's earning capacity before her marriage. If she should return to work, the alimony should be proportionately reduced.

"Alimony should be provided where there are children," Mr. Hays said, "or where the woman has become handicapped in her earning power by giving the best years of her life to her home and family. But until the divorce code is changed in this state divorces will continue to be more or less of a farce."

Examples Are Cited.

Attorney Mandel, who has handled many divorce cases, said he could cite a hundred "which would show the absurdity of the present divorce law."

"There is the woman with the drunkard husband, the couple who have not lived together in five years, the woman deserted by her husband before her child was born, the man who discovered soon after marriage that he had wed a dope addict, deserted husbands and wives who fall in love with some one else. None of these persons should be compelled to resort to perjury and sub rosa methods to obtain a divorce."

In the past efforts to liberalize this state's divorce laws have met with strong opposition from church organizations and the recent encyclical of Pope Pius is expected to result in a concerted drive against the Bungard bill.

GERMAN BUDGET SHOWS DEFICIT OF $240,000,000

But Finance Chief Sees Better Days Ahead.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 14.—Before Foreign Minister Julius Curtius left today for Geneva, where the first league of nations discussions will center on the present European economic situation, Finance Minister Hermann Dietrich detailed the republic's financial status to the reichstag's budget committee.

Revising earlier estimates, Herr Dietrich said that the ordinary budget of the current year would show a deficit of $240,000,000, due to a decrease in receipts of $165,000,000 plus an increase of $75,000,000 in expenditures for Germany's jobless.

Sees Gain in Business.

The deficit of the extraordinary budget, he also explained, had on the other hand decreased from $183,000,000 to $75,000,000 through a loan arranged with the Ivar Krueger match trust of Sweden in return for a half share in the German state match monopoly for 50 years.

The budget estimates for the next half year, the finance chief added, were based on the anticipation of a slight improvement in business.

"If this improvement does not develop," he said, "there might be a deficit up to $75,000,000, but the cabinet considered that it would be a false move, under present financial conditions, to seek to provide coverage for such a possible deficit by increasing taxes.

Cut Ministerial Staffs.

"A better way would be to endeavor to create a reserve by cutting expenditures. The cabinet had decided that ministerial civil service staffs must be reduced by at least 10 per cent."

Herr Dietrich emphasized that Germany's financial difficulties arose not only from the world market and the world-wide economic depression but was particularly the result from the situation at home. He said therefore that the primary aim must be to stimulate a home market.

An announcement of a reduction in prices of all iron products on an average of six per cent was made today.

STEAMERS FAIL TO FIND MISSING OCEAN FLYERS

PONTA DELGADA, Azores, Jan. 14.—(AP)—The steamer Norfolk, which for two days has been searching the seas about the Azores islands for the missing monoplane, Tradewind, and the Swedish steamer, Nuolja, which also has been looking for the missing plane, today reported that their search had been fruitless. The Norfolk steamed about the island of St. Michaels, with flashlights playing on the water, but found nothing to indicate that an object which inhabitants saw falling into the sea at about the time the Tradewind should have been in the vicinity was anything but a rocket fired by a British cruiser maneuvering nearby.

"BROKEN ILLUSIONS CAN NEVER BE MENDED" SAYS DOROTHY DIX

[world-famous writer on women's problems]

"YOU GIRLS AND WIVES who long to win love and hold it—live up to a man's IDEAL!

"It's a deep need of man's nature to idealize a woman—to think of her as more delicate, more exquisite than himself.

"SUCH a 'small' offense against daintiness as a faded shoulder ribbon peeping out . . . frayed lace edging visible when you lift up your arm . . . a silk slip not so color-fresh as it might be. Such things as these rob you of all illusion in 'his' eyes!

"And broken illusions can never be mended.

"I beg you all to do these two very simple things:

1. Buy the loveliest, most exquisite lingerie you can.
2. Keep it always color-fresh, beautiful.

"JUST knowing your underthings are lovely does something to you! It makes you FEEL feminine and charming. And when you feel so, you ARE!

"'But how can we keep delicate lingerie fresh and colorful?' girls often say to me. 'Frequent washing leaves it so faded and worn-looking.'

"It is true that ordinary 'good' soaps take away the COLOR and the charming new look of a garment, but this is never the case with Lux. These wonderful flakes are especially made to preserve COLOR and NEWNESS.

Such glimpses as this tell so quickly if you're feminine and exquisite!

FUNDS FOR THE POLICE INQUIRY.

State's Attorney Swanson's application to the county board for an appropriation of $50,000 to finance a continuance of the special grand jury's police inquiry should be granted if possible. President Randolph of the Association of Commerce says the inquiry will not be allowed to lapse if the board fails to provide the necessary funds, but private sources should not be drawn upon to accomplish an urgently needed investigation of a public service, and the county board will be expected by the public to do everything within its power to provide for it. Citizens were called upon to subscribe for a fund for the Loesch investigation because a previous county board refused to do its duty. No repayment of this contribution has yet been made, but certainly citizens do not consider it a precedent and will resent refusal of the board to supply funds unless the inability of the board is clearly shown.

It is the duty of the board to supply the funds and President Cermak has promised the jury to do all in his power to secure the appropriation, while expressing some doubt of the board's ability to make it because of the existing financial shortage.

In any case, the inquiry will not be defeated, but if the board is unable to provide the fund it should pledge repayment of private contribution at the earliest possible time.

BRAKES AND TIRES.

The law of Illinois has not kept up with improvements in the automobile. This session of the legislature would do well, for example, to require four wheel brakes on all cars operated in the state. Four wheel brakes stop a car in less space and are therefore the means of avoiding many accidents. However, this advantage has been lost, in part, because there is still a considerable number of two wheel brake cars on the roads, although practically all the automobiles turned out in recent years have the more modern equipment. The inability to stop the older cars as quickly as most of the automobiles on the road has led to many rear end collisions. The two wheel brake is a menace which should be removed from the roads.

Another point at which the law might be modernized to great advantage is in the matter of tires. Trucks in Illinois may still be equipped with hard tires, although manufacturers have developed types of pneumatic tires which are far less damaging to the roads. Recent legislation will require buses to operate on soft tires within the next few months; similar legislation should be passed for trucks. It is absurd that the owners of the heaviest vehicles, which do the most damage to our roads, are not required to minimize that damage.

ARMAMENT FOR CRIME.

Col. A. V. Smith, able state's attorney of Lake county, proposes a law severely penalizing the unlawful possession of machine guns. Under the bill sheriffs would have authority to grant permits to banks, business houses, pay roll guards, and other proper persons or organizations. Unauthorized possession or transference would be punishable by a fine not exceeding $1,000 and imprisonment not more than five years. Conviction of an attempt to use the weapon would be punishable by a term not longer than 10 years.

The bill should be given thorough consideration among others which are likely to be offered for the improvement of our means of dealing with organized violence. The machine gun has no use for a law abiding citizen unless he can demonstrate a special need for it, as in the instances mentioned above. The number of them in existence is evidence in itself of the extent and gravity of organized crime. Possession, except in permitted cases, should be severely punished.

By the same reasoning gun toting should be more drastically dealt with. In Wisconsin the other day a man found with a deadly weapon was sent to prison for three years. In Illinois the carrying, possessing or selling, loaning or giving of deadly weapons and the carrying of concealed firearms are misdemeanors and punishable by a fine of not more than $300 or by confinement in the county jail for not more than six months, or by both. If the offender who has been convicted of crime within five years violates any of these prohibition this violation becomes a felony and punishable by imprisonment in the penitentiary for not less than one nor more than ten years.

These provisions have not been effectively enforced. Magistrates have been too lenient and prosecutors sometimes negligent. The subject should be carefully considered by the legislature, which should take the advice of police, prosecutors and such well informed civic agencies as the Chicago crime commission. No one wishes the law abiding citizen to be deprived of means of defense, but the prevalence of deadly weapons in the hands of gangsters and irresponsibles is flagrant evidence of a situation in need of correction, perhaps by both legislative and administrative action.

We think also that what are called hoodlum flats or places gangsters frequent and where they store arms call for some special attention. As we have suggested before, action against owners or tenants who can be shown to have known of this use of their premises or to have been negligent in proper surveillance might be made subject to some fitting penalty. Premises that are proven to be used for breaches of the dry laws can be padlocked, and this has been frequently done, sometimes with little sense of proportion between penalty and offense. It is anomalous that so serious an offense as the storage of gang weapons should be so much more gently treated.

ORDERS OF THE NEW SHERIFF.

Instructions of the new sheriff to the county highway police encourage the hope that Mr. Meyering will not disappoint the expectation of his supporters. It is, of course, one thing to give orders and quite another to get them obeyed. But where there is a will there is a way, and, while the orders themselves indicate that the sheriff knows what is needed for the improvement of the county police service, there is reason in his past record and reputation for crediting him with the will to have his orders respected.

Both the spirit and sense of the instructions are commendable. Especially we welcome his recognition of the fact that policemen know most of the hoodlums and their places of resort and that it is inconsistent with the strict and faithful performance of duty that officers of the law should fraternize with the one or frequent the other.

Another aspect of the county police work has to do with better regulation of traffic. Sheriff Meyering instructs his men to treat citizens with proper courtesy and consideration, but calls for proper regulation of driving. With the rapid extension of our great radial highways and the steady increase of traffic it is necessary that heedless driving be corrected. This can best be done, as the sheriff points out, not by bullying and harassment, but by advice and warning, followed up in cases of serious infraction by arrest and legal action. Policemen should never indulge in abuse nor submit to it. Respect for the citizen will bring respect for the policeman. Where it does not, formal action, not personal abuse, is the proper remedy. Present habits of many policemen in and out of the city in dealing with motorists and with the public require some betterment. We hope Sheriff Meyering is successful in bringing it about in his own jurisdiction.

CUTTING OUT WASTE IN GOVERNMENT.

Ald. Massen and his subcommittee, after seven months' study, have made a report on the consolidation of government agencies in the metropolitan district which ought to have serious consideration. The report estimates that consolidation and elimination of duplication would save the taxpayers fifty million dollars a year. That is a tidy sum which, in our present grievous fiscal state, ought to seem worth saving, even by the public that is least conscious of tax exactions—namely: that majority who are taxed indirectly but none the less heavily.

Obstruction to the elimination of government agencies is largely that of public inertia, but there is also an active and decisive obstruction from politicians and job holders who do not wish the spoils of office reduced. The only way to overcome this obstruction is by public education and the leadership of citizen organizations determined to get relief for the community. As changes are necessary in the state constitution, as well as in the statutes, the problem of relief is difficult and will probably take hard work to solve. Representatives of districts outside the metropolitan area are not directly concerned and more likely to sympathize with the professional political objection to the abolition of jobs than to Chicago's need for relief. But difficulties in the path ought not to discourage a determined effort on behalf of the community to procure this long needed reorganization.

THE FIGHT ON MEYER.

The opposition to the appointment of Eugene Meyer as chairman of the federal reserve board is said to be intense, as the opposition of men like his chief opponent, Brookhart, always is. But its intensity is not in proportion to its weight, unless the senate has determined to make itself the agency of the radical minority in that chamber. As a body with serious pretensions to a deliberative character the senate must listen to its Brookharts, but it will hardly follow their judgments. Mr. Meyer has a long record of public service and knows the financial and economic conditions and problems of the country, including an exceptional acquaintance with and sympathy for those of the west. We know of no serious objections to his appointment and we think the substantial financial and business opinion of the country favors his appointment.

FORCED LABOR IN RUSSIA.

The new bolshevik premier scoffs at foreign reports of forced labor under the soviet. If there are exaggerated or untrue reports of Russian conditions they can be exposed by removing the censorship on Russian news. But no one but a bolshevik will take the scoffing of the soviet official seriously on the subject of forced labor. Forced labor was a part of the communist rule from its beginning. It is consistent with communist doctrine and essential to its operation. Why should communists scoff at it? Only because it does not sound well in the ear of the workers in other countries whom the communist internationale would like to influence.

Editorial of the Day

MINNESOTA HAS A GOVERNOR.

[St. Louis Post-Dispatch.]

Enlightened opinion throughout the country will applaud the inaugural address of Gov. Floyd B. Olson of Minnesota, first Farmer-Labor party governor of the state. Without hemming or hawing, he came out flatly for repeal of Minnesota's infamous newspaper suppression law and urged the state legislature to do its duty as soon as possible. The "gag" law, as it is popularly known, makes possible the suppression of a newspaper by court order, a situation manifestly incompatible with a free press. Gov. Olson's forthright words ring in key with those of the founding fathers, with Jefferson and Tom Paine, with the framers of the bill of rights. "The freedom of speech and the press," he declared, "should remain inviolate and any law which constitutes an entering wedge into that inviolability is unsafe." It is to be hoped that Minnesota lawmakers will see their obligation to the people as clearly as Gov. Olson has seen his. As a message for the New Year one such clarion call as his is worth a thousand platitudinous predictions of better times.

NEW CEREAL MIXTURE.

DR. TISDALE and his associates have devised a recipe for a cereal mixture which they have found rich in vitamins and minerals. The recipe is:

Wheat meal, 53 per cent
Oatmeal, 18 per cent
Corn meal, 10 per cent
Wheat germ, 15 per cent
Bone meal, 2 per cent
Yeast, 1 per cent
Alfalfa, 1 per cent.

These are ground separately and then thoroughly mixed. The final step is to heat the mixture to 158 degrees and to hold at that temperature for 30 minutes. Thus treated the cereal will keep indefinitely and can be marketed in any part of the world. Three and one-half ounces of it supplies the amount of lime found in 22 ounces of milk. Its iron content is twice that of egg yellow. It contains enough copper to supply bodily needs. There is ample vitamin A derived principally from the wheat germ and alfalfa, ample vitamin B complex derived from the germ and the yeast, ample vitamin D derived from irradiated wheat germ and ample E derived also from the wheat germ. If the alfalfa does not supply enough C, fresh fruits and vegetables are generally available. The cereal is high in calories, derived principally from starches, and there is a fair proportion of proteins.

The diet of civilized man is composed largely of cereals or grain foods. These foods make up from 30 to 60 per cent of the diet. They are the cheapest sources of energy and they are attractive to the tastes and appetites of people everywhere. The methods of marketing, where the supply is far removed from the place of consumption, necessitate removal of the bran and germ from most cereal products. Therefore, large users of cereal products are exposed to certain deficiency disorders.

Dr. Tisdale has found that were it possible to market whole grain flours there would still be some of these disorders, since not even the whole grain contains enough of the protective principle. This he undertakes to supply by the addition of germ, bone meal, yeast, and alfalfa. The remaining questions are, will the mixture appeal to the palate and will the price be right?

WHAT PALSY IS.

L. P. writes:

1. What is palsy?
2. Is it contagious?
3. Does it annoy the one who has it?

REPLY.

1. You mean Parkinson's disease or paralysis agitans. It is a trembling of the head and arms. The cause is supposed to be a disease of the base of the brain.
2. No.
3. Yes, but not much in the earlier stages. Eventually it causes great stiffness, weakness and inefficiency.

SERIOUS COMPLICATION.

L. L. M. writes: Please tell me if there is any chance of recovery for a person who has tuberculosis of the intestines as well as of the lungs.

REPLY.

HIS HEART SKIPS.

John B. writes: I am a single man, 60 years of age. My heart skips quite often.

REPLY:

The physician's name for this is arhythmia. It is of several varieties and due to any one of several causes. It may be a sign of serious trouble or it may be unimportant. It may call for less tobacco or less worry. Have a physician decide what it means in your case.

FRESH AIR NECESSARY.

Mrs. A. writes: Is it necessary for a tuberculous patient to have windows open during the day? I sleep twelve hours nightly with windows wide open, and live in the country in a high altitude.

REPLY.

You should have plenty of fresh air during the day. Sitting out of doors is better than staying in.

MARRIAGE AND DIVORCE.

1. In order to guard against the suspicion that The Tribune Law Department is conducted to secure business and fees for favored attorneys we have been forced to adopt the rule of never supplying the names of attorneys.

[1] Is there any law which would prevent us from making this equipment for our own use only? [2] Is it necessary for the holder of a patent to mark the patented article with the word "patented" and also to give the date of same?

F. H.

1. Yes.
2. If you have notice, that is enough.

REGISTRATION QUERIES.

Chicago, Jan. 2.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—[1] If one registers at the polls in a certain ward and before the second election moves to another ward would one be required to register again before voting the second time in the same year? [2] In case of above is it permissible for poll workers to scratch marks through name or are they incompetent if they do this? Should they not write only the word "moved"?

C. T.

1. Yes.
2. You do not state where the name is that the poll worker is scratching.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

HELLO, FOLKS, WHAT'S YOUR LEVEL?

What, radio audiences regarded as on the level of thirteen-year-olds? That sounded like a gross exaggeration when we read William Orton's story in the January Atlantic Monthly, "The Level of Thirteen-Year-Olds." Mr. Orton says: "Apparently that is the view of the Federal Board of Education, to judge from an instruction sheet circulated under its auspices. Write out your exact wording. Begin with one or more striking statements. Present your specialty on the level of thirteen-year-olds. Do not overrate the intelligence of your listeners." We thought that thirteen years was absurd. We'd say offhand about fourteen or fifteen years. And then, glancing over the exchanges, we happened to pick up last Monday's Charleston (South Carolina) Gazette and noticed among other radio items these two: "At the studio they tell us that fully 50 per cent of the telephone calls from listeners to CBS deal with the question whether a particular radio artist is married." "Arthur Bagley, who conducts the morning exercise period on NBC, is said to rate second to Rudy Vallee in the number of letters of the love note type received from listeners." So, now we don't know; maybe the level is thirteen-year-olds after all.

PARASITES BOTH.

He sent her orchids; did he ever know
How very well they suited her indeed;
Roots searching for the easiest place to feed;
Attaching their frail beauty to some tree,
And clinging there and blooming gorgeously?
He sent her orchids; did she ever see
How subtle, how aware that gift might be?

P. S. McDONALD.

MUST the newspapers publish the telegrams from her boy friends to Clara Bow? Oh, must they? What with cold weather, the depression, the food shortage, and all it would seem that we had enough to bear. Oh, newspapers, why must you do it?

THIS SOUNDS LIKE A PERFECTLY LOVELY OUTING.

R. H. L.: Pardon the intrusion, but if you hurry you can catch a boat in time to join the game of "Tossing the Pancake" on Feb. 17, although you will be too late for the Uphellya festival in the Shetland Isles. Then, after a month at Monte Carlo and environs, you can pop back to London for the Oranges and Lemons festival at St. Clement Danes church (you know it, Dick, in the middle of the Strand) on March 31. And just a week away there's the Peace Egging in the north of England and the goings on of the Biddenden Dole (the original dole, not the post-war dole) in Kent. Hurry up, and the next day, April 7, lap up the joys and felicities of Hocktide at Hungerford, in dear old Wiltshire. Arrange to be called early on May 1, not, old dear, to be Queen of the May, but to witness the sunrise May day service on lovely Magdalen tower in Oxford. I hesitate to mention the Hobby Horse parade the same afternoon at Minehead. But there's a real treat for you on May 8 at Helston, in Cornwall; none other than the "Furry Dance," when the whole population, plus the stranger within its midst, goes loco and dances through every front door of every house in the village, exiting from the back door. Possibly you'll not be interested in Dressing the Village Well With Flowers at Tissington or the folk dance festival at Bampton. If, however, you are interested in A1 perjury, drop in at Little Dunmow Essex and listen to the married pair, who, for only a flitch of bacon, swear that in all their wedded days neither has uttered a cross word to the other. This Ananias and Sapphira festival is pulled off each year on May 25.

My advice is to scratch "Riding the Marches" at Hawick and the Magna Charta celebration at Runnymede and save yourself for the (June 24) midsummer morning ceremony, of Druid origin, at the stone circles, Stonehenge on Salisbury Plain. Even without the ceremony the spot's top hole and when you see the ceremony think of Rosa Raisa and Kipnis in "Norma."

Ancient Tynwald ceremony in the Isle of Man will, on July 5, take away the day-after taste acquired by spending the glorious Fourth in Hyde Park or on Hampstead Heath.

The "season" is in full swing in London in July and you doubtless can amuse yourself at Buckingham Palace garden parties, opera at Covent Garden, punting on the Thames at Maidenhead, watching tennis at 47 different spots, attending the (ye gods) Shakespeare Week Tour for Overseas Bowlers at Stratford-on-Avon, and doing a bit in the cricket line. So, July is your own, but in August hie to the lakes district and watch the spiffy Rush Bearing festivals plus the Grasmere sports. Thence, later, to the "Four Hundred Year Old Dance of the Deer Men" at Abbot's Bromley, and if time and letter of credit permit finish your tour with the Goose Fair at Nottingham, the Mop Fair at Stratford, and the oyster feast at Colchester. That's a spectacle worth while, which is a darned sight more than can be said for the oysters. Do you remember those coppery little bivalves we got one night in the second floor front parlor of the "Pub" just down the alley from Vine street police station? Them was from Colchester!

Trusting that your job still will be your job when you get home, I hope you will enjoy this trip.

"FIRM UNDERTONE Shown by World Wheat Markets."—The Trib. And sometimes, when the world is talking about wheat, it talks in such faint undertones that it sounds like the merest whisper.

ELEVEN MILLION DOLLARS is the amount named in the bill now rushing through congress to enforce the dry law. Now if we had prohibition in this country we wouldn't have to spend all that money.

—AND HE'S SUPPOSED TO BE A WATCHDOG

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 15, 1915.

ROME.—Twenty-five thousand to 50,000 dead and injured as a result of the earthquake which rocked Italy yesterday and which was followed by a second convulsion today are the estimates of the casualties of the greatest disaster that has visited this country since 1908 when Messina was destroyed. With every hour, as additional details are received, the horror of Italy's situation increases. Avezzano was the worst hit. In the city of 12,000 only 100 survived. The second heaviest loss of life occurred at Sora, where 1,000 are said to have been killed. It is estimated that in Avezzano 4,000 persons are buried alive, some of them school children in an institution which collapsed. King Victor Emmanuel himself directed the rescue and relief work at Avezzano, where the piteous appeals of persons caught beneath wreckage could be plainly heard. So far as is known about 20 towns in the central provinces have been absolutely leveled while an almost equal number suffered serious damage. Trains arriving at Rome from the east are bringing hundreds of injured. The American ambassador, Thomas Nelson Page, has sent some of his staff to Avezzano. It is from the Abruzzi provinces that a large percentage of the emigration to America is sent.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 15, 1901.

CHICAGO.—As a result of the horror in the ghetto, when five persons lost their lives and half a hundred were injured in a fire panic at Twelfth Street Turner hall, Building Commissioner Peter Kiolbassa was instructed by the city council to close all theaters, assembly halls, dance halls and other places of amusement which are in violation of the safety provisions of the building ordinances.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—Richard Yates took the oath of office as governor of Illinois at noon. In taking up the duties he had the distinction of being the first native of the state who ever had taken on such honors. Just 40 years ago, only a little while before the outbreak of the civil war, his father took a similar oath. In a statement given to the press the new governor fixed the hours when visitors may call and said: "The governor is willing to work all day, but will absolutely decline to receive political visitors at night. He insists on reserving the evenings for his family and social engagements."

NEWPORT, R. I.—The ceremony that united in marriage Miss Ellen French, daughter of Mrs. Francis Ormond French, and Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt was performed at noon in the Zabriskie Memorial Church of St. John the Evangelist. Newport has seen many fashionable weddings, but none has ever before taken place here that for grandeur of arrangements or for the social standing of the participants has equaled that of today.

JANUARY 15, 1881.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The senate surprised the nation by an exhibition of industry, and got through with so much business that a senator who voted early in the day against adjournment until Monday changed his vote later on the ground that a holiday had been earned.

NEW YORK.—Arrangements were completed by which Donaldson, the submarine diver, who jumped from High bridge into the Harlem river last summer, backs himself to jump from the suspension bridge at Niagara falls on May 24 next. The desperate feat is to be attempted on a wager of $250 by Donaldson against $500 by J. Killey of Niagara.

CHICAGO.—The will of Joseph F. Armour was filed for probate. The value of the estate, as set forth in the petition, is $1,500,000. The will gives $100,000 for a church and mission school in memory of Mr. Armour's first wife, Amelia G. Armour, and provides that the acting pastor of the Plymouth Congregational church shall always be a member of the board of trustees of the church and school. John Plankinton of Milwaukee, Philip D. Armour, John H. Thompson and the widow, Mrs. Carrie L. Armour, are named executors.

WALKING IN THE FARK.

Chicago, Jan. 12.—The benefit of walking is not open to argument. It is one of the best of exercises, especially for those of middle age or beyond, as it eliminates overstrain, induces the inhaling of fresh air, and is quite the normal thing to do.

In Europe much attention has been given to this method of locomotion. Consequently parallel to most roads there are footpaths, and great care has been taken in making these paths attractive. On Sundays many beautiful scenic roads are barred to motorists and are given over to pedestrians entirely. Happy throngs can be seen moving along these roads enjoying the view.

It is a hazard to cross any busy street in Chicago today. Consequently it is in our city parks that the plan of walks for pedestrians, free of hazards, should be developed to the greatest extent.

We are now extending Lincoln park far north. We have drives galore, but no paths paralleling these for pedestrians. Since the storm of two years ago the esplanade along the Lincoln park waterfront has been torn up. The road was replaced. The writer acquired the habit of traversing this lake frontage prior to this storm, but today it is impossible. Now, with the constant injection of new drives, the waterfront of Lincoln park is practically cut off to all those except the most agile or those who own automobiles.

There should certainly be a series of subways or bridges crossing these drives at various points so that pedestrians could conveniently and safely reach the waterfront. Last summer several deaths occurred when attempts were made to cross these speedways.

The planning of continuous and safe pedestrian paths running north and south in Lincoln park seems to have been lost sight of. You walk a block or so, when the path is bisected by a stream of automobiles or ends abruptly. Everything is done to expedite automobile traffic and very little thought is given to the pedestrian who desires a long, continuous walk.

We have auto clubs. Whose duty is it to watch out for the rights of the pedestrian, who is in the majority and who should control the parks?

H. B. HARRIS.

A GREAT STORY, BUT—

New Orleans, La., Jan. 10.—The story by John Boettiger in THE TRIBUNE of Jan. 8 of the search and capture of the Lingle murder suspect is one of the best pieces of reporting I have ever seen. It reads like an absorbing detective story, which, in fact, it is.

It is too much to hope that newspapers outside of Chicago will play up the fine work done in this case and give Chicago and THE TRIBUNE their due credit. Had this been the story of another crime committed by Chicago gangsters it would have been spread over the front pages of every newspaper in this city. But this story, being one of Chicago accomplishment, is relegated to small space near the bottom of inside pages, perhaps in the hope that no one will see anything that reflects credit on Chicago.

MAC CARTY AGAIN.

Chicago, Jan. 13.—It seems to me that if the great Italian baritone wants to break into your columns he should at least Anglicize his name and sign himself Titus Sheeps.

MACCARTY.

LOVE FOR IL DUCE.

Chicago, Jan. 13.—I wish to say that eminent Mr. Schipa just what has duce accomplished for Italy and people other than suppressing liberty in every form and glorifying himself means of the lowest kind of publicity as a second Napoleon and "man of destiny"? In speaking of the love the Italians for their duce, Mr. Schi had better speak for himself and others like him and not for Italians general.

THE DARLING CANARY.

Chicago, Jan. 13.—Tito Schipa, Italian tenor, is very proud of Mussolini and of his accomplishments.

Prof. Rensi, the Italian Liberal philosopher, recently was sentenced to fifteen years in jail for stating that Mussolini is financially, politically, and intellectually ruining Italy.

Who is to be believed more: a man like Tito, the darling canary of Mussolini's government, or a man who pays with his liberty for his convictions?

VINCENT VEIT.

A HANDSOME OFFER.

Chicago, Jan. 12.—Here is an offer the people of Chicago to save them least $17,000 a year, a sum not to be sneezed at in these times. It has become apparent that the only necessary duties of the mayor consist of presiding at council meetings and opening bridges. At present his honor is down, I believe, about $18,000 a year (to say nothing of expenses) for these duties. I am willing to use the gavel at all council meetings and open the new bridge and street for $1,000 a year, no extra charge for transportation or coonskin coat.

All flood control conferences, conventions, rheumatic attacks, prosperity drives, and wars with England will be done on my own time.

CLASSIFYING THE WILD JACKASSES.

Rockford, Ill., Jan. 10.—Russia is the only one party, the communist, Italy one, the Fascist, which is too few; Germany and France, 10 to 12, according to season, which is too many. But one is familiar with the choice assortment of party names in Germany, the Socialists, communists, Fascists, centrists, wild asses—subdivided into the right, left, upright, downright, and plain wild asses—and the featherheads, jumpers, and tailenders.

Nearly all these groups are represented in our job lot of radicals in the senate, somewhat as follows:

Norris, downright wild ass;
Blaine, Brookhart, Nye, and Borah, plain wild asses;
Borah, Johnson, and Shipstead, jumpers;

SYNOPSIS.

Richard Chandos and his wife, Leonie, former grand duchess of Riechtenburg, are killed at their estate near Littal, in Austria, by George Hanbury, companion of Chandos in many adventures. Marya Salm, countess of Dresden, an expected guest, wires that she dare not come.

Prince Paul, ruler of Riechtenburg, had hoped to marry Leonie and swore revenge. Fearing for Marya's safety, because of her friendship for Leonie, Chandos and Hanbury, with their servants Bell and Rowley, go secretly to Vigil, capital city of Riechtenburg, where Marya resides. A peasant, named Ramon, leads them through a secret passage.

Marya tells them that she sent no message. Realizing the telegram was a ruse to get them to Vigil, they are preparing to flee with Marya, when the prince appears. They escape and reach the border, but find it so closely guarded that crossing is impossible. Ramon is sought and he hides them. Marya and Carol, her trusted servant, hide in a nearby village, while Chandos and Rowley join a traveling circus. Marya sends Carol to drive them to Bariche across the border, in a car which they recognize as Grieg's the chief of police. Arrived at the inn in Bariche, they receive a message from Marya, stating that she is to be pardoned, but she must remain in Riechtenburg and not communicate with them.

Knowing that Marya, endeavoring to save them, has made some impossible arrangement with Grieg, they return to the border. Hanbury and Rowley pass, but Chandos is captured. He proves to the inspector that Grieg has betrayed his trust. Grieg arrives and leaves with the prisoner for Vigil. Hanbury and Rowley, knowing their friend's plight, hold up and capture the chief's car. They drive to the estate of Baron Sabre, where they find Marya. Grieg they left, tied to a post along the roadside.

Hanbury, who is in love with Marya, is stunned when she tells them that she was married that morning to Grieg—her price for their freedom. Chandos sets out to find Grieg and do away with him—but Grieg has escaped. Chandos returns to Baron Sabre's and overhears the prince, who has arrived, arguing with Grieg. Grieg is forgiven when he tells the prince he has a trap set to catch his prey that evening at the secret border pass, as well as Leonie, who is to meet them there. Lelia, a young peasant girl, leads Chandos to a mill where his friends are hiding. Marya has disappeared and Chandos sends Hanbury and Rowley to follow her and he leaves for the border pass. Lelia, who has fallen in love with Chandos, at the risk of her life, finds him and tells him that Leonie has passed the country an hour before. Grieg traps them and fires at Chandos, but Lelia throws herself in front of him and receives the bullet. Chandos traps Grieg at the brink of a gorge and forces him to fall to his death below. Chandos then surrenders to the police and in their company sets out to return the body of Lelia to her home. En route they are overtaken by the local coroner, who demands the girl's body for inquest. He hears Chandos' story and promises to see that he is brought back the next day to testify. While Chandos is being tried at Vigil before a special court, the coroner comes with witnesses for Chandos and the grand duchess. He is told that the grand duchess has returned to Littal. Chandos is sent back to his cell, where the summons is served on him. He receives a visit from Sully, lord president of the council, who is devoted to Leonie, who has returned to the country at her request. The prince denies to Sully that Leonie is in Vigil, but Chandos is unconvinced. Sully makes a search of the prison.

INSTALLMENT XLVI.

ACCEPTED DEFEAT.

If Sully failed again, what should I do? I had broken one of his dreams. Was I to break another and bring the throne he had done so much to dignify into contempt? What if I did—and then found Leonie at Bariche, alive and well? I must be fair with Sully, but I must first be sure that I was being fair with myself.

I read through my "terms" again, folded up the paper and put it away. Then the door was flung open and the officer the prince had called "Candel" was ushered into the room.

Something to my surprise, his hand went up to his cap in a formal salute. "I am commanded, sir, to ask you to come with me."

For a moment I sat irresolute.

This was the prince's man.

I glanced at the open door, to see the detective sergeant that I had come to know. Our eyes met, and while I was looking at him he nodded his head.

At once I rose to my feet.

"Lead the way, please," I said.

As I passed the sergeant I asked his name.

The passages seemed unending, but presently we left them behind and came to a carpeted corridor. Candel stood back and saluted, and I passed into the court in which I had stood my trial the day before.

But this time I was ushered on to the dais, and there, half sitting on the arm of one of the chairs, was Leonie.

As the door closed behind me, she flung her arms around my neck.

As the door closed behind me she threw her arms around my neck.

"I had to come, Richard. I had to."

"I know," I said. "I would have done the same."

"You'd have come before, Richard. I waited six awful days."

"You're safe and sound, Leonie?"

"Yes, yes. But they were ready. There was a spy at Littal—I threw him off the scent. I let him believe I was going in by the path. But they held me up at Elsa for half an hour, and I hadn't been gone five minutes when a police car met and ditched me on one of the bends. I knew it was a trap—knew it. But what could I do? They pretended they were frightfully sorry and put the car at my disposal to go where I pleased. I simply had to take it. And once I was in I found the doors had no handles upon the inside."

"But you stayed at the Lessing Strasse?"

Leonie shook her head.

"They brought me straight to this building, and I've never been out."

Another door was opened, the curtains were parted, and Sully came into the court.

He stepped to Leonie and put her hand to his lips.

"I thank God, madam," he said, "that your husband is stronger than I. He has saved the light of my eyes."

"We both thank God, Sully, for the finest friend in the world."

"For a broken reed, madam." The fine head went down. "I took my master's word."

"As you were bound to do. But between you and me there is no need of oaths. I'm sorry not to be your princess, but I am very glad to be the light of your eyes."

She put up her mouth and kissed him, and poor Sully held her and kept calling her "his darling" and whispering "Thank God."

Then he let her go and stood back and folded his hands.

"I have come for your terms, Chandos. I am, of course, quite helpless. But if I held a sword in my hand I have told his royal highness that I would break it in two. Ask what you please, and I will make it my business to see that your price is paid."

In silence I sat to the table and copied my document out. When I had finished the writing—

"Let him sign that," I said, "and return it to me."

I like to remember that Sully never looked at the sheet. He simply nodded and took it and left the room.

Five minutes later he was back, and if further proof were needed, I knew that the prince must have been but a few yards off, for the signature Paul P. was not yet dry.

Then I put away the paper and handed Sully the draft.

"You will need that," said I, "to be sure that the terms are fulfilled."

"You will need that," said I, "to be sure that the terms are fulfilled."

The lord president took it with a smile which came nearer to being grim than any I ever saw come into his gentle face.

"I read them aloud to him," he said. "I do not think either of us will forget them so long as we live."

Five minutes later Leonie and I were in the car, which Bell was driving to Vardar as hard as he could. By his side sat Jameson, prim and correct as ever despite his two days in jail.

And as we went I told my darling of Lelia and how she had lived and died.

. . . . . .

Of our reception at Vardar I scarcely know how to speak.

Despite our solemn errand, the demonstration of affection for Leonie was moving and played such havoc with the feelings that I did not know where to look, while Bell and Jameson had tears running down their cheeks.

Of the inquest there is little to be said, except that I kept my word and made Grieg out the author of all the ill that was done; and if, as I think, it was suspected that the prince's hands were not clean, that was due to his reputation and not to any word that fell from my lips.

My arrest, I alleged, was due to Grieg's false deposition that I was plotting treason against the throne—a charge of which, I avowed, I had never been formally cleared. And if I suppressed some truths which might have startled the court, I think that those I made known were shocking.

Indeed, I had but one aim—to dignify Lelia's memory as it deserved, raise for her a monument which no weather could ever corrupt, and make the fair name by which I knew her a household word. Whilst I was seeking to render her poor return, Leonie watched by the side of her beautiful deputy and my eyes came down when I had spoken to tell of the spy at Littal and how he had led him to think that she would go in by the way of the bridle path. Whether his royal highness read the report of the inquest I cannot tell, but if he did so I cannot believe that the last of Leonie's statement failed to bring a blush to his cheek.

By virtue of the position which Maj. Grieg so much abused, he was able to intercept the calls which I naturally made upon my cousin, the prince. That his royal highness was made aware of the conspiracy his indignation against murder had been brought in against "the late Maj. Grieg" I sent on a note to Bell and we left the inn by a garden which lay at the back of the house.

The coroner overtook us and led us to where he lived, and there we roused the wolfhound, which seemed very pleased to see me and took to Leonie at once. Then Bell came up with the car, and five minutes later we were on the Sabre estate.

Good Morning!

If you care to step out of the sunshine and into the lives of men who are known by numbers instead of names and pay—rightfully or wrongfully—for alleged transgressions of the law, see "The Criminal Code."

"An eye for an eye. That's the basis of the criminal code. SOMEBODY must pay," says the district attorney, Brady, who later becomes Warden Brady of the penitentiary whither he has sent many men. The picture illustrates these words in manner grim, forbidding, sinister; cruel, sickening and relentless.

A fine film of its kind, "The Criminal Code," acted to the nines by an expert cast headed by Walter Huston (who is still my favorite actor). It has been adapted from Martin Flavin's play of the same name, and would have been shown here weeks ago only the censors have been gnawing on it. Their inroads have made no appreciable effect on the production as a whole and this movie will go down in cinema history as a searching, bitterly informative chronicle of prisons, the men in them and the men and laws that govern them.

The story hinges on the fate of a boy, in no sense a criminal, who gets a bad break and is sent up for ten years. The gradual and sure breaking of health and morale is shown, with the reasons therefor. Phillips Holmes does notable work as the hero, but is no better than anybody else in the cast. Each bit is played with finesse. Constance Cummings scores heavily as Mary, the warden's daughter.

Tombstone Messages Lack Art, Meaning Now, Chicagoan Says

Atlantic City, N. J., Jan. 14.—[Special.]—"The record of an insect's life" was the description of present day tombstone inscriptions given by Fred K. Irvine Sr., editor of the American Stone Trade, Chicago, in a speech today before the annual convention of the Memorial Craftsmen of New Jersey at the Jefferson hotel.

"The inscriptions cut on monuments made forty or fifty years ago were invariably the work of artists," said Mr. Irvine. "They brought out the history, biography, and patriotism of the individual. They were the greatest lesson to youth.

"Inscriptions today have dwindled from the most ornate, graceful, and sentimental compositions to that of a mere record of names and dates as meaningless as if a textbook referring to insects were compiled, and as tiresome as the records of a book of geology."

Uses Light Ray to Put Vitamin D Into Foods

Cincinnati University Chief Tells of Results.

New York, Jan. 14.—[Special.]—New scientific developments in the use of ultra-violet light rays, that make it possible at last to produce the health giving vitamin D artificially in foods and plants without any harmful effects, were announced jointly yesterday by President Herman Schneider of the University of Cincinnati and C. M. Chester Jr., president of the General Foods corporation.

The new process, it was stated, can be used to add vitamin D in definitely controllable quantities to milk and many other articles of food, as well as to pharmaceutical products. It can also be used for sterilization in the prevention of food spoilage. It was further stated that germs of fermentation, yeast molds and other bacterial enemies to food preservation can be completely destroyed without any harmful effects on the food.

The latest discoveries in the nature of ultra-violet radiation are the result of three years' research by Prof. George Sparti, director of the basic science research laboratory of the University of Cincinnati, and several assistants. Thousands of experiments have been conducted in the laboratory on animals, poultry and plant life, as well as on food substance.

To make possible the utilization by the public of products resulting from the new discoveries a cooperative alliance has been entered into between the university and the food company through the newly formed General Development Laboratories, Inc. These laboratories, it was stated by Chester, will license other concerns in the general food fields, and will sell "irradiated products" that may be required in manufacturing processes.

Vitamin D is the vitamin that stimulates growth and the formation of bones, and the deficiency of which results in rickets. It has been known for a long time that the ultra violet rays in sunlight produced beneficial results on plant and animal life. Later it was learned that this was due to the production by these ultra violet rays of vitamin D. This led to attempts to create vitamin D artificially by the use of artificial ultra violet rays.

However, it was found that irradiation by exposure to full ultra violet light produced many difficulties. For example, it produced the desired vitamin for a period of about fifteen minutes to half an hour, but thereafter the anti-rickets potency of the irradiated product declined rapidly until it was reduced to zero after a short time.

The discovery of Prof. Sperti, who is only thirty years old, consisted in the determination by him that the vitamin is produced not by the entire band of the ultra-violet rays in the spectrum but by only a small fraction of that band, within the limits of 3,100 angetrom units to 2,900. Above these limits the effect is negligible, while wave lengths below these limits are destructive instead of beneficial.

Once this was discovered it became a comparatively simple matter to filter out all the unessential and harmful rays so that only the desirable rays would be irradiated. When this is done, Dr. Sperti said, the production of the vitamin goes on for an indefinite time, while all the bacteria can now be eliminated in a few seconds without any deleterious effect on the taste or smell of the food substances.

SIGHT SAVING CLASSES URGED FOR TOWNS ALONG NORTH SHORE

Following a survey of ten north shore towns, the Illinois Society for the Prevention of Blindness yesterday reported that 25 children are in need of sight saving classes in the public schools. It is proposed, Miss Audrey M. Hayden, executive secretary, said, that two classes be established in two of the towns, possibly Evanston and Highland Park.

The board of directors' meeting at the Medical and Dental Arts building, also announced that a new sight saving class will be started at Springfield on Jan. 26, attended by 24 children. This will be the 31st class in Illinois. The state has at present sight saving classes for 600 children in Chicago, Aurora, Joliet, Rockford, and Rock Island.

A reserve fund of $50,000 of which half has been raised, is being sought by the society. Among the directors attending the meeting yesterday were Dr. William H. Wilder, Colin C. H. Fyffe, Frank Ketchum, Dr. E. V. L. Brown and Paul Buhling.

THE STAGE

THE Dramatic League of Chicago announces that Ethel Barrymore's appearances in "Scarlet Sister Mary" under its auspices at the Harris theater will be followed by Jane Cowl in the two play repertory of her recent New York season. These plays are "Art and Mrs. Bottle," by Benn W. Levy, and Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night." The engagement will be for four weeks, beginning Feb. 23.

"Art and Mrs. Bottle" is a light comedy dealing with a wife and mother who elopes with an artist and returns after many years to her home bearing the information that art is the bunk. It was well received in New York. Mr. Levy, its author, has a current New York success to his credit in "Mrs. Moonlight," which prospers at Charles Hopkins' theater. He was the adapter of Marcel Pagnol's "Topaze," with which the Dramatic league started its present season.

Miss Cowl's production of "Twelfth Night" was praised in New York as a graceful and picturesque treatment of this Shakespearean comedy. She, of course, is the Viola, a rôle associated within the memory of active playgoers with Ellen Terry, Helena Modjeska, Marie Wainwright, Phyllis Neilson-Terry, and Viola Allen. In Fritz Leiber's repertory it was acted with charm by Mary Hone. Miss Cowl's Malvolio in New York was Leon Quartermaine; her Sir Toby Belch was Walter Kingsford.

The matter of the rotation of these two plays during the engagement has not been decided. In New York "Art and Mrs. Bottle" was the more popular bill.

"Bad Girl" will end its stay at the Apollo theater with next Sunday's performance. The theater will remain closed until it can find another booking. The continuance of "Bad Girl's" tour was in doubt last night.

Margalo Gillmore, who is the heroine of "Berkeley Square," has another play in view. When Leslie Howard's fantasy of Georgian romance ends its run at the Selwyn several weeks hence Miss Gillmore will hasten to New York for rehearsals.

These three plays are under consideration for the annual production of the Players' Club of New York: Shakespeare's "Henry VIII.," Congreve's "The Way of the World," and J. Comyn Carr's dramatization of "Oliver Twist." The committee in charge of the revival is composed of Daniel Frohman, Earle Boothe, Messmore Kendall, Otis Skinner, Henry Stillman, and Dwight Deere Wiman. The Players' club productions are staged with "all-star" casts and are always important events of the spring theatrical season in New York.

Mrs. Fiske's engagement at the Blackstone in "Ladies of the Jury," planned for two weeks, will probably be extended. Tracy C. Drake, the new impresario of the Blackstone, is now in New York arranging for attractions to follow. The three plays that remain to be given in the Theater Guild's subscription season will probably appear at the Blackstone.

Word for "Nina Rosa" fans, who are numerous in Chicago: This operetta has ended its New York run and will begin a tour in New Haven, Conn., next week. Margaret Carlisle will succeed Ethelind Terry as prima donna.

The League of New York Theaters, which was formed last summer to abate the evils of Broadway ticket speculation, has thrown up its hands and announced that the struggle is hopeless. The organization will not disband, but it will abandon its code of rules for brokers and box offices. Alfred E. Smith is a member of the league's directorate as a representative of the playgoing public. C. C.

War Veteran Finds His Job by Sally's Aid

After Receiving Wounds in Time of Peace.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

This is the story of an ex-service man, rehabilitated from the ordeal of death, sickness, and unemployment in his family, through the efforts of the Sally Joy Brown department of THE TRIBUNE.

Not so long ago Mr. C. was happy in his home with his wife and daughter. Then an automobile accident claimed the lives of the two, leaving Mr. C. crippled. After weeks in a hospital he was discharged. His money was gone. So was his job.

Mr. C. tramped the streets. He soon discovered that the financial slump had thrown thousands out of work. Jobs, even the smallest, were at a premium. But he kept on looking, sleeping at an emergency shelter house for men and walking the streets in the daytime.

In despair he turned to Sally Joy Brown the day before Christmas. He was told to go to a certain home. There he would receive an overcoat. He earned there $3 and was given a Christmas eve chicken dinner. Shortly after he returned to Sally Joy Brown for another job. This time he was sent to a household where he was employed as a companion and nurse.

Yesterday Mr. C. came to thank Miss Brown.

"These people are wonderful to me," Mr. C. told her. "My patient's wife is so pleased with the care I have given her husband that they plan to leave next week for the south and take me along. My transportation expenses, board and room will be paid and I will have a salary of $2.50 a day in addition. You can never know how thankful I am to have that job. I feel like another person."

That is but one of the many services Miss Brown, in coöperation with the Illinois Free Employment service, 116 North Dearborn street, has rendered to unemployed men. But in spite of the help that has come through the offering of jobs by more fortunate Chicagoans, the supply of jobs does not begin to meet the demand.

"While jobs for men have increased somewhat since we first issued an appeal for them, there are not nearly as many being offered as we had hoped," Miss Brown said last night. "Men who have families to feed are desperate for work, even a small job to buy groceries for a few days."

Good Fellows Appeal for More Help for the Needy.

The third day of colder weather yesterday brought an increase in appeals for Good Fellow aid from homes where coal bins are empty, cupboards bare, and purses without funds.

These applicants, because the Good Fellow fund already is taxed with the expenses of 277 families found most worthy of aid by the Catholic Charities, the United Charities, the Salvation Army, and the Jewish Social Service bureau, were told to apply to those agencies for aid.

Whether the most worthy among those families are to be aided by Good Fellow funds depends on the enrollment of new Good Fellows. The small gift as well as the large one is welcomed. Many of the small gifts have made possible when added together the maintenance of a family over a period of months. In addition a Good Fellow is assured that every penny he sends the Good Fellow fund goes to a needy family, as the expense of operation is borne by THE TRIBUNE.

Among yesterday's contributions came another check for $200 from the same person who sent a like amount on Tuesday "to help people in need." A clothing firm sent $24.50 as an installment of their pledge for the week ending Jan. 10. The tenth week's contribution of $71.50 came from the employés of a magazine circulation firm. any other gifts from $1 on up came to swell the fund.

Miss Snelling, J. Simpson Jr. Will Wed Today

BY THALIA

THE wedding of Miss Ella de Treville Snelling to James Simpson Jr. is to take place at noon today at Aiken, S. C., according to an announcement made by Miss Snelling's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rodman P. Snelling of Boston and Beverly, Mass. The service will be performed at the winter residence of the Snellings, and only members of the immediate families of the bride and groom are to be present.

Mr. Simpson's parents, the James Simpsons of 1200 Lake Shore drive, and his brothers, John McLaren and William Simpson went east on Tuesday for the wedding, and will arrive in Aiken this morning.

Chiefly About Visitors, and Persons Ending Tours.

Visitin . . . the P. D. Armours have had as their guests recently Mrs. Armour's sister and brother-in-law, the Leslie Hyde Pells of New York City. . . . Mrs. McHenry Keyser arrives tomorrow for a stay with the John Lewis Cochrans, and among those who have already bespoken themselves to do something for her are Benson and Peggy Dushane, who are to have a buffet supper on Sunday night (Mrs. Keyser, who is a most attractive young widow, is a sister-in-law of Jane McLennan Ober, who was in the Cochrans' wedding party). . . . The Robert Finkbeins, an attractive and popular pair of Pasadenans, arrive from the west on Saturday morning to be with the George W. Dulaneys (the Dulaneys are giving a party for them Saturday night and the Charles Clores are to entertain for them, too). . . . Mrs. Hal Strotz and Mrs. Arthur Burrows departed on Sunday evening to visit Mrs. Strotz's mother, Countess Carlo Filipponi at Palm Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. Owen Barton Jones are back from Europe, but only for a week or so, because they're planning to go down to Nassau for a month, leaving Lake Forest on the 26th, if they can get away by then. They got word about the burning of the big hangar at Palwaukee in London on Christmas eve. While they were pretty sunk about it, Mr. Jones was glad that nobody had been hurt, which was pretty sporting (he'll probably mind our saying so, though). He's been justly proud of the airport's no fatalities record.

It seems to be quite difficult to discover anything about the Marshall Fields' activities except that they are very busy. They went to the Field museum Tuesday afternoon, were at the opera last night, and probably will attend the Assembly tomorrow eve. They're to be in Lake Forest at the Clifford Rodmans over the week-end, and Mrs. Rodman is having a Sunday lunch for them. It is expected that they'll depart the first of the week.

63 Stay to Luncheon After Talk About Shorter Ballot.

"O, one of the best we've had in a long time. Mrs. Morrisson's talk was fine, and 63 of us stayed on for lunch," replied one of the members of the Lake Shore League of Women Voters when I asked her about yesterday morning's meeting at the Ambassador. Mrs. Morrisson spoke on "How to Get a Shorter Ballot for Illinois," and gave a report on the White House conference on child health and protection that she attended last fall. Late winter plans were made, and it was decided to have two study classes in early February, and the latter part of the same month there'll be a tea with Barclay Acheson as guest-speaker.

Chit for chat . . . "Murder in a Haystack," Dorothy Keeley Aldis' mystery story, is heralded on the jacket of one of the new detective novels, and it will be out a week from today. . . . the Paul Butlers are going to New York next Monday to say "bon voyage" to Mr. Butler's father, Frank O. Butler, when he sails on Tuesday for a round the world trip—they're to stay a week and Mr. Butler will attend the annual United States Polo association banquet at the Racquet club on Thursday. . . . Helen Rend is leaving in a week or so to visit her cousin in Columbus, O. (she's just got word that the Wilmington Junior league has asked for her music for the play it's doing now—the sixth league to request her tunes). . . . Jarvis Hunt Jr.'s party at the Chicago Golf club in Wheaton Saturday night was grand [they tell me his parties always are]—after dinner there was skating on the little lake on the golf course, although some of the guests eschewed the winter sporting to play backgammon all night long.

The Association of Arts and Industries has issued invitation cards for the opening of the "international exhibition of contemporary metalwork and cotton textiles" in gallery L4 of the Art institute next Tuesday from 3 to 5 o'clock. Mrs. Lorado Taft, Mrs. Irene Sidley, Mrs. Frank M. Pebbles, and Miss Elizabeth Browning are to tour. The exhibition is the third and final one of a series, organized by the American Federation of Arts, made possible through the coöperation of the general education board of the Rockefeller Foundation, and now touring the large museums of the country.

Mildred Claire Anderson and R. W. Sippy Jr. to Wed Saturday.

In the future. . . . The marriage of Miss Mildred Claire Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Anderson of 959 North Parkside avenue, to Bertram Welton Sippy Jr. on Saturday at the Thorndike Hilton chapel, with only families present. . . . $70,000,000 Bridge Over Hudson to Be Named for Washington

Washington, D. C., Jan. 14.—(AP)—The new suspension bridge over the Hudson river between Fort Washington, N. Y., and Fort Lee, N. J., will be named the George Washington Memorial bridge. President Hoover was informed of that today. His callers were Representative Bloom of New York and George Deb. Kelm, who represented the New York and New Jersey members of the port of New York authority.

The new bridge will cost $70,000,000. The bridge was authorized by the legislatures of New Jersey and New York and work was begun in May, 1927. The bridge is expected to be ready for dedication in 1932.

Norfolk Suit Takes on Feminine Outlook

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—With the return of tailoring to feminine fashions, Paris couturiers are taking a great interest in the Norfolk jacket.

Smart street suits as well as sports costumes will be likely to have feminized Norfolk jackets this spring. Often the blouse will be a tunic that imitates the outside jacket in everything but fabric. Or there may be a colored, sleeveless vest to wear over a silk shirt, or, again, a long sleeved waistcoat replacing the blouse.

Germaine Lecomte makes the glorified Norfolk suit, sketched here, of beige and brown tweed in a soft, almost transparent weave. The traditional Norfolk plaits are replaced by incrusted bands in front that run in points up to the shoulder seams. There are two breast pockets and two hip pockets, marked by narrow flaps, but you'd better not put anything in them if you don't want to spoil the shape of your jacket.

A wide band of the tweed finishes the jacket at the bottom and forms the hip pockets, which are not outlined. The jacket has a shoulder yoke in back. The chevron pointed, inverted plaited incrustations suggest the Norfolk style without actually following it. Stitched bands of the tweed with the free ends forming smart bow flaps finish the sleeves.

The blouse of plain beige jersey is gathered into a band worn over the top of the skirt. It is trimmed by two horizontal bands of itself, stitched at the edges, ending in a little free flaps in front like those on the jacket sleeves.

There is a scarf of beige crêpe lined with brown.

Painter Uses Son as Help to His Pictures

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

LEON KROLL has a distinctive record in Chicago. He has been connected with the Art institute as, I believe, a student and as, I am sure, an instructor. He has been a winner of our most important prizes and he has made a place for himself in the life of those who have been brought into contact with him.

Even absence cannot throw more than the thinnest shadows over his personality. And now he is back again, spiritually present in the exhibition of recent paintings from his brush to be seen at the Carson, Pirie, Scott galleries.

Two features of the current show strike us immediately. Kroll has lightened the quality of his colors and has infinitely increased the naturalness of his landscape. A few years ago any painting with dull, rather heavy color and with thick, short trees and humped hills, the grass below which was generally sown with prostrate humans of a Noah's Arc cut, could be attributed at once to Kroll. Now his color sparkles, the blended tones vibrate to a rich rhythm, the lakes are water, not blue paint, the hills are hills and the trees are trees. When he deals with figures, they too bear a new life, a real life, and though they are still a little quaint, a trifle out of the ordinary, still they are delightfully human.

We see in the figure studies in the portraits of this young girl and that, marked evidence of the fact that Kroll was J. Theodore Johnson's teacher. Mr. Johnson has made something of a reputation here, too, and it is interesting to see where his flair for a certain wooden quality in bone and flesh was fathered. It is not exactly objectionable, but it leaves one feeling that just a little bit less of the deliberately artificial would make for a greater painting.

Leon Kroll shows his delightful young son in several of these canvases and in others he gives us vivid glimpses of the Maine countryside. In still life he has accomplished a tiny masterpiece in his painting of eggs and apples. The exhibit is one that will give pleasure to many people. It is balanced by a showing in the print room of a group of exquisite etchings by Samuel Chamberlain. The exhibitions will continue to Jan. 31.

Even the Baby Can Learn to Handle Books Carefully

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

A Mothers' and Fathers' Litany, signed by Mrs. Bevans, will be sent as her greeting on receipt of a 2c postage stamp.

Here is a letter which speaks for itself:

"My dear Mrs. Bevans: So many mothers of my acquaintance do not seem to know about cloth scrapbooks or how to make them for their children that I am wondering if the suggestion is too small to be passed on. Scrapbooks have been such a pleasure and a help to my 15 months old daughter.

"I use cambric or other similar cloth in plain colors, fold it over several times, sew up one side and snip open the leaves on the other side. The choice of pictures should include both familiar and unfamiliar objects, so that the bady's understanding may be broadened.

"I prepare for coming events like snowfall or special holidays in this way. New foods may be introduced thus. The baby can handle the small, light book easily and turn the pages alone. They will last a long time in spite of hard usage. The best part is the training that is desired, I think.

"Teach the child not to tear out the pictures (which should be firmly pasted down), and let him learn to value the book so that he will not harm it. In a short while give the baby an old book which you would otherwise discard.

"Allow him to turn the pages himself and show him how to place the book flat on his lap or the floor. Treat the old book with as much care as a good one, and soon the child can be trusted with almost any book or magazine.

"My little girl began with the cloth scrapbooks when she was a year old. Now she is able to look at her Mother Goose and Peter Rabbit without tearing or hurting them. Once she tore part of a picture in a favorite scrapbook. I always speak of it seriously as we pass the place, and it has never happened again.

"I wish there were a way to remember all of your suggestions. I read your column regularly, and find so much to help me. However, it often happens that just when I need the solution to some problem I can't think just what your advice was. But I have a friend who always reads your column, and we compare notes, and usually she remembers or I remember in time to 'save the day.' I think I'll make a cloth card catalog."

Those among my correspondents who have asked for my articles in book form may be interested to know that I am working on that matter at the present time.

Fourteen Americans Knighted as in Days of Godfrey de Bouillon

New York, Jan. 14.—(AP)—While Fifth avenue traffic roared its new world symphony outside, a medieval ceremony was enacted today within the vaulted shadows of St. Patrick's cathedral.

Fourteen Americans were invested with the golden sword and spurs, insignia of knighthood of the Equestrian Order of the Holy Sepulchre, founded by Godfrey de Bouillon, duke of Lower Lorraine, who became king of Jerusalem and defender of the tomb of the Lord Jesus in the eleventh century.

The new knights become members of the papal court with the title of Counts Palatine, entitled to wear the white cape with the crimson cross of Jerusalem over a resplendent white uniform with breastplate, black facings and gold ornaments.

Today's ceremony was the first public demonstration in the United States of the order of which a national council has just been formed here.

The list includes several lawyers, two judges, a civil engineer and other professional and business men.

Here Are Two Who Defeat Adversity

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Kin Hubbard, humorist, whose death occurred recently, once said: "I'll say this for adversity: people seem to be able to stand it, an' that's more'n I kin say for prosperity." A truth being given substantiation in countless instances at the current moment!

Offhand you and I could name couples in our own circles who have solved [or had solved for them] the answer to their frequent scenes in a period of adversity that has set them to thinking. One instance is that of a pair who got into a swift crowd when their financial wings were soaring high. They drank along with the rest of them. They flirted. They quarreled. They drank more. They quarreled more. They were on the verge of separation when their crash came. They're having a better and a happier time now on $60 a week than they had when they were spenders.

"Happy" tells her story of adversity, met after three weeks of marriage. Three weeks to the day after their wedding Happy's husband lost his job. The very next day Happy lost hers.

The next Monday morning she started out with the intention of taking anything, and took a menial place at $12 a week. Just enough for food for two. "Rent was out of the question," she tells. "And we half starved ourselves to meet some bills. My husband got so discouraged, job hunting. He would have taken anything—but couldn't get even that. He got so low in spirit there were days when he wouldn't go out to look for work.

"But I knew what job hunting was, so I didn't bawl him out. I tried my darnedest to encourage him and pulled a lot of Pollyanna stuff I honestly didn't feel. But he's got a job now and, believe me, it will take months of scrimping to catch up on back rent, but then it hasn't been so bad, after all."

Figure it out for yourself how this girl does it. She's been on half time at $10 a week for two months now. Because her washwoman has three youngsters and a husband out of a job, this wonderful girl has kept her on at $2 a week for washing things the girl could well do herself. That $2 costs her alternately dinnerless and luncheonless days. The girl never told about it. The director of a girls' employment agency found it out.

FARM and GARDEN BY PAUL POTTER

VEGETABLES CAN HAVE DIGNITY.

Surveys by seed companies indicate that many small city vegetable gardens have been either abandoned or turned into flower areas because ragged and unkempt appearances of the vegetables in midsummer subtracted too much from the natural dignity of yards.

It is possible to have vegetables fitted into a scheme of decorative grounds. Selection of the kinds is one method. Some gardeners choose certain annual flowers to mix in with their carrots and radishes.

Shrubbery will help to conceal the vegetable garden. An ornamental fence, possibly with flowering or perennial woody vines draped over it, is another suggestion derived from veterans of the gardening profession. The combination with a cutting flower garden in such proportion that the color of the blooming annuals take attention away from the maturing edible crops is one of the most popular devices for "having the cake and eating it, too."

Most important of all is that if the vegetable garden is given the care for ornamental purposes that is given the flower garden, the problem resolves itself into one of simplicity. Paths can be neatly kept by edging with such semi-ornamental plants as parsley, chives and sage or other useful herbs.

Word "Lady" Calls to Mind Lots of Pretty Adjectives

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

It seems to me the word "lady" pops out frequently in print these days. A couple of magazine stories of recent date and a discussion in the news columns entered into by a number of prominent individuals bring home the fact that "lady" is no longer an obsolete word.

It was for a period, you know. If you'd called a girl a lady during a certain recent era you'd have cut her off your calling list automatically. No one wanted to be known as such. In fact, many a girl went to disturbing lengths to prove she wouldn't be one if she could. But that stand, like the undying devotion to bobs, seems to have passed. And we're again threatened with a return of ladies, if they're not here already.

Now, as the term affects beauty. It does, ever and ever so much. The revival of the finer qualities involved in the old time making of a lady is welcomed for beauty's sake. Some of the old time features could be dispensed with, such as too much langour, too much helplessness, and too little self-help to beauty.

Of the qualities that may serve beauty in any age, any revival is, first, the poise that a lady cannot be a lady without. She must never get fusty or flustery about things, never go into tantrums of this kind or that. She has such control of herself and her muscles that every gesture is a pleasant move. She speaks with a softly modulated voice, another imperative "lady" command, a command that serves as well in times of woman in business strife as in the old days. In fact, from a physical standpoint, poise and a good voice are the two outstanding qualitis that always have been and always will be associated with ladylikeness.

Then we can go on to the face, where a poised hand with a pot of paint in it may write "lady" into the tinted cheek and the cheek be happier for the ladylike invasion. There is a heap of vulgarity committed on and by faces through the paint jar medium. One can be a beautifully tinted lady or a vulgarly painted creature.

Just keep those three things in mind when you're thinking about girls who will and will not be classified as ladies should the word continue in fact, as predicted.

Food Talk.

Jacob, who sold his birthright to Esau for a mess of pottage, knew that he was getting some delicious food. The pottage was composed largely of lentils, a legume that was much appreciated even in those early days. The Bible tells of the use of lentils in Egypt, Asia, and Mediterranean countries.

Legumes are still a favorite food throughout Europe. France and Germany especially are celebrated for their lentil stews and soups. With the exception of our foreign families our American population does not make a very extensive use of this valuable food. Each year, however, lentils have been gaining in favor. In the last few years we have been growing them in several states in the southwest and in Mexico. Now we are producing almost as many as we are consuming.

Lentils belong to the bean and pea family. They grow in pods, but are never eaten green. They differ from beans and peas in shape, food value, and flavor. The flat, round, disc-like seeds vary in color from yellowish gray to brown or red. They are prepared for the table much like dried beans or peas in that they are washed, then soaked in cold water several hours and simmered until tender. Lentils are richer in protein than either beans or peas. They contain approximately 25 per cent protein, 56.1 per cent starch, and 2 per cent fat. Because of a lack of fat, it is necessary to use considerable butter or fat meat to obtain the most satisfactory flavor. Lentils are richer in iron but have less lime, phosphorus, and sulphur than peas or beans. Since they contain less sulphur, they are less likely to cause flatulence and indigestion.

A bowl of cream of lentil soup or lentil croquettes made according to the following recipes will produce different yet satisfactory main luncheon dishes.

CREAM OF LENTIL SOUP.

1 cup lentils
1 cup water
2 tbsps. butter
1 medium onion
1 carrot
6 cups water
1½ tsp. salt

Soak lentils in the water for 3½ hours. Drain off water. Melt butter. Slice onion and add. When onion is slightly browned add the carrot, cut in slices, the water, salt, and lentils. Boil gently until lentils and carrots are soft [about 1½ hours]. Put through a sieve.

Yield: 3 1-3 cups pulp.

To the pulp add 1 1-3 cups milk, ½ teaspoon salt and ¼ teaspoon pepper. Heat to boiling point and serve.

Yield: 4½ cups soup, or 4 servings. One serving: Total, 275 calories; protein, 59 calories; fat, 91 calories; carbohydrates, 127 calories.

LENTIL CROQUETTES.

½ cup dried lentils
¼ cup dried lima beans
½ small onion
1 stalk celery
3 slices carrot
1 sprig parsley
½ cup stale bread crumbs
1 egg, slightly beaten
Salt and pepper
1 tbsp. butter
1 tbsp. flour
1-3 cup hot cream
Tomato sauce

Soak lentils and beans over night in cold water to cover. Drain, add 3 pints water, onion, celery, carrot, and parsley. Cook until lentils are soft, remove seasonings, drain and rub through sieve. To pulp add crumbs, egg, salt, and pepper to taste. Melt butter, add flour and cream gradually. Combine mixtures and cool. Stir until thick and smooth. Shape in balls, cones, or cylinders, roll in crumbs and fry in deep fat. Drain on unglazed paper. Serve with tomato sauce made by cooking 2 cups tomatoes and 1 slice onion for 15 minutes. Strain. Brown 3 tablespoons butter, add 3 tablespoons flour and when well blended add tomato. Season with salt and pepper and bring to the boiling point.

Electric Pianos Check Sale of Others, It's Said

Push the button pianos, electrically operated, have almost put the old fashioned, hand played instrument out of business. So declared Henry E. Weisert, president of the Chicago Pianists and Organists' association, yesterday, before a convention of middle west manufacturers and merchants at the Drake hotel.

"The number of factories has been reduced from 250 to 40," said C. Alfred Wagner of New York, president of the music industries chamber of commerce. He added that the talking machine and the radio have also seriously impaired the industry.

The purpose of the convention is to educate the American people to the beauty of hand played piano music. Bi-weekly talks and instructions in playing chords for accompaniments are now being given over a national radio hookup.

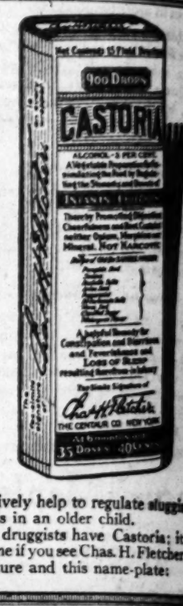
Can't PLAY
Can't REST
—child needs Castoria



WHEN a child is fretful and irritable, seems distressed and uncomfortable, can't play, can't sleep, it is a pretty sure sign that something is wrong. Right here is where Castoria fits into a child's scheme—the very purpose for which it was formulated years ago! A few drops and the condition which caused the trouble is righted; comfort quickly brings restful sleep.

Nothing can take the place of Castoria for children; it's perfectly harmless, yet always effective. For the protection of your wee one—for your own peace of mind—keep this old reliable preparation always on hand. But don't keep it just for emergencies; let it be an every-day aid. Its gentle action will ease and soothe the infant who cannot sleep. In more liberal doses it will effectively help to regulate sluggish bowels in an older child.

All druggists have Castoria; it's genuine if you see Chas. H. Fletcher's signature and this name-plate:

CASTORIA

Minister, Run-down in Health, Gains 7 Pounds in 3 Weeks

Why Be "Skinny"?

New YEAST and IRON Builds Weight. Quick Results—or pay nothing

"After a 7 weeks' revival campaign I was entirely run-down and had lost flesh so rapidly I became excited about my condition. My wife and members urged me to do something.

Then I saw your advertisement of IRONIZED YEAST and decided to give it a 3 weeks' trial. After 2 weeks I found my strength returning and the dull tired feeling gone. At the end of the 3 weeks I had gained 7 lbs. and was myself again. I can recommend IRONIZED YEAST gladly." Rev. W. H. Taylor

Stop Being a "Skinny" Weakling

Imagine just 3 weeks to change from a "skinny," tired, run-down person that nobody thinks much of, to a strong, well-filled-out, "peppy" man or woman that everybody admires. Thousands of letters like the minister's tell how ugly hollows in face and neck vanish. "Broomstick" limbs become gracefully round and chubby. Tired feeling disappears. Blemished skin clears quick.

Only when Yeast is Ironized is it so wonderfully effective—for Iron is needed to bring out the weight-building and strengthening values of Yeast. That's why IRONIZED YEAST works so marvelously. Get these pleasant little tablets in the handy bottle today. No yeasty taste. Never upset stomach or cause gas or bloating.

Try It on "Money-Back" Offer

Go to any druggist today and get a full size treatment of IRONIZED YEAST. Take it regularly as directed. If after this generous trial you are not delighted with weight and health benefits gained, your money promptly refunded by druggist or manufacturer.

CAUTION! While the amazing health-building value of IRONIZED YEAST tablets has been positively demonstrated in cases of lack of energy, indigestion, constipation, skin eruptions, poor complexion and generally weakened condition IRONIZED YEAST should not be used by anyone who OBJECTS to gaining weight. Take it regularly if you want the full benefit. And take it long enough so you not only gain but HOLD what you gain.—© I. Y. Co.

Dear Sirs:

I have only received your letter of the 25th ult., and I should have been glad to hear that you are entered in a relation with me.

Very truly yours,

Mr. Houck, in sending us the letter, writes as follows:

"We recently received an inquiry from Siedlung, Germany, regarding a loan, and know of no other source through which these people would hear of our company, except through the Chicago Tribune. We thought that you might possibly be pleased to know of this inquiry."

Thank you, Mr. Houck, we certainly appreciate receiving such evidence of the Tribune's popularity and value as an advertising medium.

Nationality a Help to Many Job Hunters

Ordinarily, nationality is a minor consideration in the business world when employers select employes, but there are jobs in which nationality does play an important part. This situation is found particularly among those engaged in home service work, butlers, maids, cooks, and similar occupations. The importance of nationality is recognized by those engaged in such work, for almost all situations wanted ads in the Domestic Help classification in the Tribune Want Ads mention nationality.

In a recent issue of the Tribune there were 17 nationalities mentioned in 31 advertisements. There were Japanese chauffers; French, German, Italian, Creole, Chinese, and African cooks; Danish, German, Irish, and French maids; French and English governesses; Polish, Bohemian, and Swedish caretakers; Austrian, Irish, German, and Norwegian nurses; as well as French and English companions. Spain was represented by an offer to translate Spanish works for writers, and Filipinos wanted work as housemen, chauffeurs and cooks. Finally, because it seems that no picture of domestic servants is complete without it, there was an offer from a "Continental trained" English butler!

Circulation and Low Cost, Factors to Be Considered

1931 presents the same business problems that have faced business men in years past, competent observers point out. There are hundreds of thousands of families in the Chicago market area who will buy food, clothing, shelter, transportation, pleasures, and cultural aids.

A vast market awaits cultivation. Business executives who have the courage to tackle their selling problems in this market with the same vigor that has been applied to reducing production costs will show a greater profit in 1931.

Advertising Big Factor.

Getting business in 1931 will not be a matter of sitting in your office or store, with lights turned low, waiting for customers to come in. On the contrary, the profits that reward courageous leadership will be won by consistent hammering. In no other way will business men, manufacturers, and retailers, be able to bring out the dollars from the consumer's pocketbook.

Want Ads Can Help Get Business.

The number and variety of businesses which use the Tribune Want Ad Section as a chief method for spurring the sale of their products or services are surprisingly large.

The many pages of real estate and rental advertising is one excellent example.

The large automobile classification offers another. The Business Opportunities column, filled with advertisements of firms and individuals who want to buy or sell businesses, contributes a big share to the whirl of commerce.

The Tribune Want Ad Section, especially the Salesmen Wanted, Agents Wanted, and Business Opportunities classifications, are used regularly by manufacturers to obtain distribution for their products. Tribune Want Ads also are used to obtain leads for salesmen. Still another important use of Tribune Want Ads is to sell direct to the consumer.

Economical Advertising.

Economical advertising is nothing more than the telling of a complete sales story attractively as possible in a publication that reaches the largest possible number of prospects in a worth while market. Of these qualifications, the circulation of the newspaper naturally is important. The Tribune Want Ad Section is placed before more than 795,000 families every weekday, a circulation far greater than that of any other Chicago newspaper.

To tell the story completely is an important point for classified advertisers to remember. While unable to illustrate their advertisements, want advertisers can make liberal use of white space with strong effect. Want ads, moreover, enjoy the value of preferred position. Readers look for them.

Want Ad Section Lively.

If the advertiser has any doubts about the value of classified advertising, let him examine the Tribune Want Ad Section carefully and reflect on what he sees. Here is a vast market place that deals in the most vital needs of men and women. He should see, moreover, that here in the Want Ad Section is real opportunity for him!

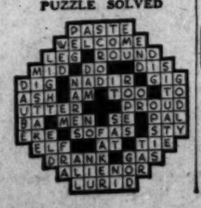
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED



U. S.-INDIA AIR AND SEA FREIGHT SERVICE READY

British Lines Span Half the World.

LONDON, Jan. 14—(AP)—Announcements were published here today of inauguration of air and ocean freight service from New York to India by way of London. The Imperial Airways and Cunard and White Star Steamship lines are the participants.

The announcement adds that it is hoped in the near future to obtain a 12,000 mile air service from San Francisco to India. A parcel then can be flown across the United States, put on a fast steamer, and transferred to an airliner at London, going thence to India by way of Cairo.

It is intended later to add an 8,000 mile African route. The announcement promises fourteen day service between San Francisco and India and not over eleven day service between New York and India.

Outlines Freight Scheme.

New York, Jan. 14.—(AP)—Negotiations for a freight service using planes, ocean liners, trains and motor trucks and spanning half the world were revealed today by P. E. Dewshea, manager in the United States for Imperial Airways, Ltd.

Inauguration by early spring of the service, which contemplates transfer of freight by plane from any point in the United States to New York, thence by fast liner to Southampton, by passenger train to London, by motor truck to Croydon airdrome and by plane to Karachi, India or any intermediary point, was forecast by Dewshea.

U. S. Air Lines May Join Plan.

Arrangements have been completed with the Cunard and White Star lines and with British customs authorities, he said, and negotiations are nearing completion with the American Express company and American customs officials, with American Air lines "ready to fall in line."

To End a Cough In a Hurry, Mix This at Home

To end a stubborn cough quickly, it is important to soothe and heal the inflamed membranes, get rid of the germs and also to aid the system inwardly to help throw off the trouble.

For these purposes, here is a homemade medicine, far better than anything you could buy at 3 times the cost. From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle, and add plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey to fill up the pint. This takes but a moment, and makes a remedy so effective that you will never do without, once you have used it. Keeps perfectly, and children like it.

This simple remedy does three necessary things. First, it loosens the germladen phlegm. Second, it soothes away the inflammation. Third, it is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. This explains why it brings such quick relief, even in the obstinate bronchial coughs which follow cold epidemics.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

SLATTERY WHIPS LEVINSKY IN TEN ROUNDS

ASKED TO QUIT; BLAMES ALUMNI FOR INVITATION

Will Hold School to 1931 Contract.

BY ARCH WARD.

H. O. [Pat] Page yesterday resigned as football coach at Indiana university. He made the announcement in Chicago, where he had come to confer with friends.

Page did not leave Indiana of his own accord. He was invited by President William Lowe Bryan to turn in his resignation three weeks ago. His successor has not been chosen and Page has no position in view.

"While I knew a certain alumni group was trying to undermine me at Indiana," Page said, "the action of the faculty board in requesting President Bryan to ask for my dismissal was a surprise and a disappointment. I felt that we were just beginning to get somewhere in football down at Bloomington.

Contract Has Year to Run.

"I have an agreement with the athletic board which calls for my services another year and I shall insist that they live up to their end of the contract. I am willing to fulfill mine. No matter whether I am successful in obtaining employment elsewhere, I shall expect Indiana to pay my salary until the expiration of my contract."

"I used to think that decent conduct, application to duty and ability to get maximum results with available material were the factors educators and the public considered in appraising a football coach. But I know now I was wrong. You must win games to hold a job in the average university these days.

Stands on His Record.

"I have no apology for my record," Page added. "I am willing to have it compared with those of my predecessors, Bill Ingram and Jumbo Stahm. When I came to Indiana in 1926 there was no football atmosphere. We wound up the season with about 18 able bodied men. This year we finished with 54. I think I succeeded in breaking up fraternity politics. The boys on the squad pull together. The members of the coaching staff have worked in harmony. Of course, as at other schools, there occasionally is friction. I naturally want every boy in school to come out for football. The basketball coach thinks the candidates for his team should stay out of football. But these are matters of trivial importance and invariably adjust themselves.

"I probably would be in good standing today if I had shown more tact. I naturally am blunt in speech and action. I don't make a practice of going out of my way to shake hands with faculty men. I spread no salve. But I gave everything I had to develop football.

Builds Up Strong Schedule.

"Through personal associations I succeeded in giving Indiana a representative schedule. We played teams that all the smart coaches who hold university degrees do not know how to fix it.

I have two sons, both practicing attorneys. Both played high school and college football. The little one was on one of Michigan's championship teams. Each was required to have two years of Latin, or some other dead language, before he could make the grade. If Yost, Rockne and the other boys would turn the football squad over to some professor who knows at least eleven dead languages, if there are that many, and who doesn't know anything about boys, sport, business, and would starve to death outside the university, and would give him full charge, there would be no "football situation" to bother any one.

In spite of their strangle hold upon the taxpayers' money, the educational situation and the years they have had to become czars, the profs are not given their rightful places and it hurts.

"Fifty-Fifty."

What is a "fifty-fifty break" in sport comment? No college ever received it in the newspapers, according to the average alumnus. We always welcome this spirit, however, as an evidence of college loyalty which is the foundation of intercollegiate competition.

The Wake recently wrote on title claims of Notre Dame and Alabama, both undefeated. We did so conservatively and fairly, we thought, because they had not met. We are confirmed in that impression by the appended excerpts from two letters:

"I have read your column a long time but hasten to tell you of all mistakes this one was the worse. Smart sport writers have not remarked at all on this subject. They knew better. So let us hope you may take this letter in good spirit and give Notre Dame the floor for Alabama are just a second and third rater compared with that team the country is holding out in front."

"I sat in a courtroom and chatted with a bunch of lawyers, college men, in re football. There were two Yale men, a Dartmouth man, a Northwestern man, and two Chicago men. The unanimous opinion was: No other college of standing in the United States would have claimed or admitted a claim of championship against the undefeated record of Alabama, especially in view of the fact that Albama had defeated the coast champion team, that Notre Dame had escaped tie with Army by a goal kick, and that Northwestern outplayed them, including the unquestioned all-American quarter back, the genius Caridco, for fifty-three minutes of the hour."

Humor on Death Bed.

Friend Harvey: Judge James J. Kelley, intimate friend of and recently elected to succeed the late Jacob H. Hopkins on the Superior bench, tells probably the last of many natural witticisms of the late judge, noted as a humorist and wise cracker.

Judge Hopkins was in Mercy hospital and death was imminent, yet he is said to have laughed and joked although keenly alive to his condition. As his special nurse who watched him constantly sat down beside his bed, he noted the abbreviation of her costume, smiled and murmured, "It looks as if my eyes were on their last legs."

THE GUMPS—IF I HAD THE WINGS OF AN ANGEL

WELL- I'M TIRED OF CONTINUALLY REMINDING YOU TO SAVE MONEY- AND QUIT RUNNING UP BILLS —
OH- YOU JUST TALK TO HAVE SOMETHING TO SAY— YOU SHOULD HAVE SOME WIVES - SAY - THEY WOULD RUN YOU RAGGEDY - YOU SHOULD HAVE AN ANGEL FOR YOUR WIFE —
WELL- I THOUGHT I WAS MARRYING AN ANGEL WHEN I MARRIED YOU-
AND I DON'T DOUBT THAT A BIT— AND THAT'S WHAT YOU REALLY SHOULD HAVE FOR A WIFE— THEN YOU'D GET ALONG —
IS THAT SARCASM? WHY WOULD AN ANGEL MAKE SUCH A WONDERFUL WIFE FOR ME?
BECAUSE- YOU WOULD HAVE NO FUR COATS TO BUY THEN— NO BILLS COMING IN AT THE END OF THE MONTH FOR HATS- SHOES- AND EVENING GOWNS— YOU WOULD HAVE NO CLOTHES TO BUY - ANGELS DON'T WEAR THEM— AND YOU COULD SPEND ALL OF YOUR MONEY ON YOURSELF— WITH SUCH A WIFE I THINK YOU WOULD BE VERY HAPPY—

GOLDEN SCORES A 70 TO TAKE LEAD IN AGUA CALIENTE

2 Under Par Card Tops M. Dutra, Dudley Stroke

AGUA CALIENTE, Mexico, Jan. 14.—(AP)—John Golden, professional at the Wee Burn club, Noroton, Conn., came through a Scotch mist which almost amounted to a hard rain today, to lead the field in the $25,000 Agua Caliente open golf tournament with a first round score of 70, two strokes under par. The stolid Golden owed his one stroke lead to a magnificent brassie shot at the home hole. Golden, after a long drive at the 18th, fired his wood second fully 230 yards, the ball coming to rest within two feet of the cup. To hole the little putt was simple.

Dudley Ties Dutra at 71.

Tied for second place where Ed Dudley, winner of the Los Angeles open, and Mortie Dutra, Long Beach, Cal., one of the most deliberate players in the competition, at 71, each winning by one stroke in the battle with par.

Dudley, whose putting touch returned in Los Angeles, after an unexplained absence, gained his position by great work on the greens. He holed no long putts, but he was down in two or better at each green and placed four birdies on his card.

Dutra was off to a great start with threes at the second, third and fourth holes. Two were birdies. He grabbed two more birdies coming home, one a two at the short 15th where he holed a big putt.

Five Bunched with 72.

Bunched at par 72 stood five players, any one good enough to win the $10,000 first money. Gene Sarazen, last year's winner; MacDonald Smith, the veteran Scot who is always a threat; Harry Cooper, the fast striding Chicago pro; Horton Smith, the young star from Missouri by way of New York, and Leo Diegel, the home pro, were in good position.

Walter Hagen and George Von Elm, the former crack amateur, playing together, had the same score—74—and Jack Forrester and Frank Walsh, who starred briefly in the Los Angeles open, could do no better than 77, which also was the count needed by Joe Turnesa, winner of the Miami open.

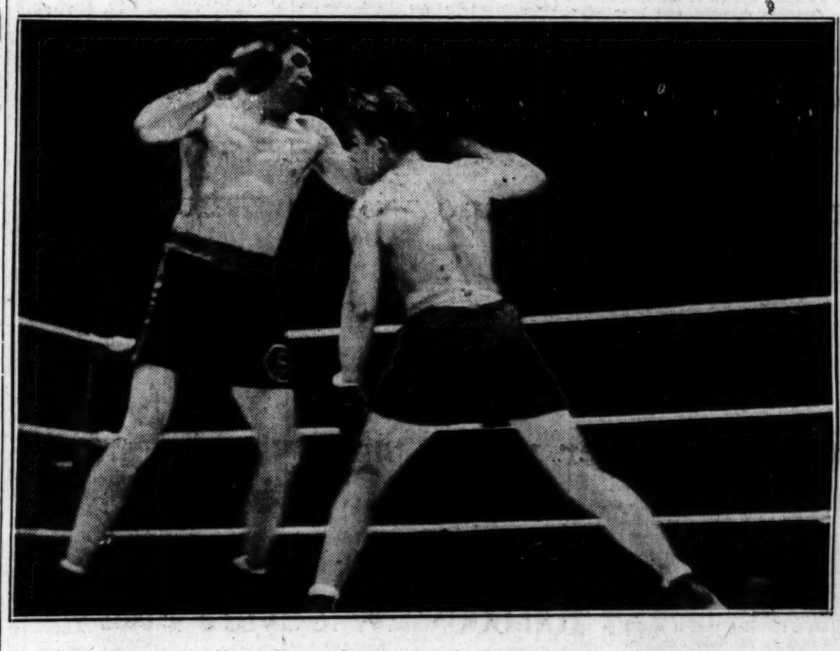
"MY KINGDOM FOR A PUNCH—"



King Levinsky drove Jimmy Slattery into a corner in the fifth round of their fight at the Stadium last night, but the Buffalo boy proved too smart for him and tied him up in one of the many clinches which featured the bout. The King tried out his new learned boxing lessons and when they failed he sought for the punch which brought him up from the preliminary ranks, but couldn't find it. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Prof. Pegler's Mail Proves Something Ought to Be Done

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 14.—What sort of mail does Prof. Albert Einstein receive and can it touch upon topics as important as those which are dealt with in mine and as thoughtfully? I have a letter, for instance, denouncing the nightshirt manufacturers for reducing the size of the handkerchief pocket and demanding an exposé.

"My pocket is so small that my handkerchief forms a hard knob and when I roll on it I wake up," the complaint sets forth. "If I sleep on my back I snore and wake myself up and if I leave my handkerchief out of my pocket it gets lost among the sheets and I have to get up and get another one. I have lost so much sleep that I am going crazy and all because some trust decided to economize on handkerchief pockets."

Mr. Alvis Writes.

Another note from Ray C. Alvis, Chicago, says: "Bearcat Wright, the colored heavyweight champion of the world, is on a ran.page. He recently boxed George Godfrey in Atlanta, Ga., and, although the referee called the fight a draw—"

Mr. Alvis goes on to imply that some injustice was done to Bearcat Wright, which I would not doubt, since he says so.

A corespondent in Ridgefield, N. J., takes a gloomy view of practically everything and doesn't even ask for an exposé, not believing it would do any good.

Says he: "All this talk of overemphas—overemfa—whatever the complicated system of symbols happen to be—about football. It seems like nothing but a lot of ostentatious wordage to me. The whole world is nothing but a dam racket, anyway. Do they (meaning whoever) expect that football is going to prove the exception?

Suggests Elimination of Fathers.

"Fathers have always subsidized athletes and my suggestion is to kill off all fathers and potential fathers if they (meaning them) really want to de-emfe—de-em—O, hell! football, and possibly everything else, which wouldn't be so bad at that. Nothing is any good and trusting that you are the same."

Now comes news of a great hearted prize fighter who used to fight for charity at the drop of a hat for 40 per cent of the gross. His manager died in reduced circumstances.

"No word came from our gladiator and no flowers were seen," a mutual friend of them writes, "although, as we, of course, know, he is quite rich. The first anyone heard from him was a letter to his friend, Joe, saying: 'The poor fellow owed me $700, but if nothing was left, he is still my pal, but if he left anything I would like to have my money.'

Garden Letters Best.

But my serial letters from the Madison Square Garden corporation are my best. They come numered, a week's series for each prizefight in the garden, and I am saving them for a book.

The series on the impending prizefight between Max Baer and old Thomas Heeney, the crushed rock from down under, will be the chapter

Ryerson Park Enters 59 in Skate Derbies

Ryerson playground will be represented by a team of 59 skaters in THE TRIBUNE'S fifteenth Silver Skates Derby at Garfield park Jan. 24 and 25.

Helen M. O'Malley, instructor, yesterday submitted a list of 23 girls, three of whom will race in the girls' senior derby. The others will compete in the girls' junior division.

Henry Meyer, the boys' instructor at Ryerson, has entered nine in the midget class, five in the intermediate derby, six in the juvenile, eight in the senior, and eight in the junior. Ryerson has produced some the city's best skaters, and this year expects to make a bid for the Eckersall team trophy.

Callaghan A. C. Names 20.

Other team entries were made yesterday by John Rehling, coach of the Providence Washington Athletic club; by the Sparton Athletic club, the Callaghan Athletic club, and the Wildcat Athletic club. Seventeen will compete for Providence Washington in the top age divisions of the boys' derbies. Twenty skaters will represent the Callaghan club, while 12 will skate for the Spartans, and eight for the Wildcat A. C.

Erwin Knast, 700 Mineral street, Milwaukee, Wis., will represent the Rainbow Athletic club of that city in the men's senior derby. The entry was made by Ed Klein, manager.

Priscilla Richey, who last year won the girls' junior Silver Skates, will compete this year in the girls' senior event. Her younger sister, Margaret, will race in the junior division. Both girls are members of the Barrett A. C.

Cold Permits Practice.

The advent of cold weather will permit Chicago's boys and girls to practice daily for the Silver Skates races. While it has been possible in the last weeks to skate, the surface frequently has been soft and insecure. The west park commissioners yesterday arranged to spray the surface of the ice on the Garfield park lagoon. Within a day or so skating conditions will be the best seen this year.

The commissioners also are coöperating with THE TRIBUNE in decorating the park for the derbies and in providing a loud speaker system for the spectators. Capt. William Schramm and a detail of park police will handle the crowd as in other years.

KING FAILS TO PASS JIMMY'S EXAM IN BOXING

12,749 See Fights in Stadium Ring.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

King Levinsky's three weeks' course in boxing couldn't get him past the examination Jimmy Slattery gave last night at the Stadium. Slattery won the decision after ten rounds of jabbing, interspersed with frequent clinches. The verdict was approved by the spectators, who emphasized their sentiments because many felt Slattery merely had received justice after his unexpected defeat last November in the same ring by the King.

Stadium officials announced 12,749 paid to see the bouts. The receipts were $34,859.61.

Fans Remember November.

The enthusiasm of the crowd at this second match between the two was due principally to the belief Slattery should have been returned winner last November. Some few, a widely scattered minority, may have thought Levinsky would knock out his opponent, but these partisans never had an opportunity to back their man. From the first round to the foregone conclusion Slattery was in command. His task was easier, since the King followed his boxing lessons as taught by his new manager, Ray Alvis.

The King stuck out his left hand and jabbed in approved style, but the only moments when he looked as if he might reverse the tide of combat was when he forgot his lessons and lashed out with wild swinging right hand blows as on the night he rose to fame by knocking out Leo Lomski.

King's Eye Opened.

The crowd was tolerant. On occasion it was amused as the scowling Levinsky, the rolls of fat around his waist jiggling in time with his flat footed prancing about the erect Slattery, sought an opening which he couldn't find. Whenever he came within range Slattery turned his direction with sharp stinging left hand punches which in the ninth round opened a slight cut over the King's eye.

Neither attempted to exchange blows when locked in the numerous clinches. Levinsky's arms were tied up completely, and Slattery, sensing his complete mastery, rested until Dave Barry, the referee, pushed them apart.

Slattery slipped in avoiding one of the King's infrequent rushes in the second round and dropped to the floor on one knee, but came up before the timekeeper could start a count.

Levinsky Goes to Floor.

This mishap was equalized by Slattery's agile tactics in the eighth round, when he retreated before the King's rush, sidestepped and slapped him in the face with a short right which spun the King around and to the floor.

In the ninth Levinsky failed to hear the bell and struggled on in Slattery's grasp until Barry slapped him on the back. Then, with long strides, the King ran to his corner and leaped for the waiting stool, nearly toppling over in his eagerness to make amends for his error.

The decision of the judges and referee was unanimous. Slattery left the ring to ringing cheers, while Levinsky, once the idol of his west side, was booed until he disappeared under the mezzanine.

Lenny Wins Easily.

Mickey McFarland of Pueblo, Colo., fouled Gary Leach in the fourth round of their scheduled six round fight. Leach was against the ropes when McFarland caught him low.

Ralph Lenny, in his six round triumph over Dick Landig of Detroit, demonstrated he is one of the best lightweights in the country. Lenny, a Jersey City lad, had no trouble in stopping nearly every blow launched by his opponent and he might have won earlier had he so willed.

BOBBY JONES IS VICTOR AGAIN; DEFEATS RADIO

The champion of golf spent two hours before the terrifying microphone during the afternoon, rehearsing for his speech of less than 15 minutes.

He was in the studio of WSB fully a half hour before his scheduled time nervously fumbling with cough drops and listening to Bill Munday, radio announcer and sports writer, remind him at maddening intervals:

"Just ten more minutes, Bobby."

"Gee, Bill, don't keep reminding me, its bad enough now," Bobby replied.

Finally Munday finished with his minute and a half of introduction and called Bobby. Seated within an arm's length of the microphone, Bobby gave one last gulp and then in a clear, even southern baritone voice, his speech began.

WHITE SOX WEED CATCHERS; AUTRY GOES TO ATLANTA

That Leaves 4, and Bush Needs Only 3.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

There were five catchers on the White Sox roster. Now there are only four, and it may not be long before the pruning knife peels one of the remaining athletes out of a big league uniform.

The reduction in the available supply of south side receivers was recorded yesterday when Harry Grabiner, business head of the Sox organization, announced the release of Martin [Chick] Autry to the Atlanta, Ga., Southern association club.

No strings were attached to the portly backstop's services, but so long as the Sox have a working agreement with the Atlanta club he easily can be brought back next fall if his season's work warrants such promotion.

Joined Sox Two Years Ago.

Autry originally became a Comiskey employé in the deal that converted Gus Bib Falk into a Cleveland Indian two years ago. The Sox at the time were in dire straits for a worthwhile performer back of the bat, and Autry was accepted as the man who could fill the gap. In more than a season of use he failed to display any of the hitting which was supposed to be his specialty, so last summer he was turned over to the Louisville club. He did well as a Colonel and was recalled at the end of the season, but Manager Bush subsequently decided the player wouldn't fit into the 1931 scheme.

Surviving Autry are Benny Tate, Moe Berg, Walter Henline, and Frank Grube. Tate, after coming from Washington along with Pitcher Braxton last June, immediately took first place in the catching department, and threatens to hold it again this season. Grube is the ex-collegian purchased from Buffalo, and reports on his ability, as well as the amount of money paid for his services, assure his remaining at least until Bush has a chance to see him perform in the spring games. He was eleventh among International league hitters with an average of .347. Another recommendation for him is that John McGraw once passed him up.

Berg or Henline to Go.

The future of Berg and Henline is something for both to worry about. One of them must vacate, as only three catchers will be carried. Berg, having been around for years without producing much more than injuries, will be peddled if a deal can be arranged with some American league club. The Yanks, needing catchers, are willing to take him if the Sox's estimate of his value isn't excessive. Henline was purchased last season from Toledo.

There still is a good chance that the much talked of transfer of Willie Kamm may take place before the Sox go to camp Feb. 21. Several clubs in the circuit could make use of the veteran, who still is a long way from being through, but to date the offers for him haven't been satisfactory.

of all sports in 1921. His football teams won surprising victories, while his basketball quintets won recognition as the strongest in the country.

In good or bad years, Page's Indiana elevens came through to stop teams headed for the title, as in 1927 when they upset Minnesota with a tie, in 1928 when Indiana scored its first victory over Michigan, and during the last fall was considered a crowning triumph for Page.

Bill Ingram, who coached the Hoosiers before Page took the job, didn't have any better luck. Ingram, however, came back with the Navy and now with California, and Page believes he can do likewise.

INDIANA DELAYS ACTION.

Bloomington, Ind., Jan. 14.—(AP)—Dean C. J. Sembower of the Indiana university faculty athletic committee said tonight no action would be taken on the resignation of H. O. [Pat] Page as head football coach until the regular meeting of the committee next week.

Dean Sembower said the resignation, mailed by Page in Chicago today, had not been received by university officials. Z. G. Clevenger, athletic director, and J. W. Moenkhaus, chairman of the faculty committee, were out of the city.

Release No. 1, for use Monday morning, said:

"Where managers, trainers, and good friends have failed to correct Max Baer's headstrong training habits, love has succeeded. The smashing puncher who made a distinct hit with the garden fans last month when he fought the best bout the heavyweight division has witnessed in many months, will square off against Tom Heeney in the garden next Friday night.

An Exclusive Divorcee, at That.

"The Californian is deeply smitten by a society woman of the plus ultra, an exclusive divorcee, and Baer has been emulating Gene Tunney to acquire the finesse, polish, education, etiquette, and politeness necessary to gain entry to the social register and win the hand of the snooty society dame.

"Fired by love, the young Lochinvar or Larrup craves the title and vows to drive Max Schmeling through the stone wall at twelve paces to win his society sweetheart. His ambition is to earn $500,000 within the next year, a monetary trifle sufficient to support the belle of the Haut Monde."

Ah, love!

Dempsey Thinks Trouble with the Game Is Sharkey

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 14.—(AP)—Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion of the world, denounced Jack Sharkey in a statement issued here in connection with the latter's offer to fight the former champion "within six weeks for charity.

"In his usual cautious way," Dempsey said, "when discussing fights for charity Sharkey specifies within six weeks, realizing that it would be impossible to get into condition within that period of time."

Dempsey attacked Sharkey for criticizing his not entering either branch of service during the world war. The former champion defended his position at considerable length and called attention to $300,000 raised for the army-navy fund through bouts during the war period in which he fought. After this explanation Dempsey said:

"And now Sharkey challenges me to fight. If Sharkey really is sincere about this challenge, I ask him to repeat it when he reads this. If it is repeated in good faith, and not as ballyhoo for Sharkey and a chance for him to wave a flag I will then make an answer that should enable Sharkey to decide whether he wants a fight or not. In the meantime I think that the answer to what is wrong with the fight game is Jack Sharkey of Boston."

SHARKEY STILL WILLING.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 14.—(AP)—Jack Sharkey tonight repeated his challenge to Jack Dempsey and agreed to give the former heavyweight champion six months or any reasonable time he wished to train for a return bout with him.

N. Y. COMMISSION DECIDES THAT ITS RULES ARE RULES

Consequently Some One May Be Punished.

New York, Jan. 14.—[Special.]—Notification was sent today by the state athletic commission to all licensed clubs under its jurisdiction that rules 33 and 37 hereafter will be rigidly enforced and, in the absence of any direct official action on the pending of Max Schmeling, Young Stribling and Primo Carnera for a three cornered heavyweight championship round-robin under the direction of the Madison Square Garden corporation of Illinois, this procedure was interpreted as a threat at discipline for the Madison Square Garden corporation of this city.

Rule 33 forbids any licensed club, matchmaker, or any official connected with a licensed club in New York from entering into a contract or having any negotiations for a match with any boxer suspended or on the ineligible list of the commission, while rule 37 debars managers, matchmakers and others whose licenses have been revoked or suspended from all licensed clubs in this state.

Farley Claims Subterfuge.

The significance of the decision to enforce these rules is that the commission pursued this course immediately after the announcement of the signing of Schmeling to defend his heavyweight title in June against Stribling, with the winner to defend the crown in September against Carnera. Schmeling is suspended and shorn of championship recognition here. Joe Jacobs, his manager, is suspended and so is Primo Carnera, Italian giant, and his manager, Leon See.

Chairman James J. Farley said he regarded the three cornered movement a subterfuge.

"I resent particularly," he said, "the action of the milk fund in associating with the enterprise after the way in which the commission went out of its path many times in the past to favor the fund. I guess the milk fund has made about $1,000,000 out of bouts approved by us. After we break our own rules to help them, they repay us by associating with a bout which is arranged specifically to circumvent action which the commission thinks is in the best interests of boxing.

Chicago Milk Fund Beneficiary.

"The milk fund would not have had Schmeling signed to a contract if the commission did not insist on this as a condition of his reinstatement last year. Apparently, however, this is forgotten for when the commission seeks to compel Schmeling to defend his title against Jack Sharkey, obstacles are thrown in our path and as an excuse to avoid a meeting with Sharkey, Schmeling is signed for a bout I understand is to be held in Chicago in the interests of the milk fund."

President William F. Carey of the garden refused to comment on the situation, reiterating that neither he nor his organization was associated directly with the signing of the two title bouts. Damon Runyon declared that Chairman Farley's information that the milk fund of this city would be the beneficiary from the Schmeling-Stribling match was erroneous. The beneficiary, Runyon said, will be the milk fund of Chicago, if the match is held in Chicago.

Kucera Wins Olympic Skate Team Tryout

Al Kucera of the Henry A. A., with a victory in the 10,000 meter race and a second in the 1,500 meter event, was the oustanding star in the Olympic tryouts yesterday at Humboldt park.

Kucera and Bill Minster of the Norwegian American A. A., who won the 1,500 meter race, will represent Chicago in the national tryouts at Lake Placid with Wally Mitchell and Eddie Schroeder, who previously won places.

Marks Takes Third.

Second place in the 10,000 meters went to Cornie Ewert of the Northwest Skating club and third to Graham McQueeney of the Elgin Lions club. Wally Mitchell of the Majestic S. C., Eddie Schroeder of the Walton Arrows and Art Peters of the Northwest S. C., three of the fastest bladesters in the city, did not finish the marathon.

Henry A. A. Derby Saturday.

The same field of stars that competed yesterday and more than 400 other skaters will complete in the Henry A. A. Derby to be held at Humboldt park Saturday and the Illinois state championships at Lord's park, Elgin, next Sunday.

Reiselt Considers 3 Cushion Stars and Says He's Best

If there is any doubt as to the identity of the best three cushion billiard players in the world, just query Otto Reiselt of Philadelphia. And without hesitation Otto will reply—Reiselt.

OTTO REISELT.

Reiselt is one of the most confident players who ever handled a cue. He has been pushing the balls around the table since 1910, first as a pocket billiard player and next as a three cushionist, at which style he is a former world's champion.

Otto is a remarkable shot maker, and a good strategist, but is exceptionally temperamental. When the points are clicking Otto is difficult to stop, but when he begins missing by close margins he starts talking to himself.

Psychology plays its rôle in billiards as in any other sport. The late Bob Cannefax once related how he beat Reiselt out of a couple of games. That happened during the season of 1924-'25 when the National Three Cushion league was operating. Cannefax had lost two games to Charley Ellis in Pittsburgh, and was scheduled to meet Reiselt the next day in Philadelphia. So Cannefax, familiar with the Reiselt temperament, wired:

"Just ran out two 50 point games against Ellis in 60 innings. I'm hot, so look out for me tomorrow."

And when Cannefax met Otto he was still hot. Everything he did in the two games that day were right and everything Otto did was wrong. Bob won both games decisively.

However, Reiselt is a great performer and has rated with the first four in three cushions for ten years. He gained second money last season, beating Allan Hall in the playoff.

Otto, the optimist, is confident that he will regain the championship in the tournament which will be played at Bensinger's Congress billiard room in Chicago from Jan. 19 to 29. Seven other players will be in the title field.

(This is the fourth of a series of sketches of billiard players who will appear in the world's three cushion tournament which opens here Monday.)

Hobo Starlings Spend Winter Vagabonding

BY BOB BECKER.

Although European starlings, which are gradually increasing their numbers in the central states, Illinois included, have given us the "go by" this winter, reports from bird observers indicate that they are vagabonding around Illinois and other sections looking for food. So far we haven't seen a single flock of these hardy birds but still have hopes.

The latest report of a bunch of starlings comes from Kingston, De Kalb county, Ill. The significant thing about finding the group of birds is that they were observed first in an old orchard feeding on the fruit which had been left on the trees. U. S. biological survey experts have commented on the fact that the starling likes apples and frequently is attracted to orchards to eat unpicked fruit which is not good enough to be taken as part of the crop.

So far bird authorities haven't been able to indict the starling on the count of being a destroyer of good fruit but it certainly does like to clean up an old orchard after the good apples have been picked.

Charlotte Lilly, writing from Kingston, Ill., says that "since the first week in November eight to 25 starlings have been in an old orchard near us, attracted first by the fruit on the trees and now eating most any kind of scraps that we put out under the trees. While there was snow on the ground one robin fed with them but as the flock of starlings grew larger they seem to have scared the robin away. New Year's day when we started our 1931 bird list we saw a flock of about 35 purple finches, many females and young but enough males among them to make a pretty sight."

If bird fans will keep their eyes open this winter we haven't any doubt but what they can spot one or more starlings because the birds travel around like hobos looking for food. This European bird which was introduced into America some years ago looks much like a spotted blackbird.

Hawks to Play Bruins; Penalty Box All Ready

The Boston Bruins, National league leaders, will meet the Blackhawks at the Stadium tonight. The Bruins' ice forces will be led by the often penalized Eddie Shore. In one game this season Shore spent 32 minutes in the penalty coop, and still the Bruins won. Shore leads the league's defense men in scoring.

Flanking Shore on the defense is Capt. Lionel Hitchman. George Owen, former Harvard athlete, alternates with the two, which gives the Bruins the strongest defense in the big league.

In front of the nets Tiny Thompson, the goalie, is expected to stave off the tornado-like rushes of the Hawks, who have defeated the Bruins in two of three games this season.

Other stars comprise the main forward line of the Bruins. Cooney Weiland, center, led all scorers last year with 73 points, a world's hockey record. Dit Clapper, right wing, had 41 points, while the third member of the trio, Left Wing Dutch Gainor, passed to his line mates successfully 31 times and made 18 goals for a point total of 43.

Two veteran forwards of the Boston team, Harry Oliver and Marty Barry, are high in the scoring list, and three rookies, Red Beattie and Art Chapman, centers, and Jack Pratt, a right wing player, already have made hits with fans of Boston.

FT. WAYNE'S FREE THROWS DEFEAT BRUINS, 25 TO 21

Ability of Fort Wayne to make free throws in the closing minutes of play gave the Hoosiers a 25 to 21 win over the Chicago Bruins basketball team last night at Broadway Armory. It was the last game of the first half round. With five minutes to go Nat Hickey's long shot from near the center of the floor tied the score at 21 all.

Then the Bruins proceeded to foul themselves out of the ball game. Chadwick produced two shots from the free throw line while Husta and Saunders registered one apiece. Benny Borgeman made his first appearance in a local uniform but made only one basket.

At the end of the half the teams were tied 12 to 12.

There's Snow on Way, but It's on Wheels

A snow storm on wheels will hit Chicago this morning, despite predictions to the contrary from the weather bureau.

Six car loads of snow swept from a lake near Escanaba, Mich., will be hauled into Chicago via railroad to be taken to Fox River Grove, Ill. The national championship ski tournament will be held there Sunday.

At Fox River Grove the snow will be carried to Cary hill where it will be packed on the ski slide.

Thus the finest skiers from ten states, assembled in the field of 70 or 80, which also includes Ludwig Boeck, German champion making his American debut, will be able to compete for a national title on an Illinois slide in Michigan snow.

Boeck will arrive with the first delegation of contestants today. He started earlier than anticipated from New York and is making the trip with Rolf Munsen of Lake Placid and Harold Sorenson, who will represent the Norsemen Ski club of New York.

Three special trains will be conducted to Fox River Grove over the Chicago and North Western.

Seek Repeal of Race Mutuels at Illinois Tracks

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 14.—[Special.]—A bill to repeal the state law allowing pari-mutuel betting at horse races was introduced in the Illinois house of representatives today by Representative J. W. Harris of Chicago. It was laid on Speaker Shanahan's table and will remain there until assigned to a committee.

Marked house bill 14, the measure would continue to allow horse races but these would be conducted with "No stakes, bets, wagers, or gambling upon the results."

The bill provides that the director of agriculture appoint a representative to attend all race meetings, who would be paid a sum "not to exceed $50 per race day by the licensee," and would be charged with reporting each betting violation he observed.

BERG TO DEFEND CROWN AGAINST HESS HERE JAN. 23

Jack [Kid] Berg will defend his junior welterweight championship against Goldie Hess of California Jan. 23 at the Stadium, it was announced yesterday. Eddie Shea of Chicago and Christopher Battalino, featherweight champion, are matched for ten rounds on the same card. This bout, however, will not involve the title which Battalino successfully defended recently against Kid Chocolate.

Goldie Hess fought Tony Canzoneri, now lightweight title holder, in the east shortly before Tony met and lost to Billy Petrolle at the Stadium. Tony returned east after that match and won the championship by knocking out Al Singer. Hess' fight with Canzoneri was very close, with Tony taking the decision.

LOYOLA CAGERS WHIP ST. THOMAS QUINTET, 27 TO 8

Displaying a fast passing attack, Loyola university ran over the St. Thomas quintet of St. Paul, 27 to 8, on the north shore court last night. Loyola's zone defense was too much for St. Thomas and it was only after 3 minutes of play that Monepha broke through and gave the Minnesota team its first goal.

Loyola managed to pile up a 15 to 1 lead at half time.

St. Thomas got off to a poor start in the second half and was held scoreless for thirteen minutes. Coyne hit the net for a long shot and followed up with a free throw on a foul by Schulman. Cavanaugh and Butzen were high point men for Loyola, each making three baskets. Wagner shared honors with one basket and three free throws. Lineup:

WRECKERS TO TEAR DOWN OLD TREMONT HOUSE

BY AL CHASE.

One of Chicago's oldest loop landmarks, the eight story building at the southeast corner of Lake and Dearborn streets, erected shortly after the great fire of '71 as the Tremont house, a hotel known 'round the world, is to be wrecked. The present owner is Northwestern university which purchased the property in 1901. At that time it was remodeled from a hotel into an office building and used by Northwestern for its law, commerce, medicine and dentistry courses up to the opening of the present north side campus in 1926.

Since that date the building has been vacant except for temporary leases on the first floor. According to a university official the building is a liability as it now stands, so it will be torn down on March 1. Whether the property will be used for parking or for other purposes has not yet been determined. It is stated definitely, however, that a new building will not be erected at present.

Opened in 1873.

The old Tremont house, opened in 1873, was the fourth hotel of that name. It has an Amherst sandstone front and was designed in the French renaissance style of architecture. John A. Rice, nationally known hotel man, formerly connected with the old Grand Pacific hotel and the Sherman house, predecessor to the present Hotel Sherman, was manager of the old Tremont house for many years.

The property is just across the alley from where the Iroquois theater stood. When the playhouse burned in 1904 many lives were saved by means of planks hastily thrown across the alley from the old Tremont house to the fire escapes of the theater. On these narrow bridges men, women and children crawled to safety.

Award $7,056,000 Contracts.

Robert D. Steele, statistician for E. M. Craig, executive secretary of the Building Construction Employers' association, announced yesterday that Chicago's building program for the first two weeks of January amounted to $7,056,000 in awarded projects and $17,600,000 in contemplated work. The schedule of awarded construction includes projects listed in excess of $25,000 and is as follows:

Students' building, University of Chicago, 58th and Blackstone	$2,500,000

Mr. Craig states that approximately $250,000,000 worth of Chicago construction has been shelved temporarily by architects to await adequate financial arrangements. These figures are based on reports made by architects.

"Many of these architects declare sufficient funds will be available when the general depression begins to fade and renewed activity demands the construction of certain types of institutional and industrial types of building," said Mr. Craig.

A. T. & T. EARNS AROUND $10.40 A SHARE IN '30

BY O. A. MATHER.

The ability of great American public utilities to maintain their business and earnings in times of depression is strikingly illustrated by the American Telephone and Telegraph company, largest of corporations. A preliminary report on last year's operations was sent to stockholders by President Walter S. Gifford yesterday along with quarterly dividend checks.

The statement indicates that profits for 1930 were only about 5 per cent under those of 1929, which set an all time record, and more than covered the company's dividends. And the company not only paid full returns to its stockholders but its vast program of construction was a factor in alleviating unemployment.

President Gifford said that profits for 1930 were equivalent to about $10.40 a share. On the basis of an average of about 17,713,000 shares outstanding during the year, net earnings of around $183,235,000 were indicated. Actual net profits in 1929 were $193,-122,872, equivalent to $12.67 a share on an average of 13,113,746 shares outstanding. The capital stock was increased last year to provide funds for expansion.

"A net gain of 125,000 telephones added to the Bell system last year was much below normal growth, but not unfavorable when compared with the level of general industrial activity," Mr. Gifford said. "Construction expenditures for additions and betterments during 1930 approximated $600,000,000. The operating companies of the Bell system generally carried out their programs as planned at the beginning of the year, thus assisting in the stabilization of the employment and at the same time construction facilities available for prompt use as general business conditions improve."

Recent reports of improving conditions in the automobile industry were amply supported last night when the General Motors corporation issued its monthly sales statement. Sales to dealers in December, including Canadian and export sales, totaled 80,008 cars. This marked an increase of 40 per cent over the 57,257 cars sold in November and was almost double the 40,222 cars sold in December, 1929.

Sales to Consumers Expand.

Sales of General Motors dealers to consumers also showed a large increase. They totaled 57,989 cars last month, compared with 41,757 in November and 44,216 in December, 1929. The large increases in sales last month were attributed to the introduction of new models in November instead of in January, as in previous years.

Total sales to dealers in 1930 were 1,035,660 cars, compared with 1,535,852 in 1929, and dealers' sales to consumers were 1,057,710 last year, compared with 1,490,792 in 1929. Thus, dealers last year sold 22,050 more cars to consumers than they bought from General Motors, whereas in 1929 they sold 37,060 fewer cars than were bought. This indicates low stocks of cars in ...ands.

Steel Improvement.

Further slow improvement in the steel industry was reported in the mid-week reviews appearing yesterday. Raw steel output now is close to 44 per cent of mill capacity, compared with 41 per cent a week ago, and prices are showing firmness.

"Pipe lines, public works, rail contracts and tin plate business have added materially to mill backlogs and steel production has made another gain," the Iron Age says, "but no broad upturn in demand has yet developed. The industry is not alarmed because of the slow pickup in general demand, believing that acceleration will follow the accumulation of large tonnage business. In this connection, particular encouragement is afforded by the placing during the week of 301,500 tons of rails, 130,-000 tons of line pipe, 50,000 tons for ships and barges and 200,000 base boxes of tin plate."

Arthur Cutten Buys Seat on Winnipeg Exchange

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Winnipeg, Man., Jan. 14.—With wheat dethroned as king in Chicago grain pit, big operators in that market are transferring their activities to Winnipeg grain exchange. Arthur Cutten, long called king of traders, today bought a seat on Winnipeg exchange. Cutten was born in Ontario, but has never previously held membership on Winnipeg exchange.

For some time now Chicago grain operators have been inquiring about memberships in Winnipeg. There were several bids made for several seats back in December when, as one member said today, "Things were looking pretty black." The price since that time has shown a good increase. Cutten paid $12,600 for his membership. John Barratt and Thomas Howell, also Chicago traders, have become more interested in Winnipeg.

Pacific Gas & Electric Soon to Offer Rights

The California state railroad commission has approved the Pacific Gas and Electric company's application for authority to offer to its common stockholders rights to purchase, at par value of $25 a share, additional common stock in proportion of one new share for each ten shares held. Rights will be issued to common stockholders of record at the close of business on Jan. 26. Warrants will be mailed to stockholders on or before Feb. 11. Subscription rights expire March 11.

Schwab Defends Steel Bonus, Takes Full Responsibility

New York, Jan. 14.—(AP)—Aroused by the court attack on the profit sharing system of the Bethlehem Steel corporation, Chas. M. Schwab, chairman of the board, today assumed full responsibility for the plan's administration.

CHAS. M. SCHWAB.

The 69 year old chairman of the corporation, who built it into the second largest unit in the steel industry, issued a statement vigorously defending the profit sharing plan which has been attacked in a suit brought in a Newark [N. J.] court by stockholders who demand an accounting of the payment of bonuses totaling $34,498,668.

He said it was well known that the system had been approved by Bethlehem stockholders and with their consent its operation had been delegated to him. The responsibility for it, he said, "is entirely mine."

Never Shared Personally.

"I have never personally participated in the distributions under the system so that I might be entirely free from all possible prejudice in fixing the relative participations of the men who were to be compensated through the system for their efforts," he said.

"In administering the Bethlehem system through all these years I have exercised my best judgment and shall continue to do so so long as our stockholders and directors continue the power in me.

"I cannot state too strongly my firm belief that the Bethlehem profit sharing system has resulted to its great advantage and I shall gladly defend it with any stockholders who may question its propriety in any respect."

Mr. Schwab referred to the system as having been originated by the late Andrew Carnegie in whose employ he got his start.

"This system in substance was introduced by Mr. Carnegie in the management of all his properties and as all the world knows contributed greatly to the development and success of the business.

"I then became convinced of the great merit of such a system and accordingly established the system at Bethlehem when I bought Bethlehem Steel company. It has since been continued in Bethlehem Steel corporation and all its subsidiaries and is in use in every other company with which I have been identified; and always, with satisfactory results."

The chairman contended the value of the system was clearly shown by the fact that the cost of its executive management was less than that of any other important steel company "of which we have definite knowledge." Its value is also reflected in manufacturing costs, he added.

Ordered to Show Cause.

Newark, N. J., Jan. 14.—(AP)—The Bethlehem Steel corporation and thirteen officers and directors were ordered today to show cause Jan. 27 why they should not give an accounting for payment of bonuses totaling $36,493,668.

The order, sought by four stockholders who ask a refund of any part of the bonus total found excessive, was signed by Vice Chancellor Backes; a request for an injunction restraining the company from making any further payments pending settlement of the suit was denied.

The bonuses to high officials of the corporation were paid over a period from Jan. 1, 1911, to June 30, 1930. The complainants, all small stockholders in the corporation, said they only learned of the bonus payments last summer from testimony in trial of a suit to prevent a merger of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company with the Bethlehem corporation.

B. & O. RY. IS DENIED THROUGH ONE WAY PASSENGER FARES

Washington, D. C., Jan. 14.—(AP)—The Baltimore and Ohio railroad was denied permission today to make through one way tourist passenger rates from Washington to the Pacific coast and Rocky mountain territory.

The interstate commerce commission, rejecting an application to sell through tickets via New Orleans, Memphis, St. Louis, and Chicago, using first class rates to these gateways and low coach or tourist sleeper rates west of the Mississippi, said no emergency was shown and statutory notice could not be waived. The rates would have become effective tomorrow.

The Southeastern Passenger association two weeks ago filed similar tariffs with the commission and was granted permission to sell through tickets.

The plan of the Baltimore and Ohio was to meet what it described as competitive conditions in the Washington district.

Expect More Oil Price Cuts to Follow Humble Co. Slash

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 14.—Reductions in prices of Texas crude oil of from 2 to 28 cents a barrel, heralded as the forerunner of other cuts by large purchasers of petroleum in the midcontinent field, were posted today by the Humble Oil and Refining company, controlled by the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey.

The cut had been expected. Some of the so-called independents had been taking crude oil below market quotations of the larger buyers, and a scaling down of prices offered by the major companies was considered inevitable.

In face of the weakness of the midcontinent crude oil market, the eastern market for refined products continued to display signs of greater stability. The Texas corporation announced an increase of 1 cent a gallon on tank wagon gasoline prices in New England and New York.

Hear Oil Arguments.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 14.—(AP)—The Supreme court spent its entire session today hearing arguments on an anti-trust order against four large oil companies.

The order, issued by a three judge federal court at Chicago, required the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, the Texas company, and the Gasoline Products company to cancel patent agreements covering the cracking process for making gasoline. Arguments are expected to be completed tomorrow.

The government contended today the agreements under which the companies pooled their patents regulated the royalties to be paid by refining companies using the patents, and divided the royalties among themselves, eliminated competition, imposed restraints on interstate commerce and necessarily increased the price of gasoline to the public.

Counsel for the defendant companies contended the decision went much further than the government had requested. They added the companies through the agreements were attempting to eliminate endless patent litigation and had exercised only the rights conferred on them by their patents.

U. S. Passes Buck: Doherty.

New York, Jan. 14.—(AP)—Henry L. Doherty, head of Cities Service company, in full page advertisements to be published in newspapers tomorrow, charges the United States with "passing the buck" in the conservation of oil, and that meanwhile the national resources are being wasted.

"I have no fight with our federal officials who have been afraid to take a firm stand on this oil matter," he says, "for I doubt if they would have gotten any place in a fight with a great line of oil barons, but the situation has now gotten so bad that many of these oil barons are themselves frightened, and I believe now is the time to strike."

"Perhaps," he said, "there is no waste in all of the other business combined that equals the waste of the oil business. What is called competition in the oil field is no more competition than is a run on the bank.

"In fact, a run on a bank is not as much 'cutthroat competition' as in an oil field, because all the depositors are trying to get in their own money, and in an oil field the operators are trying to get not only their own oil, but everybody else's oil."

WHITE ROCK CO. ANNOUNCES TWO EXTRA DIVIDENDS

Directors of the White Rock Mineral Springs company announced an extra dividend of 50 cents a share on the common stock in addition to the regular quarterly of $1.00. An extra of $2.50 a share was also declared on the second preferred stock still outstanding together with the regular quarterly of $5.00 on that issue.

A dividend of $2.00 a share on the common was announced by the National Licorice company, which is double the amount paid 6 months ago when the company made its first common payment since July, 1928.

Oilstocks, Ltd., announced a quarterly dividend of 10 cents a share on the A and B stocks.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 14.—There was hardly enough business to keep the wheels moving on the stock exchange today. Only 1,276,345 shares changed hands during five hours.

A slow movement toward higher rates was discernible in the price movements, but it took careful scanning to find gains amounting to more than a point in the final tables. From the standpoint of a veteran trader, used to real transactions and price changes, the day was dull.

There was enough good news in the budget to start a real rally had there been any life in the market. The weekly Steel Trade Journal reviews told of an increase in steel operations. Motor buying in the aggregate was reported as somewhat better, a gain in freight car loadings was recorded, an increase in electric power production announced and a report of better earnings by the Reynolds Tobacco company was bulletined.

NAME RECEIVER FOR SCHULTE-UNITED, INC., AND ITS SUBSIDIARY

New York, Jan. 14.—Because of frozen assets, high priced leases, and failure to obtain normal credits, Schulte-United, Inc., dealers in men's and women's wear, and its wholly owned subsidiary, Miller's, Inc., announced today an involuntary petition in bankruptcy.

Federal Judge Francis G. Caffey appointed the Irving Trust company receiver for both concerns, without opposition.

Both are members of the Schulte cigar stores group, although M. J. Witman, vice president of D. A. Schulte, Inc., and a director of Schulte-United, Inc., said there was no financial liaison.

The Schulte organization has D. A. Schulte, Inc., as the parent company, with Schulte-United as a holding company for Schulte-United Five Cents to $1 Stores, Inc., of which Miller's, Inc., is a wholly owned subsidiary. According to Mr. Witman, Schulte-United Five Cent to $1 Stores, Inc., operated 54 junior department stores with a book value of $20,000,000 and liabilities of $18,000,000, including stock.

He denied a report that Schulte-United, Inc., has liabilities of $16,000,-000 and assets of $8,900,000.

AD CAMPAIGN ADVOCATES WAR ON PESSIMISM

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 14.—A campaign "to banish the destructive spirit of pessimism now prevailing" has been started by the Philadelphia Business Progress association through the medium of newspaper advertising. Ernest T. Trigg, president of the association, announced today.

An appeal to business men and trade associations to join the movement is being broadcast today through newspaper advertisements in thirty-five cities throughout the country.

"Technically we are ready for a forward movement but morally we are not because the one considerable factor that is not liquidated is our ever inflated pessimism," Mr. Trigg said. "Let us start an appeal to reason that will sweep over the country. This is the psychological moment. The year brings an instinctive hospitality to new ideas. Communities will listen to them now."

Advertising is an educational force that has lifted our standards and contributed in an invaluable manner to the greatest era of progress ever known, Bennett Chapple, vice president of the American Rolling Mill company, said in an address before the Chicago Association of Commerce yesterday at the Hotel La Salle. The address featured the opening session of the three day exhibit of advertising and sales promotion campaigns sponsored by the advertising council of the commerce body.

COMPLETE PLANS FOR $300,000,000 NITRATE COMBINE

SANTIAGO, Chile, Jan. 14.—(AP)—Finance Minister Carlos Castro Ruiz tonight announced the completion of negotiations in New York for a $300,-000,000 nitrate combine known as the Cosach (trade name for Compania Salitrera de Chile, or Chilean Nitrate company).

He added that with negotiations completed by Chilean government representatives and nitrate interests on one hand with bankers on the other, the great combine to control the nitrate industry is now established.

The Cosach, or gigantic nitrate trust, has the Chilean government as a 50 per cent partner and was organized last year after conferences of Chilean producers with European makers of synthetic nitrates. The American Guggenheim interests also were closely allied.

Under the plan the government gets a half interest and thus terminates the export tax, bringing a virtual nationalisation of the nitrate industry in Chile.

Earnings have declined since 1927. In the fiscal year ended June 30, 1930, net income, after all charges, including federal taxes, was $450,080. This was 1.65 times dividend requirements on the 113,459 shares of $2.40 class A convertible preferred [no par] and was equal to $1.16 per share earned on 129,933 shares of no par class B common.

In the preceding year net income was $624,931, equal, after class A dividends, to $2.50 per common share, against net of $758,243 in the year ended June 30, 1928.

The company's secretary was quoted as saying that sales in the quarter ended September 30, 1930, were approximately 7 per cent lower than in the like period of the preceding year. Earnings were said to be satisfactory.

With the quarterly payment on September 2, 1930, the dividend rate on the class B stock was reduced from $2.40 to 60 cents per annum.

As of June 30, 1930, current assets were $2,408,581, and current liabilities were $303,693, leaving a working capital of $2,104,888, which compares with $2,545,367 a year before. Surplus declined from $1,672,773 to $1,345,249 during the last fiscal year.

Depends on Contract.

I bought one share in a finance corporation and lent them $7,000 on contract, which they now construe to mean shares and they are going to assess me, but I cannot pay that assessment. If they take judgment against me can they take my whole income or must they allow me a certain amount to live on? I get a pension of about $300 a year.—R. H.

Not being in possession of all the facts we are not in a position to advise you. Much would depend upon the wording of the contract you mention. We suggest that you consult an attorney, or, if you do not care to do that, show the contract to your banker and ask his advice.

An Appeal to Reason Addressed to Business Associations, Civic Societies, and Patriotic Americans Generally:

This is the psychological moment for someone to do a national service by appealing to the reason of the American people to banish the destructive spirit of pessimism now prevailing. For want of a better agency, it may not be inappropriate that the attempt should be made by a member of a group of business men of Philadelphia, the city where our nation came into being and which is typically American in culture and experience.

I feel sure I speak the minds of my associates when I say that the most considerable factor retarding business recovery today is that the courage, sanity and mental energy characteristic of the American people have for the moment been allowed to be submerged.

Our whole business structure suffers from inertia produced by a predominantly negative psychology and our resulting state of mind today is as illogical as it was at the beginning of the period of depression, when we fed ourselves on Pollyanna-ish delusions instead of bringing about as individuals a deflation that was later painfully thrust upon us in the mass.

The past year has brought liquidation in all the important economic factors whose over-expansion produced the conditions from which we have suffered. In other words, on the material side fictitious values have been cleared away. But they have not been cleared away on the spiritual side. Technically we are ready for a forward movement but morally we are not. The one considerable factor that is not liquidated is our over-inflated pessimism.

The forward movement cannot come until we recognize that the prevailing pessimism is not merely a state of mind but an economic fact. Pessimism in an individual is an allowable personal idiosyncrasy. Pessimism in the whole people is an intolerable destroyer of economic values.

The first necessary step in correction is to be sure that we understand ourselves. Let us recognize that we have reached the stage where the pessimistic reaction is an instinctive and unthinking habit. It has reduced us to a state of being incapable of looking facts in the face and assigning them to their proper perspective. Our whole talk and thought is about unfavorable elements. Good news and constructive developments are either disregarded or disbelieved—a defeatist attitude.

Our attitude toward the unemployment situation illustrates this. No sensible man, of course, will deny that there is unemployment on a scale larger than normal. No one will be anything but sympathetic with efforts that are being made to relieve it. Both from the human and the economic aspect, unanimous opinion will support the creation of work for those who lack it and the rigid maintenance of wage rates for those who are employed so that customary living standards may be adhered to.

When all that is conceded on unemployment, however, the fact remains that if conditions in Philadelphia parallel those in the rest of the nation, the situation that prevails is being allowed to have an effect exaggerated beyond its real necessity.

The census figures released within the last few days show that Philadelphia had an unemployment of 4% last April. Suppose that has doubled or tripled in the meantime and has now reached 12%. Bad enough, indeed, but we make it infinitely worse by devoting all our attention to it. Who stops to consider the implications of the fact that there must be 88% employed? The 12% dominates our mental attitude instead of the ratio of 12 and 88 to 100.

It is the same in other cities. Everywhere we are magnifying our evils and failing to evaluate the constructive side.

It is time for those of independence of mind to assert themselves. There is beginning to be good news—not a little of it. That is why our national state of mind is a vital issue at the moment. For all anyone can prove to the contrary, we may be at the bottom of the depression level now. If we are, a pessimistic attitude will keep us there and a sane recognition of constructive facts will turn us along the upward curve with ever-increasing momentum. We will all be gainers if we reach for prosperity instead of remaining in our present state of stress and waiting for it to be thrust upon us.

The present moment is a test and we shall do well to take stock of ourselves and see how we may restore the American tradition of a virile nation.

What is the practical remedy? Use of the new instrument the present age has discovered: What President Wilson called "pitiless publicity."

It is the suggestion of the organization over which I preside that business associations, trade organizations, civic societies, business firms, professional men and private individuals become definitely active. We ask them to put campaigns under way at once in their communities by newspaper advertising, by circularization, by personal contact and by all the other many ways that are available. What we suggest is eminently practical. This is the psychological moment. A new year brings an instinctive hospitality to new ideas. Their communities will listen to them now. Let us start an appeal to reason that will sweep across the country.

Let us challenge public sentiment so that it will become nationally recognized that the person who goes around peddling pessimism and refusing to give proper weight to the bright side of the picture is as definitely unpatriotic as he would have been if he had talked against the cause of the Allies during the World War. Let it be understood that the irresponsible rumor-monger is today as much of a traitor to his country and to the best interests of his fellow-citizens as if he had helped the British in the days of Washington.

News and Gossip of Stock Marts

United Fruit Showing.

Wall street heard yesterday that its annual report, or at least the preliminary figures, of the United Fruit company for last year will be available in the near future and that the showing will not be especially impressive. On the basis of unofficial estimates it was indicated that the company would show its $4.00 dividend requirements a little more than covered out of 1930 profits. This would indicate that operations in the final quarter resulted in little more than an even break for the company.

General Theaters.

It was learned on good authority that a rather substantial block of General Theaters stock, which had been overhanging the market, has been removed. According to such information, this stock was taken up by insiders. The action of the stock during the day appeared to indicate that a good deal of potential nearby selling had been eliminated.

Mixed Expectations.

CORPORATION EARNINGS

DETROIT BANKERS.

Reports total net earnings of $7,353,241 for year ended Dec. 31, equal to $4.14 per share on the 1,776,205½ shares authorized according to a statement issued at the annual meeting.

YORK ICE MACHINERY.

For the fiscal year ended Sept. 30 reports no income of $1,276,527, compared with $1,582,184 in the year ended Sept. 30, 1929, and $1,393,563 in the year ended Sept. 30, 1928.

WIL-LOW CAFETERIAS.

For the quarter ended Dec. 31, the first of its fiscal year, reports net earnings after all charges of $89,480, compared with $7,680 for the same quarter in 1929. Earnings were equivalent, after preferred dividends, to 47 cents a share on the no par common stock outstanding.

SWEETS COMPANY OF AMERICA.

DOMESTIC WHEAT MARKETS FORGE FIRMLY ONWARD

Old Crop Months Behave Rather Tightly.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Bearish news from abroad had no effect on the domestic wheat markets yesterday. They forged ahead to a new high on the present movement, with old crop months acting tight. Old May was up to 84¼c, the best since Oct. 28, and the finish was at the top, while March was 82½c. Net gains were ⅛@¾c. After a small dip early July rallied 2¾c from the inside figures and closed 2¼c higher at 69⅝c, the highest at which that future has sold since Dec. 18.

Shorts and commission houses appeared to be impressed with the idea that there was little surplus wheat in the country other than owned by the stabilization corporation. Buying was rather persistent, while selling was credited to the farm board agency. There was some buying of July against sales of corn by spreaders which helped along the upturn in the new crop month, and sellers of offers were forced to protect themselves on the way up.

France Buys Canadian Wheat.

In the face of rather pronounced weakness in the Liverpool wheat market, where prices were ⅞@1¼d lower, there was an aggressive export demand with sales of around 1,000,000 bu Manitobas claimed in all positions. The latter included 400,000 bu to France, resulting in a belief that there might be a change in milling regulations in that country on the use of foreign grain. Houses with eastern, Chicago, and continental connections were good buyers of futures at Winnipeg, but the latter closed ¼@⅝c lower. Buenos Aires was off as much as 2⅝c at one time, but rallied later and closed 1¼@1⅝c lower. Owing to government support the Argentine exchange rate advanced ⅝c and was 30⅝c at the last, which had some effect on wheat prices in that country.

Business in Australian wheat with India has been larger than reported, as Broomhall claimed during the day his agent cabled that 3,000,000 bu had been sold for October-November shipment to the orient. Purchases by India are said to have been stimulated by the existing drought. The trades reported in the last two days have been kept as quiet as possible by European operators.

Corn Closes Higher.

Spreading operations with corn sold against purchases of July wheat put considerable pressure on the former grain, but the undertone was not weak as local operators were fair buyers. There was also increased support from commission houses. Closing trades were at net gains of ⅝c with March, 70⅝@71c; May, 72⅜@72¾c, and July 73⅝@73¾c.

There was some talk of the northwest offering cash corn to come to Chicago, but purchases to arrive during the day were placed at only 22,000 bu, with none reported from terminals. Feeders were said to be buying steadily in the interior, which has a tendency to hold down the movement to terminal markets. Receipts continue to run well below those of a year ago. Outside markets were reported as outbidding Chicago downstate, a leading Illinois industry taking the bulk of the grain offered.

Houses with northwestern connections sold oats futures early and were followed by the local element, but the latter turned buyer when corn started upward. The close was unchanged to ⅛c higher. March finished at 34⅛c, May, 34⅜c, and July, 33⅜c. February oats at Buenos Aires sold at 14⅝c early in the day, but closed ⅝c higher at 15⅛c.

A good part of the trade in rye was in spreading between that grain and wheat and corn. Closing trades were ⅛@1c higher with March, 42⅛c; May, 43⅜c, and July 44⅛c.

RECESSION IN LARD

Increased selling of lard futures, due to the decline in hog prices, was responsible for a close yesterday at the inside with net losses of 7½ to 17½c. January leading, owing to increased liquidation. Liverpool lard was 6d to 1s 3d higher. Export clearances were 284,895 lbs and of bacon 214,000 lbs. Top yesterday, $8.60; average, $7.65.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 7,000 cattle, 62,000 hogs, and 12,000 sheep.

Cattle brought strong to higher prices yesterday, while lambs lost more of the recent gain and hogs receded 10@15c after a steady to 10c lower opening. Hog receipts were large for Wednesday, and with shipping demand smallest in two weeks, barring Saturdays, buyers held the upper hand all day.

Larger interests were principal buyers at the close, Armour, Swift and Wilson handling almost 14,000, about half of this number consisting of 240@270 lb butchers bought here at $7.45@7.70. The extreme top light weights to shippers at $8.25 showed 10c loss, while the general average was off 10c at $7.65. A few pigs at $8.35 were no criterion of the general market for top hogs.

March Hogs Bring $8.50.

Hogs averaging 210@260 lbs to be delivered during the first half of March were sold at $8.50 on the futures market yesterday. January light were bid $8.10 and offered at $8.35, while February contracts were bid $8.50. Hogs averaging 170@210 lbs for delivery during March and April carried bids of $9.00, but there were no sellers at that figure.

Gains of 25c were general in the cattle yards yesterday, the few well finished steers and yearlings showing the biggest advances. Cows were stronger, while light yearling heifers continued slow.

Choice 970@1,109 lb yearlings topped the price list at $13.50, while $13.25 was paid for 1,256 lb averages. Some plain quality 1,087 lb steers sold at $7.50, while common steers ranged down to $6.60. Calves were steady to strong. Stockers and feeders were scarce and firm.

Many Lambs at $8.15.

Many medium to good grades of slaughter lambs sold at $8.15 yesterday, although packers paid upwards to $8.40 for the best selections averaging 85@90 lbs and city butchers took light weights of outstanding quality as high as $8.60. Prices were weak to 25c lower than on Tuesday's session. The trade was slow and unsatisfactory, despite the fact that receipts are being held down. Aged sheep were steady, handy ewes going for slaughter at $4.50, while yearlings were weak. Feeding and shearing lambs sold steady.

See 10 Pct. Reduction in Corn Belt Cattle Feeding

A reduction of 10 per cent in the number of cattle on feed in the 11 corn belt states on Jan. 1, as compared with last year, is indicated by advices to the department of agriculture. Cattle in the five states east of the Mississippi river decreased 15 per cent and in the six states west of the river 8 per cent. Nebraska was the only state reporting an increase, with all the others decreasing, except Minnesota, where there was no change. The number on feed is the smallest since 1921, and probably the smallest since 1916. The decrease this year is a result of heavy losses by feeders in 1929 and to difficulty in financing feeding operations.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was quiet today with offerings more numerous and at a concession of 1-32c or on the basis of 3.38, for spots duty paid.

Raw futures were quiet again and in absence of aggressiveness either way, price movements were narrow and unimportant. The market opened steady and unchanged, but later showed net losses of 2 to 3 points under liquidation and commission house selling.

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, Jan. 14.—(AP)—COTTONSEED Oil—Was quite active today, but trading was largely in the way of exchanging between March and July contracts. The tone was quite steady early but easiness developed later, partly on the weakness in lard and on a report that 250,000 barrels of extra loose tallow had sold at 4¾c f. o. b. A decline of ¼c and the lowest price in 20 years. The closing was easy with prices 23 points lower to 1 point higher. Sales were 18,750 bris. Prime crude, 6.12½c; prime summer yellow spot, 7.25c; January closed, 7.35c; March, 7.33c; May, 7.44c; July, 7.55c.

PRODUCE MARKETS

Spot butter advanced ½@1c early, but the undertone was unsettled. Fresh eggs were offered more freely and declined ½@1¼c. Live heavy hens were 1c lower and light hens 1c higher, both selling at 21c. Other poultry was unchanged. Receipts by freight, 3 cars. Potatoes steady to strong, with Idahos in good demand. Receipts, 58 cars, with 166 cars on team track.

COTTON TRADE NARROW

Consumption of cotton in the United States last month was 406,207 bales, compared with 452,685 bales last year. Its effect on the market was taken as slightly bearish, but prices moved within a narrower range, selling off only 12 points at the extreme and closing 1 point lower to 5 points higher on futures in Chicago, and unchanged to 4 points higher in other markets. Cables from Liverpool were 5 points lower at the close with spot sales 3,000 bales.

Spots were 5 points higher in New York at 10.15c; New Orleans unchanged at 9.70c; Galveston, 9.90c, and Houston, 9.80c. Prices follow:

OUR USED CAR BUSINESS IS GREAT

THAT'S BECAUSE OUR PRICES ARE THE LOWEST IN CHICAGO

BUICK VICTORIA. This car must be seen to be appreciated. It's a 4 pass., equipped with 4 whl. brakes, snubbers, spare tire, heater, bumpers, etc. It's in splendid all around condition and the motor runs smoothly and quietly. A remarkable buy at $95.

FORD COACH. One of the very latest model A's that was in storage for 11 mos., and the result is it's in new condition today. The finish sparkles like a new dollar and the upholstery, tires, and motor are in wonderful condition. Very fully equipped. $295.

CHRYSLER ROADSTER. Here is a sporty car that never left the Chicago blvds. We do not believe you can duplicate this Roadster any place else in Chicago at twice the price. Equipped with shutter front, bumpers, spare tire, glass sides, etc. Has a sweet running motor. Only $295.

STUDEBAKER VICTORIA. 1928 Commander 4 pass. with expensive mohair upholstery, and the finish is in dandy condition. The motor was checked over by expert Studebaker mechanics. Has 4 whl. brakes, snubbers, bumpers, spare tire, etc. Will not remain 24 hours at our price of $195.

PONTIAC SEDAN. A recent model that was oiled and greased every 500 miles by the original owners. Now a careful checkup will reveal that it looks and runs as though direct from the factory. 4 whl. brakes, shock absorbers, bumpers, spare tire, etc. $325.

PLYMOUTH SEDAN, 1929, that was owned by a wealthy family in conjunction with a Studebaker and Chrysler-Airflow. It was therefore given very little use, so it looks and performs like a brand new car today. Has new tires and a wealth of extra equipment. Only $395.

CHANDLER 8 SEDAN. This was one of the very latest models manufactured. It's up inches in the car from bumper to bumper, and then take it out for a trial drive, you'll agree with us that it's topnotch in every respect. Its performance is a marking and the appearance is beautiful. Many extras. $495.

MARMON CABRIOLET. This late model Little 8 is finished a canary yellow and has a spacious rumble seat. It's a low slung car that has several important extras and only driven occasionally for pleasure purposes. It's equipped with every essential extra. For comfort, beauty and performance this Marmon is hard to beat at our price—$445.

STUDEBAKER SEDAN, 1928 Str. 8 President, 7 pass. The original owner died 8 mos. after taking possession and the car was laid up in mothballs for over a year. Now it's in remarkable condition. First cost was over $2,000. Special today for $750.

HUPMOBILE 8 COUPE, 1930. Actually used less than 90 days. Duco'ed a distinctive maroon. Has luxurious leather upholstery, spare tires carried in fender wells, trunk, roomy rumble seat, driving light, shutter front, and other valuable extras. This perfect looking car will positively give you new car satisfaction now, and it's offered at only a fraction of its new car cost.
